

0.519

5¥£ 3.,

- i-a

100 🖬 - Pyti,

1 200 -

11 Sec. 1940

3 2 4.....

Ser. E die ter

Sec.

10.0 * 18 B

Gigen 1

Gitz .

1. Maxie

🗮 🖾 🛼 💬

tu negati in si teta

1.

Service with

S. 34.

1.455 ...

Stor In spins

an fried

1

195-1

17. 14

Read a

P. Oak Mary

. . . .

6 P.C.

the America's i 10.

your -

100 TO 10

يتر بخر

. موجوع المحافظ ا محافظ المحافظ ا

i i provi Second

ميشين مېښې و لر

. ...

.....

.

-

445

-

A. 3.

Acres 644

the second

12.4.1

41.5

. I. L.

4.7

÷3.

State Strategy

R. Star.

5. . . .

12

100

PARIS, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981

Established 1887

Premier Flees s Thai Troops eize Bangkok

oK - Disgruntled milias announced Wednesthey had removed Prehoodless coup, but Gen. to the provincial army forat and made a radio warsing the coup lead-down their weapons. mored the deadline that issued for them to surtroops than he did and had no plans to negotiate

y sources said that at, rackloads of troops based and loyal to Gen. Prem hed. Saraburi, about 55 theast of Bangkok. Koquarters of the Second 150 miles northeast of the here was no independent ion of the report. 'rem, who said that the ily also had flown to Kotarea. No curfew was ishe coup leaders in Bang-

Frem; himself the counf military officer, denied had resigned as premier ny commander-in-chief, , was led by Gen. Sant na, deputy commander of Gen. Prem's protege and musicd aide.

Calm of Support ides said that they had the bort of Thailand's army, , navy and police. In-ources said that the depuander of the air force had essage to Bangkok saying air force had played no te coup. nouncements over Radio - the first government ion, scized - the coup promised to abide by all eign commitments. Diploid that they did not expect p to affect Thailand's proin s nce. ri diplomats said they ery about the possibility of at, but there were no imreports of fighting, icputy commander of the Army, Gen. Athit Kama close supporter of Gen. ras reported by military. to be in charge of the pproaching Bangkok. In tal, Radio Thailand said coup leaders ordered Gen. unprecedented move, Gen.), evoked the name of the change king. In turn, the coup leaders accused him of "dragging the monarchy into politics."

"At this time the king and the queen and the entire royal-family are residing in an area under the responsibility of the Second Army," Gen. Prem said in his broadcast.

Thailand's popular King Bhumibol never interferes in politics and Gen. Prem's use of the king's name was a clear indication the king considered the situation so serious that a gesture on his part was necessary.

The coup leaders announced the formation of a revolutionary council, which broadcast a statement calling Gen. Prem "a person of low morals and weak as a woman."

"Our country could not proceed toward its development plan be-cause we have a premier like Gen. Prem Tinsulanond who is honest but lacks the ability and the knowledge to solve the country's mounting. problems," the state was Thailand's fourth coup since 1973.

Palace Refuge

Gen. Frem said the Thai people did not support the coup and or-dered soldiers supporting the reb-ets to return to their units immedimely.

DECR

Gen. Sant, 59, made a 15-minute television appearance several hours after his takeover to justify the action and to promise government and sodal morns. However, he did not announce formation of Thai troops inspect a car outside the royal palace grounds in Bangkok after the military coup.

Solidarity Lifts Alert For National Strike At Stormy Meeting

GDANSK, Poland - The Solidarity union leadership voted in a stormy meeting Wednesday to lift 2-week-old nationwide strike alert, hut ordered the walkout threat maintained in the northwest province of Bydgoszcz.

The vote removed the imminent ssibility of a national strike that had been in effect since a Solidarity leader and three other men were beaten by police in Bydgoszcz on March 19. "The strike alert has been called summer.]

off in the country, but remains to effect in the province of Bydgoszcz," a spokesman for the independent union's 41-member commission said.

It was the second time in two days that the union leadership took a major step to reinforce the calm that has prevailed since Mon-day night, when Solidarity leader start to Poland Wednesday with what seemed to be a fair selection and ample quantity of meat, some of which had not been seen hy shoppers for months, Reuters re-ported from Warsaw.

(The measure, the first of its kind since just after World War II. was introduced at the insistence of Solidarity, which first pressed this demand in the strike accords signed with the government last

Meanwhile, the East German news agency ADN said that the Warsaw Pact maneuvers, now

The EEC Commission pro-poses food aid to Poland worth $40 million. Page 2.

tinuing in East Germany and along Poland's Baltic Coast. Reports from Washington said

Reagan, Rebounding, Conducts State Affairs

uivities.

WASHINGTON - A high-spirited President Reagan, nut of the totensive care unit, is walking amund and conducting "husiness as usual" in a suite at George ashington University Hospital, his doctor and aides said on Wednesday. They said that the president stayed up until 11 p.m. nn Tuesday with his wife, Nancy, to watch the first hour of the televised Academy Awards presentation. He slept for four nr five hours and began a husy morning tackling White louse affairs.

"Although he is somewhat un-comfortable, the president slept quite well," said Dr. Daniel Ruge, Mr. Reagan's personal physician. "He has been out of bed and walked. The move to the suite was made sooner than expected. Tuesday night, one day after president and three other persons were wounded by a gunman to an assassination attempt outside foods and was "in good condition. but is experiencing some pain and fangue to response to his injury." Dr. Ruge said that the president's a Washington botel.

Executive Order

vital signs remained nnrmal. White House chief of staff The president's hreathing is painful because the bullet cracked James A. Baker 3d said on a television program that Mr. Reagan the seventh rib and he has a 6-toch signed some nomination papers chest incision from the operatinn Tuesday evening and an unspeci-Also, there are two tubes still fied executive order Wednesday morning.

When Mr. Baker and other aides connected to suction devices. finished a meeting with Mr. Reagan Wednesday morning, be Even so, Mr, Reagan was requiring almost no pain medication at was eating breakfast sitting in a all, according to Dr. Dennis S. O'Leary, dean fur clinical affairs at George "It's really business as usual," said White House counselor Edwin lospital. Meese 3d, who said the president had set up a "full-time nffice" in his hospital suite. "The president is fully capable Mr. Reagan was having serious difficulty breathing and was experiencing chest pain when be walked into the emergency room Monday, minutes after having nf taking acrinns," Mr. Baker said. 'We've had to cancel very few acbeen shot at the Washington Hil-ton Hntel. His blood pressure was

Mr. Meese indicated nn annther low and falling, and he had been spitting up blood fram the wound television program that, because of Mr. Reagan's "remarkable recovin his lung

"Acute Distress" New questions about the way Alexander M. Haig Jr. is con-ducting himself in office. Page "He was definitely in acute distress," Dr. William O'Neill, a surgical intern who treated Mr. Reagan in the emergency room, Evidence suggests that John W. Hinckley Jr. may have actsaid. "He was uncomfortable. The president's life was in seed because of a romantic love fantasy for an actress. Page 3.

rious danger until a team of doc-tors gave him fluids and blood transfusions by vein and did chest surgery to stop the bleeding. Dr. O'Neill said. be might be discharged from the hospital early next week,

"The first thing the president mentioned to me was that he had been coughing up blood since the event," Dr. O'Neill said, "He had The White House said that Mr. Reagan was starting to eat solid complained of chest pain and sbortness of breath. He denied having lost consciousness." Dr. O'Neill said that the amount of blood Mr. Reagan was spitting up was nnt severe. "There was blood-staining of his lips and teeth and there was blood in the back of his throat.

Emergency Room

draining material from his lungs through his skin. The tubes are When Dr. O'Neill examined Mr. Reagan to the emergency room, the physician said that the president's respirations were rapid. "to the high 30s," or about twice the usual rate. Mr. Reagan's pulse was recorded at 88, or slightly in-Washington University creased. "His blood pressure was (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Contrary to earlier impressions,

U.S. Indicates Shift in Namibia Policy, Emphasizes Continued Foreign Contacts

By Bernard Gwertzman New York Times Service

WASHINGTON - Reagan administration officials say that the United States is prepared to dis-chair.

more than 2 weeks old, were conking must give royal approval. Sandbagged machine-gon nests were thrown up at street corners near strategic government build-ings when the coup was mounted. Tanks and jeeps full of troops blocked roads around army headquarters and the parliament. Police scaled off all streets in the government office area, but traffic was normal elsewhere in Bangkok. Ra-dio and television stations played patriotic music with repeated announcements of the government

Gen. Sant Chitpatima

Prem Tinsulanond

homeini Calls for Widespread Purge Judiciary and Revolutionary Guard

Reuters

AN - Ayatollah Ruholnomeini issued a call day for purges of the judiciary and the revoluguards, two of the counst cherished institutions. Islamic law. address marking the resecond anniversary, he members of both groups ing a part in disunity in message was read on the dio after rain had washed ass rally at which it was to en delivered by the ayatol-1. Syed Ahmad. It attacked called numormongers, op-of the government and ers of the superpowers, yatollah also called on jud-thorities to "set up delegastudy the country's courts miss unsuitable judges and Drosecutors. id: "Some of those holding specially in the courts, revry committees and prodiffices, have created illbecause of their negligence

Iranian sources said that his "The revolution cannot accept words were at least in part directed them and will punish those who do against judges who since the revo-intion had ordered severe punishments and confiscations of property beyond those sanctioned by

Spy Charges Dropped

Under the 1979 constitution, LONDON (UPI) - Iranian auindges can be dismissed by decision of the higher judicial council, composed of Islamic clergymen. thorities have dropped charges of espionage against a British busi-nessman, Andrew Pike, detained The Iranian leader called for for eight months in a Tehran jail, ecution of those among the the Foreign Office said Wednes-day. But it said Iran had told Brit-50,000-member revolutionary guard who had "strayed away ish officials orally that charges "refrom religion and moderation and garding financial matters" are are interfering in matters that are are tournering in matters that are up to the courts or other institu-tions, which is against the law and Iskam." The gnards, who are de-ployed nationally, have often sionaries, and all four were held on suspicion of spying. The charges against the missionaries were appeared to be answerable to no dropped and they were released to "It is up to their commanders to February, but Iran said at the time purge them and deliver them up to that charges of spying and embez-zlement against Mr. Pike were still the courts if they have committed crimes," the message said. It warned speakers and writers under inquiry. British officials have been given permission to visit against "discordant and provoca-tive statements," and declared: him m jail.

strike. Tuesday's Vote

The National Committee voted Tuesday night to approve Mr. Walesa's decision calling off the general strike. But neither that vote nor Wednesday's decision to lift the strike alert came easily.

Mr. Walesa's leadership of the free union was criticized as it has never been since the labor group took form in the summer strikes in the Baltic shipyards. Some union members felt that Mr. Walesa had given in too easily to the government and they made their objec-tions known in the noisy committee meetings. An indication of the opposition came when only 22 of the committee's 41 members voted to approve calling off the strike. Six members abstained and nine failed to show up for the ratification vote.

The militants charged that the government did not guarantee as part of the Monday compromise to dismiss officials believed to be bebind the police attack and that it did not push hard enough either for the recognition of a rural Solidarity union or for the release of political prisoners.

Sellout Charged

Jan Rulewski, the Bydygoszcz Solidarity leader who was hospitalized after the police beating, called the agreement a disgrace and charged that Mr. Walesa "sold out," giving away too much in out," giving away too much in "manipulations."

"We did not win anything," Mr. Rulewski said.

cized the U.S. Embassy for giving visas to four defecting Afghan Em-

Mr. Walesa to turn accused some union leaders of not heeding the wishes of the rank-and-file. "Some union leaders broke away from their plants and represent their own opinions," he said.

[Fuil-scale meat rationing appeared to have got off to a good that the United States had detectcuss a possible modification of the deadlocked United Nations plan ed increased readiness among Soviet and East European forces to and around Poland. Sources said for the independence of South-West Africa (Namibia) that might that civilian vehicles detected at a be acceptable to South Africa and to some key black African states. The officials discussed this pos-Hungarian Army headquarters todicted the possibility of a partial mobilization there.

sibility Tuesday as the White Poland, Czechoslovakia, East House, seeking to demonstrate that foreign policy business was going on as usual, announced for-mally that Chester A. Crocker, as-Germany and the Soviet Union have participated in the maneuvers, which the United States has feared could act as a sistant secretary of state-designate for African affairs, would lead a cover for an iovasion. high-level mission to southern Af-"They are getting closer and rica this month.

noon

went ahead as scheduled,

• The State Department an-closer to intervention, but there's nothing to show there will be an iotervention," a Pentagon analyst said. Another said: "Intervention is increasingly likely if not possi-hle."

Party Gives Assurances

pendence calls for elections to set SOFIA (AP) — Poland's Com-munist Party has assured party members from the Warsaw Pact and more than 100 other countries up a constituent assembly that would to turn draft a consultution. Underscoring that President Reagan's hospitalization had not that it can deal with the current halted international contacts were these other developments: · Vice President Busb and Sec-

Polithuro member Tadeusz Grabski said that his party had retary of State Alexander M. Haig "sufficient determination and Ir. met separately and together strength to do away with the danwith Premier Andreas van Agt of the Netherlands, who had arrived gers facing Socialism" in Poland. Mr. Grabski, secretary of the Central Committee, made his re-Monday and had been scheduled to see Mr. Reagan Monday aftermarks during addresses by national delegations to the 12th congress of the Bulgarian Communist Party. Turkish Bank Bombed

The Associated Press ISTANBUL - Unidentified assailants believed to be leftists hurled a bomb into a bank office to visit Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Saudi Arahia, Spain and Britain. to suburban Istanbul Tuesday night, police sources reported Wednesday. They said the blast at the Akbank branch in Umraniye nounced that Foreign Minister Ilter Turkmen of Turkey would meet with Mr. Haig and other officaused no injuries but considerable cials Wednesday.

damage to the building.

6. The administration wants to ask the various parties to consider adoption of the "Zimbabwe for-mula." The future laws of the country would be worked out in negotiations hefore an election took place. The current UN-spon-sored plan for Namibian inde-states and white-dnminated South Africa, it iodicated. On South Africa, the statement, Plans for Mr. Haig to leave referring in that government's poli-Friday night for an eight-day trip to the Middle East and Europe cy of racial separation, said that there can be nn question of American support for apartheid. there was a possibility that Mr. Haig might add West Germany which is repugnant in nur multiracial and democratic society. and France to his itinerary. He is But it said that, "we fotend to make our views plainly known" to the South Africans "nnt in a spirit

Vice President Bush (right) welcomed Premier Andreas van Agt of the Netherlands to the White House Tuesday as Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. looked on. The Dutch official was to have talked with President Reagan Monday.

INSTDE

• Diplomatic messages went out around the world Monday and Belgium Crisis Tuesday informing governments nf the shooting nf Mr. Reagan and of The Belgian government annnunced a nne-month price freeze as part of its effort to resolve the latest economic and political crisis. Page 2.

Qadhafi Foe

Declaring bimself "at war" with Col. Moamer Qadhafi of Libya. Sudanese President Gaafar Numeiri said "all the world should ury to get rid of him" - by killing him if necessary. Page 2.

Academy Awards

Robert Redford's "Ordinary People" captured four Academy Awards. Page 24.

To Our Readers

Because of Part II of the special Focus on West Germany supplement (Pages 7S-18S), the Insights/Sidelights page is not included in today's IHT.

ussians Reportedly Replace Afghan Units in Kabul of the four divisions against the Soviet-installed government of Ba-ported closed most of the last week Soviet-installed government of Bay Stuart Auerbach Washington Past Service DELHI - The four Afrmy units that had been g the capital city of Kabul en moved into the country-

brak Karmal

i replaced by Soviet forces, dipiomats reported here day.

eported transfer of responfor guarding Kabul sig-major shift in Moscow's for taming the fiercely inent Afghans, who keep inng their resistance to the th occupation of their na-Diomats said.

ding to an analyst in New the shift indicates that the is no longer trust the Afrmy units to guard the capieven under the supervision I trooos.

a indication of the lack of Soviét armored vehicles through the city Monday night, taking positions in a broad perimeter that encircled the Soviet guest house where the chairman of the Soviet State Committee for Foreign Economic Relations, Andreovich Skachkov, was staying.

Shift in Responsibility

law but their own.

The shift in responsibility for guarding Kabul was reported to have come Tuesday, when the four 29 army divisions in the city, once Affrontier. ghanistan's crack units but now believed to be considered by the Russians as unreliable, began moving out of the city.

They reportedly were being sent to the provinces to fight. But military analysis believe it is unlikely they will be successful in battles with the rebels because these divisions, along with the rest of the Afghan Army, are plagued by descrtions of officers and men. Moreover, there have been con-killed by Afghan rebels. Three of the four major hightinual reports of plots by officers because of heavy fighting. There were also reports of Soviet jet and Meanwhile, according to diplo-matic sources in New Delhi, the helicopter attacks on Torgundi, a border post north of Herai where winter lull in fighting between the Soviet and Afghan forces and the an uprising is supposed to have taken place. rebels is ending. There are reports of combat in 20 of Afghanistan's There were rumors circulating in Kabul that Mr. Karmal's favorite provinces, including all nine that run along the Soviet-Afghan mullah, Mohammed Amin Sadr, who is known as the Islamic religion's cheerleader for the govern-ment, was shot and killed in the

Attacks Described

Other reports reaching New Delhi described attacks on Soviet center of Kabul on Friday. Also on Friday, diplomats in the and Afghan installations in Herat, city saw an apparent army attack a city near where the Afghanistan, on a hill just east of Kabul airport. Iran and Soviet borders meet. The attacks, according to diplomats, were part of the celebration of the Defection Aid Criticized second anniversary of the Herat-uprising in which Soviet civilians NEW DELHI (AP) - Afghanistan's ambassador to India critiand soldiers were mutilated and Soviet-occupied homeland.

Frankfurt before flying to the United States, according to an official of the United Nations Commission for Refugees. The U.S.

Embassy declined to comment. The Americans want to help everyone who is against Afghani-stan," Afghan Ambassador Mohammad Hasan Sharq said in his criticism of U.S. diplomats. Afehan students said the defecttog diplomats secretly aided coun-trymen by helping them stay in India on medical and educational grounds. The defectors were idenified as Consular official Abdul Ali Raoufy, Commercial Attache Mohammad Farouq, embassy accountant Hassan Kaifi and mission official engineer Najib Poya.

Get-well messages poured into the State Department from government leaders. The Crocker mission, expected to start in the next two weeks or so, is viewed by officials as one of > drastically revise U.S. policy toward southern Africa to favor South Africa. The trip is meant to reverse that perception, officials

> > The White House statement was also meant to signal that, even though the administration will have its own policy toward southern Africa, it will continue the Carter administration' effort to bring about an international settlement for the independence of Namibia from South African control. This will be dance in consultation with the black-led African tn a genuinely todependent and democratic Namihia, recognized by the international community." Administration nfficials said that, in the lengthy policy review nf southern Africa just enneluded, there was a consensus to discuss the possible shift to the independence plan.

Country's Future

of confrontation but of construcuve help." On the deadlocked negotiations for an independent Namibia, it said, "We seek a peaceful solution of the Namibian problem leading

The South Africans and their supporters in Namibia, the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, have been reluctant to accept the UN election plan for fear that the main guerrilla group, the South-West Africa Penple's Organization, would prevail and be able to dictate the country's future.

The U.S. approach, incorporat-ing aspects of the solution that finally resolved the situation in Zimbabwe, would propose that the constitution be drawn up to Geneva or some other neutral site, therey giving SWAPO and the Turnhalle group an agreed-upon share of the future government.

U.S. officials said that Mr. Crocker plans to visit Nigeria. South Africa and the Front-line states - Angola, Botswana, Mozambique. Tanzania, Zambia and Zimbabwe, as well as possibly some others.

The United States hopes that, as the result of a Namibian settlement, Angola will ask Cuban troops to leave, thereby making it possible for Washington to establish diplomatic relations.

the most important so far of this administration. This is because Mr. Reagan had given the impression that he might the doctors' reports that the prog-nosis after surgery was excellent. bassy officials who had helped their countrymen to escape their The four officials and their families left New Delhi Tuesday for

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981

Belgium Orders Prices Frozen; King Begins Talks on Cabinet

By Axel Krause ed Herald Tribue

Page 2

PARIS --- In a first effort to ease Belgian's latest political and economic crisis, the government Wednesday announced that the nation's prices will be frozen for one month starting Thursday.

But the government's immediate dilemma remained unresolved following the resignation offered Tuesday by Premier Wilfried Martens's 5-month-old coalition government and as King Baudouin began a series of meetings with the nation's political leaders. Meantime, the king will hold the resignation of the government in abeyance, a spokesman said.

abeyance, a spokesman sand. The present coalition is com-posed of four parties made up of two groupings — Socialists and Christian Democrais, each of which are split into Flemish and French-speaking wings. Mr. Mar-tens is a Flemish Christian Demo-crat crat. This is the fourth government he has headed since 1979.

There was speculation that the king's goal is to launch negotia-tions for the formation of a new government and that he would eventually accept Mr. Martens' resignation.

Commenting on the price freeze, a spokesman for Economic Affairs Minister Willy Claes said that, "in the current economic and financial situation of the country, the minis-

Qadhafi Wants

U.S. Bases Shut The Associated Press

The Associated Press ROME — Libyan leader Col. Moamer Qadhafi was quoted Wednesday as saying that he would support a moye to close U.S. military bases in Italy as well as those in the Arab world.

"We in the Arab world will attack American military bases in Arab countries because we are de-fending our own land. We don't want to attack the U.S. coasts, we don't want to land in America, the conservative Rome daily II Giomale d'Italia quoted him as

In the interview in Benghazi, conducted with several Italian correspondents, Col. Qadhafi was quoted as saying: "We will also support Italy in this, in the strug-gle to expel Americans from Ital-ian bases."

By Jonathan C. Randal

Washington Post Service

should try to get rid of him."

v an

ter judged this measure to be help-ful." if they reduce their holdings in kong-term government paper below the level of Dec. 31.

freeze would apply at all levels --import, wholesale and retail -- and caused by a split over a demand by that inspectors were being instruct-Mr. Martens for a wage freeze, which was part of his anti-inflaed to enforce strict compliance. Excluded from the freeze are tionary economic recovery plan products where industry has consupported by his Socialist partners tracts with the government, includin the coalition. However, the Sociing petroleum products.

Credit Restrictions

alists insisted that wages should re-main pegged to the price index. The issue remained unresolved In a related move, the National Bank's new credit restrictions on Wednesday amid continuing speculation in some banking circles financial institutions designed to that the price freeze might be folhalt recent speculation against the lowed by a devaluation of the franc, which the government has defended strongly in the last few Belgian franc came into force. Under the measures, banks and other financial institutions are re-days. In London Wednesday, the franc weakened slightly against the dollar and also lost ground in rela-tion to currencies in the European quired to maintain a minimum level of investment in state securities and will be subject to penalties Monetary System. Dealers said that speculation on an early de-valuation persists and that there Soviet Patients

Reportedly Seize had been little reaction to the price

Psychiatric Unit Other Measures

United Press International MOSCOW — Patients took over European bankers and officials agreed that devaluation would make no sense if it is not accompa-nied by other measures aimed at a psychiatric hospital and held the staff hostage to protest their treat-ment with beavy doses of behav-ior-modification drugs, a report reaching Moscow said on Wednestackling Belgium's longer range economic problems. "Belgium, if does not take steps day. The incident occurred in Janu-ary in the Fourth Department of the Chernyakhovsk Special Psychi-the Delish borquickly, will become the sick man of Europe ... I am exceedingly pessimistic," said a leading banker Wednesday, who insisted on reatric Hospital near the Polish bormaining anonymous. Belgium's public sector deficit this year is expected to rise to a der, a source said. The patients were "driven to desperation" by the drugs, which have painful side record 13 percent of the nation's effects, according to the account. gross national product. The deficit in the balance of payments equals The revolt was said to have ended after hospital authorities agreed more than 5 percent, while unemto investigate the charge that the patients were being badly treated. But guards stormed the lunchployment, already at 10 percent of the working population, is increas-ing, he said.

The government

Confirming the trends, the Finance Ministry announced that Belgium had a current account room, where the patients were gathered after releasing their hostages, and beat them, the source said. deficit on a cash basis of 9,8 billion The report said that 25 patients were handcuffed and taken to an francs in November, after a deficit of 6.7 billion francs in October, and that preliminary indications showed that the current account remained in deficit in December. The Ministry of Internal Affairs, which is in charge of special men-tal hospitals, had no comment on This is by far one of the worst rformances of any country in the report. The Chernyakhovsk hospital has been used to hold disthe OECD area and it will take a very strong and determined gov-ernment to turn things around," sidents, such as Gen. Pyotr Gri-gorenko, who spoke ont for minor-ity groups in the early 1970s. the banker said.

tons of cooking oil.

Delivery Delays

The proposed package follows similar food aid, also worth about $40 million, agreed on by the EEC last December. The spokesman said that Poland's problems in acquiring credit and technical diffi-culties had led to delays in delivery of that food aid.

In London, banking sources said that Poland had expressed confi-dence in talks with Western bank-ers that it would obtain rescheduling agreements on its commercial and official debt ahead of its origioal mid-year target. Two days of talks with bankers on Poland's request to reschedule $3.1 billion of 1981 commercial loan maturities sumed on April 8,

ment further on the meeting.

forts.

Opposition in Philippines

Challenges Constitution

Telephone Calls

original 311 delegates and had been held at the suburban home of the body's vice president. The group thus sought to place into question the proposed amend-ments to be voted on Tuesday.

Mr. Macapagal said that, with the lifting of martial law in Janu-ary, the 1935 constitution was again in force and the Seventh Congress, suspended by Mr. Mar-cos, was restored to power. The charter convention, whose members were elected freely in 1970, opened in 1971 with a mandate to frame a new constitution replacing the 1935 charter adopted

under U.S. tutelage. Its work was overtaken by Mr. Marcos' imposi-tion of martial law in 1972.

At its last session oo Nov. 30,

1972, with some of its members in prison and others underground,

the body was recessed by its presi dent, Mr. Macapagal, who subse-quently submitted a draft constitu-

Mr. Marcos initially called a plebiscite to approve the draft but changed course and submitted it instead to ratification by informally organized citizens' assemblies.

tion to Mr. Marcos.

Poles lined up in Warsaw's Old Town district Wednesday when ice cream was put on sale.

EEC Commission Proposes Aiding Poles To Buy $40 Million in Subsidized Food request for emergency aid. In Paris he won a pledge from France of $800 million in fresh credits this year plus an emergency shipment of 400,000 tons of wheat. After the Western leaders' telephone conversations, warnings against force being applied from "within nr without" — evidently references to the possibility of intervention by the Soviet Union in Poland or suppression of the Pol-ish independent trade union Solidarity by the Communist Party of Poland - have been repeated by leaders and officals in Boun, Paris and Washington. Mr. Schmidt used the phrase in a speech to labor union delegates in Berlin on Monday night, and Mr. Giscard d'Estaing referred to it in a televised speech in Paris on Mooday. In an unusually strong statement made at a news conference on Tuesday, Mr. Schmidt repeated the admonition that aid to Poland would be cut without delay if there were intervention by force in Poland "from within or without." Mr. Schmidt warned that such intervention would stop credits to Poland, and that "the world would change.

Warning Criticized

MOSCOW (LAT) - A Soviet commentator criticized Western eaders Tuesday for warning that they would cut loff financial aid to Poland if Soviet troops or Polish authorities used force to end that country's labor unrest.

These actions cannot be regarded in any other way than as encouragement to anti-Socialist forces in Poland to preserve the atmosphere of anarchy and to make the situation in the country even more grave," said Boris Kalyagin on the evening television news.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Farmers Clash With Police at EEC Building

BRUSSELS — Farmers besieging the European Economic Communi-ty's headquarters hurled stones and bottles at Belgian riot police. Wednesday as agriculture ministers waited to see whether Britain would lift its objections to an agreement on higher farm prices. The police responded with tear gas to force the demonstrators back from the building: Thousands of farmers, mostly from France, have gathered during the last three days to demand a 15-percent price rise as EEC ministers argued over a 1981-82 farm package.

The ministers argued over a resume negotiations on Wednesday night. Sources said that tough talks lasting until dawn Wednesday had put them in sight of an agreement, but left Britain holding out. British Agriculture Minister Peter Walker said that he was worried about the cost of the estimated 9-percent to 10-percent rise suggested as a compromise by the EEC Commission.

U.S. Reports Progress on Sinai Peace Force

United Press International JERUSALEM — Israeli and U.S. officials Wednesday completed three days of talks on the creation of a Sinai peacekeeping force that the top

U.S. Aides Puzzle By Haig's Behavi. Slat spokesman said- "The-words or heated exchant would involve conflict be two." Is But at the White Hois officials would not go d far in their denials. A set dential assistant said that called set-to has been d ed," but he conceded thi were some disagreement's

A State Departmentports in who said that Mr. Haig for said when he left for the Whaliemin shortly after the shooting of the television little more that sinatu

The secretary of stated intra-spiring heavily. His voicel esimes to be cracking, rising ar east B-unsteadily and his arms chief the

be trembling. Tve never icit to h like that before and Ivincothe be trembling. The last a state of the state before and Fyind other into the state begar many many yes to Build in the was cracking emotion and the state begar ment of the state who was made the concern throughout lier ment. Asked who was made the government of the state who was made the vice president and is and the vice president and the v

At the State Departm cials said that Mr. Haig charge of the Situation in the White House while Vi dent Bush was still away. But officials at the said privately that Mr. H wrong on two counts and way this came across to the

was that he was running ti

the White House that the s to the presidency, according

Constitution, and that the re-command authority, with to the president's role al

mander-in-chief of the forces, goes from the presite 's of detense. In fact, Mr. Haig's stat lift about being in control in the G tion Room was technically, log rate. As soon as Mr. Haig a p that Mr. Reagan had been sh called the White House ch staff, James A. Baker 3d ar cording to Mr. Baker sug that he, the secretary of

should be in charge of ded

It was there that he mad making in the Situation Roor,

the vice president to the se of defense.

It has now been pointed ing about the precede secretary in the Cabinet position, in that role, of

he was stunned by what 10n later.

Haig and Weinberger."

argument between Haig ; will u berger, nor were there nico

fron

ma

Liges

Isble

me. Ga

vith

Ingritor

him

By Martin Schram and Michael Getler

Washington Post Service WASHINGTON - For the second time in two weeks, the actions of Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. have prompted questions inside and outside the Reagan administration about the way he is conducting himself in office. His latest problems stem from his performance after the assassination attempt against President Reagan — first with his shaky, emotional claim over national television of constitutional authority in the line of presidential succes sion, and then through a private disagreement in the White House Situation Room with Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger.

The dispute, according to one source, centered on Mr. Weinberger's displeasure with Mr. Haig's televised remarks and disagreement over the nature of the in-creased readiness procedures that were ordered for U.S. military forces around the world.

Last week, Mr. Haig was criti-cized by Reagan aides for his open disagreement with the president's plan to name Vice President Bush to direct White House crisis management.

On Tuesday, top presidential as-sistants praised Mr. Haig's per-formance in the Situation Room while Mr. Reagan was on the oper-ating table and Mr. Bush was in a plane, returning to Washington. "I worked at his side in the Situation Room from 2:30 to 8:30," said the White House staff director David White House staff director, David Gergen, "and he was steady, very steady. He did a hell of a job."

Presidential aides also minimized the nature of the disagreements between Mr. Haig and and Mr. Weinberger. They conceded there were some disagreements ---some "sparks," as one called it --- but asserted there was oever a "row" between the two men. Spokesmen at the State and Defense departments also moved to deny that there was any rift between the two secretaries. Maj. Gen. Jerry Curry, the Pentagon

Reagan Gets Busy Again

(Continued from Page 1) 78 by palpation," or lower than usual, Dr. O'Neill said, However, Mr. Reagan's blood pressure became normal shortly after "he rested on a stretcher for a minute or two," Dr. O'Neill said, Dr. O'Neill speculated that "perhaps that was the result of the fact that he had walked in and had a significant amount of blood loss in his chest at that time."

as No. 3 in line of authorit cording to several informed. Although Mr. Reagan was hypotensive, or had low blood pres es. After that, the two merfor a few minutes, Dr. O'Neill said the president pover was in shock. reported to have disagreed or procedures for increasing the iness of U.S. forces around Shock is a potentially fatal physiologic condition in which the blood pressure falls to such a danworld. gerously low level for a period of time that the body cannot get were taken, we did oot pu forces on alert," a senior of KHARTOUM, Sudan — Su-danese President Gaafar Nimeiri has said that he was at war with Col. Moamer Qadhafi of Libya and added, "I think all the world Becating the West for tolerating Col. Qadhafi because of Libya's oil, Gen. Nimeiri said Tnesday that "we have to do something together to get this man out of the unknown location.

Sudan Leader Says World Should Join

His 'War' to Overthrow or Kill Qadhafi

18 . 1. 743 Sec. 5. 84

Communism as from his support for Egypt.

Only last week he agreed to ex-change ambassadors with Cairo af-ter having reduced diplomatic rela-tions following Egypt's separate peace with Israel two years ago. The thrust of Gen. Nimeiri's remarks reflected a personal crusade against Col. Qadhafi that has raised fears in Sudan of the power of Libyan petrodollars to subvert the financially strapped country, considered a more likely Libyan with U.S. officials on his country's From Agency Disp.

BRUSSELS - The European Economic Community Commission Wednesday proposed food aid to Poland worth $40 million, a commission spokesman said. The spokesman said credits en-abling Poland to buy the food could not be accorded by the com-mission and would have to be agreed on by member states. He said that most of the sales would be made at a subsidized price from EEC stocks, and the remainder, also at reduced rates, from the open market.

The decision to provide aid, at 15 percent below world market prices, was made following a call by EEC leaders for concerted Common Market support for Po-land, he said. At their summit meeting last week, the leaders urged community ministers and the commission to decide on food aid to Poland "as a matter of ur-

The spokesman said that the aid would be in the form of 10,000 tons of butter, 5,000 tons of cheese, 32,000 tons of milk powder, 30,000 tons of meat, 50,000 tons of sugar, 175,000 tons of bar-ley, 25,000 tons of rye, 200,000 tons of animal fodder and 20,000

taking him ont, by killing him." Although he hinted in an inter-view that he would welcome assistance in his apparent personal ven-detta to overthrow Col. Qadhafi, the 51-year-old Sudanese leader aid. "We do oot want to become the Cubans of the United States." Eschewing "interference by a su-perpower," Gen. Nimein also said, "We as Africans should start first - the neighboring countries should start first - and we are a neighboring country. We can do it on behalf of the world."

Gen. Nimeiri also again ex-pressed interest in U.S. financing for improving rudimentary Su-danese air and naval facilities, which in case of a Soviet threat against Sudan could be made ovailable to U.S. and other friendly forces, presumably Egypt's. But he acknowledged that he had not raised the issue with U.S. officials in Sudan or in Washington before disclosing publicly two weeks ago in a series of interviews what he now said was "just an

The president's initial affer took the diplomatic community and the Sudanese political elite by surprise. The lack so far of positive response from the Reagan administration has raised questions in Sudan about Washington's true interest in the controversial Rapid Deployment Force to guard Western oil interests in the Gulf.

Lack of infrastructure in Africa's largest country -- especially in the interior where the Sudanese would apparently like to locate an from the general's militant anti-

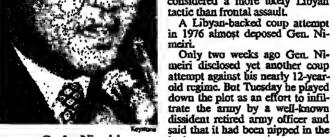

NOUVELLE REVUE

COCORIĈO I

Sult 50 Diner dansant 295 F

🗆 h 60 Revu

5

Gaafar Nimeiri

During the interview at the Chinese-built Friendship Palace, Gen. Nimeiri said he personally had told Col. Qadhafi after the Libyan air facility - apparently accounts for the U.S. position, according to diplomatic sources in Sudan. Nonetheless, what is taken in military takeover last December in Chad that "the war is just now Sudan as Gen. Nimeiri's playing to starting." the Reagan administration's gener-"We opened our country for any ally staunch anti-Soviet stance has Chadian citizen to use the Sudan already paid dividends. Gen. Nimeiri declared himself for fighting the Libyans and driv-ing them out of Chad." he said. 'very satisfied" with the U.S. ad-He said that Col. Qadhafi had made Sudan his "number one tarministration's decision to increase military aid to Sudan from $30 get" to convince other African states that they should not oppose his dream of creating a Moslem million to $100 million in the fiscal year beginning oext Sept. 1.

bud

Cairo Relations

He said that he had ant yet discussed in detail with the Ameri-cans how the increased military package should be spent. He re-iterated interest in a U.S. training mission in Sudan, especially in military intelligence, and noted how the Soviet KGB had helped Col. Qadhafi operate in various African countries.

MOULD

1973 Philippine constitution under Increased U.S. economic, financial and military aid - the biggest U.S. aid program in Africa outside of Egypt — has stemmed as much which the government of President Ferdinand E. Marcos rules has been challenged by 130 of the 311 members of the body that drafted The challenge occurred a week before a national plebiscite on proposed amendments that would provide for a strong president with a six-year term and no bar against re-election. Mr. Marcos has an-> transitional status as presidentpremier and run for the new post of chief of state. Former President Diosdado Macapagal, an opponent of Mr. Mar-cos and chairmao of the conven-tion that drafted the 1973 charter, said that the body had "resumed"

New York Times Service

MANILA - The validity of the its sessions and had adopted a declaration that the constitution had been improperly ratified and therefore had no legal force. There was no immediate reac-tion from Mr. Marcos to the challenge, but the legality of the char-29 from Diner dansant 295 F ter group's move was questioned in a statement by Antonin Tupyz, U.S. negotiator said produced wide agreement.

Michael Sterner, deputy assistant secretary of state, said that he was ended Wednesday and will be reimpressed by the amount of agreement at this early stage between Egypt and Israel on establishment of a force in the Sinai Peninsula to monitor

Poland does not expect that meeting to agree a final formula for the rescheduling though it hopes for a conclusion to the talks the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. He said that he would report on the Israeli position to the Egyptians and to Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who is sched leave Washington Friday for Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Saudi Arabia. The peace treaty calls for the UN Security Council to set up a peace-keeping force in the Sinai or, if that is oot possible, for the United States shortly afterward, the sources add-After the talks, the chief Polish delegate, Jan Woloszyn, told re-porters that Poland was committed to establish a multinational force.

to repaying its Western debts, which totaled $23 billion at the Israelis Reportedly Trade Fire With UN Force end of 1980. He would oot com-The Associated Press village before dawn Wednesday, blew up houses and exchanged fire with Lebanese Army and UN peacekeeping troops, villagers and a UN spokesman said. They said a Lebanese soldier died and one was wound-In an attempt to coordinate Western aid efforts. Chancellor ed in the raid.

TULIN, Lebanon - Israeli troops burst into this southern Lebanese

Helmut Schmidt on Monday tele-An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said four houses used by phoned President Reagan, before Palestinian guerrillas were blown up during the raid, but denied Israeli troops had exchaoged fire with the village defenders. the president was shot by an assail-ant in Washington, and France's

The spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded. Western diploesident Valery Giscard d'Estamats in Beirut said they believed it was the first shooting incident being, to discuss the Western aid eftween UN and Israeli troops since the international force was deployed in southern Lebanon to act as a buffer between Palestinian guerrillas Polish Deputy Premier Micczys-law Jagiclski flew to Washington Wednesday for two days of talks

China Starting to Check Security on Airliners Los Angeles Times Service

PEKING — Grimly recognizing the age of international terrorism. China was introducing security checks Wednesday on all foreign-bound airline flights.

The magnetic metal detectors and baggage X-ray machines, which became commonplace at airports around the world a decade ago, have been installed in Peking, and Chinese authorities announced new regulations Tuesday to permit body searches and luggage inspection to prevent

Initially, the measures will apply only to international flights, Chinese officials said, but the feasibility of extending them to domestic flights is reportedly under study following several terrorist incidents in the last year and an increase in violent crime in China,

Former Seoul Spy Chief Declared Legally Dead

HACKENSACK, N.J. — A Superior Court judge has declared as lo-gally dead Kim Hyung Wook, former head of the South Korean CIA. Mr. Kim disappeared in Paris in 1979.

The ruling on Tuesday was made after Mr. Kim's family requested it be allowed to inherit his multimillion-dollar estate. Mr. Kim, the head of the KCIA from 1963 to 1969, was the No. 2 man in Korea until be fled in 1973 and settled down in the Bergen County community of Alpine. He had split with South Korean President Park Chung Hee, who was himself later assassinated.

Mrs. Kim's lawyer said that Mr. Park had ordered Mr. Kim kidnapped and personally killed him in the basement of the Blue House; the presidential palace.

U.S. Coal Miners Decisively Reject Contract United Press Interna

WASHINGTON - Worried that ocounion coal operations might threaten their jobs, soft-coal miners throughout Appalachia rebuffed their union's leadership and soundly rejected a tentative contract by a 2-1 margin.

The vote on Tuesday extends indefinitely a United Mine Workers' ment.

Sicilian Prison Revolt

United Press Interna

MESSINA, Sicily - Three inmates of Gazzi jail took 18 persons hostage Tuesday to demand trans-fers to jails closer to home, but surrendered peacefully with their prisoners when the anthorities conceded the issue, police said.

said, "but cautionary proce." were taken."

"No extraordinary me

While one Pentagon of played down the Haig staten calling them a matter of "istimistaken words," another sunta up the view of his colleagues and the secretary's television perf ance as "unbelievable," and of ed: "I just don't understand" demeanor, especially for one says he's in charge."

Only one British prime mini-

The conflict over the future.

Europeans Check Securit After Attempt on Reagan

1979, he was blown up by an l bomb planted on his fishing t while he was on vacation in PARIS --- France has tightened security precaotions around Presi-dent Valery Giscard d'Estaing folland. lowing the attempt on the life of President Reagan. The shooting of Mr. Reagan has has been murdered in modtimes — Spencer Perceval, version was shot at the House of C

The shooting of Mr. Keagan has also focused attention on the se-curity of leaders of other countries, like Britain, Spain and Italy, where guerrilla organizations operate. "The assassination of President Kennedy and the dozen attempts to kill General De Gaulle are ever organized in our minds and us are

Police problems are compound-

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt dislikes excessive security and refused to be shielded

by bulletproof glass at election ral-lies last year. In West Germany's 32-year postwar history, there has never been an assassination attempt on a chancellor.

British Discretion

and key ministers get one.

and the second second

to soot them.

dded

Northern Ireland presents by the biggest threat to British roy-and politicians. In 1979 Irish guerrillas m. present in our minds, and we are taking no chances," a senior French police official said. "But dered Airey Neave, then Conserve tive Party opposition spokes on Northern Ireland, by plantin bomb in his car. Mr. Neave v everyone knows there is no 100-percent effective protection," he not under police protection.

Spain's Problem Spain, with a long tradition mons in 1812.

ed by the tendency of some leaders to downgrade security precautions. President Giscard d'Estaing said violence, has one of the worst curity problems in Western I rope. Since the death of Franco on television that he did not be-1975, political violence has no heve in extra security measures, particularly during his frequent trips in the current French election claiming 129 lives last year alone The military wing of the Basq separatist organization ETA held responsible for most of t killings. It was responsible for t death in a 1973 bomb attack Franco's premier, Adm. Luis C rero Blanco, the fifth Spanish he of government assassinated in 1 last 150 years.

Heavy security did not sv ETA guernillas from firing a rock into the grounds of the premie official residence last year. No o

In Britain, discretion is the hallmark of security for top peowas injured. ple. Armed detectives always ac-Italy also has major securi company Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher problems. Former Premier Ali Moro was kidnapped in 1978 on. and about a dozen others on pub-lic appearances, but it is often hard Rome street by the Red Brigad and later assassinated.

Since then, scores of senior of Two detectives are allotted to cials have been killed or shot a). the queen and her husband, Prince wounded by far-left gangs, souther Philip, and Mrs. Thatcher, but times while under guard but more ly while walking undefended Cother members of the royal family city streets.

Now, the premier, members The late Earl Mountbatten of his Cabinet, top officials from the loterior and Justice ministries and Burma, always in high positions of responsibility although not an elected official, had always discouraged police protection. Io the police are constantly guarde and many have builetproof cars.

2014 SO RECUCED 2001 Sh Sh Ampagne 2001 PRIS NETS SERVICE CAMPRIM NORMANDIE 116 bis, as enue des Champs-Flysees 565 11 fil tragence	PRIX NETS SERVICE COMPRIS	minister of state for local allans, who said that "the reconvening of the coovention bids to be a more nuisance." Mr. Macapagal said that the meeting had been called at the te- quest of 130 nf the convention's	a new government and assumed the position of president-premier	raises prospects of another long ar Rejecting the three-year pact er Church Jr., miners indicated they encourage more nonunioo mining union's pension and welfare fuod	Ind costly walkout in the coalfields. Indorsed by the union's president, Sam (felt that the proposed contract would operations. It removed a royalty to the is that UMW operators must oow pay at are act signatories to the agreement.
e de la companya de l La companya de la comp	•1 •••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••	¥£	ا صنه المدحيل	م

LES 2 MEILLEURES SOIRÉES DE PARIS nounced he intends to end his WATUSI DANS FRENESIE

y Haig's inckley's Letters iy Point to Motive

Philip Taubman y York Times Service

S. Aidesk

States and

₩ 1 4

S. 8 . 4 ...

5 37694 me

100 AK

Marine Arras

The Break

ALL TOP

E.E.

17.7421.2

the second second

Will more

m. try

10 M 10

M. Finner

diam'r.

-

See.

and the second in sum

Aprendation .

100 C

1 1 - 14

Home & P.

-

247 Sec. 1

- **-

Sec.

MAGTLES .

12 See

Marile

Weine -

MAZINE .

5. 11 11

19-3-

States .

1919 - L

the second second

· · · · ·

V& alley and a

÷....

. سود . دانگ

67 - F

martes

19-1-1 1

المد محمقان

14. e

4.5.00 A.M.

a 244 - 1

States and the second second

Service and the service of the servi

XIII WILLITI- E

3.

1.5.10.22

20.00

2340-1-

10 M

second and the

A

Sec. -

20 A.S.

a than

Same

-

-

. . . .

19.44

Sinte S

йа на

• 50 m

*

*

.

in the c

 $f_{\rm max} = f_{\rm m}$

2 C

,

ж.

1.25

 $(-\infty)$

lene.

• • • سيسير

. 5.21 ar - 197

.

20

 $\mathcal{S}_{i,j+1}^{(n)}$

-

1. 1.

1.20

20.000 and to come a

المناسب الكليق

Seature .

See. 5

Ninise ma

Trees.

29- 21/

dida an i . a washing a

And the second second

S. S. Address .

. margar

NGTON — Federal in-s: have found evidence; that John W. Hinckley ated to assessinate Presiran Monday in an effort. is Jodie Foster; an 18actress whom he appar-

e killed the president," kley wrote to Miss Foster nailed letter investigators his Washington hotel aday, according to one rovided by sources familac investigation.

a account reported that "If you don't love me, to kill the president." finckley, 25, apparently that Mr. Reagan had insulted Miss Foster, ofid. This suggestion was at Mr. Hinckley had sent ent weeks. The nature of ined insult was not disofficials gators believe Mr. Hinckoped a romantic fantasy. Foster after seeing the wie "Taxi Driver," m e portrayed a teen-age

Intie Plot Recalled

movie, the protagonist, y actor Robert DeNiro, is we who plots the assassi-a U.S. senator after his overtures toward one of tor's aides are rejected. kley may have been living he of the taxi driver. Foster, currently a fresh-

ent Crime

13% in U.S.

Renders INGTON - Violent the United States inby 13 percent last year previous year, according inary figures released by

Renn Lasts erall crime rate rose by 10 ecording to the report, based on information av Agnin than 12,000 law cnagencies across the > violent crimes, robbery 0 percent, rape 9 percent, d assault 8 percent and nencent.

man at Yale, issued a statement Tuesday that said, "The FBI and the U.S. Attorney's Office have asked me to say nothing about John W. Hinckley, but I do wish to say that I have never met, spoken to or associated with him."

Justice Department officials said that Miss Foster had received. several letters from Mr. Hinckley in recent months. They would not discuss the contents.

Mr. Hinckley's room at the Park Central Hotel in Washington, officials said, indicated that he was in a despondent, fatalistic mood and might take some action that would result in his death.

Background Investigated

Mr. Hinckley was in custody Denver, Dallas, Los Angeles and Lubbock, Texas, investigated his background. Mr. Hinckley lived in or visited all those cities during the last several years, officials said. Mr. Hinckley was moved before dawn Tuesday to n small prison cell at the Marine Correctional Fa-cility in Oranting Vol. Allerting cility in Quantico, Va., following the formal filing of charges against him at a midnight court session in

In his appearance before federal Magistrate Arthur L. Burnett, Mr. Hinckley was charged with at-tempting to kill Mr. Reagan by shooting him with a pistol, and with assaulting a Secret Service

White House press secretary James S. Brady was shot in the head, and a Secret Service agent and District at the scene and police recovered a .22 caliber pistol from him. Hinckley held without bail. He set a bail hearing for Thursday morning. Maximum Penalties sentence of life imprisonof a president.

The namailed letter found in Federal agents questioned Miss Foster Tuesday, sources close to the investigation said.

Tuesday in Virginia as FBI agents in Washington, Nashville, Tenn, Denver, Dallas, Los Angeles and driven to the Marine base at Quantico and given a sedative after an examination by a prison physician. Psychiatric tests, which were scheduled for Tuesday, were postponed until Wednesday. The tests, officials said, would help deter-mine whether Mr. Hinckley can sought legal counsel at the well-known Washington firm of Wil-liams and Connolly. Two lawyers of the firm, Vincent J. Fuller and Gregory B. Craig, talked with him Tuesday, Mr. Craig said that Mr. Hinckley had asked them to repre-sent him. agent. Mr. Reagan was shot in the chest Monday as he emerged from the Washington Hilton Hotel. sent him of Columbia policeman were also Hinckley himself or a member of his family made the initial call to Mr. Hinckley was overpowered the law firm, which is headed by Edward Bennett Williams, a leading criminal defense attorney. Magistrate Burnett ordered Mr.

Washington

The judge informed Mr. Hinckley that he could face a maximum penalty on the assault charge of 10 years imprisonment and a maxi-ment for attempted assassination Mr. Hinckley was represented by two court-appointed lawyers, mailed letter to Miss Foster.

Congress Sets Probes

On Security Secret Service Admits

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981

Mistakes Were Made

By Richard D. Lyons New York Times Service WASHINGTON - Three congressional committees and the Secret Service itself have opened investigations into the conduct of the U.S. security forces during the at-tempt on the life of President Reagan on Monday.

"There is no question that there was a breakdown in security and the public needs to know wby," said Rep. Edward R. Roybal, Democrat of California, who will chair the opening congressional hearing on Thursday. Rep. Roybal said that he wanted answers to such questions as:

 Why was John W. Hinckley

Jr., the suspect in the assassination attempt, allowed into the area near the special hotel exit, which ironically was designed by the hotel architects to provide special security for presidents and other distin guished visitors?

 Why was Mr. Hinckley's name not entered in the Secret Service computer that contains the names of 25,000 potential assassins?

• Why was Mr. Hinckley's pres-ence in the Washington area not known to authorities?

· Why did the Secret Service reseatedly insist that five shots had been fired, not six?

Mistakes Conceded

John W. Warner Jr., the spokesman for the Secret Service, conceded that mistakes were made by agents of the service.

"I never had such bad informa-tion in my life," Mr. Warner said. "We were getting a lot of conflict-ing information," such as misidentifying the make and model of the revolver used. The weapon, known as the Roehm model RG-14, was shipped from West Germany in pieces, and assembled in Miami. It holds six cartridges. Yet as late as midnight Monday Secret Service officials were insisting that the weapoo used was a nine-shot Harrington-about their findings. According to officials, Mr. Hinckley appears to have arrived in Washington on Sunday by bus, possibly from Denver, where his parents live. Ricbardson revolver. On another point, Mr. Hinck-ley's previous arrest, Mr. Warner described the incident in Nash-They said be checked into the Park Central hotel, located two ville, Tenn., in October as a "roublocks from the White House, Intine arrest.

At that time, Mr. Hinckley was arrested at the airport after three handguos and 50 rounds of ammunition were found in his suitcase. Jimmy Carter, then the presi-dent, was in Nashville making a campaign speech the same day.

Bond Forfeited

Mr. Hinckley posted a $62 boad, but did not show up for a court appearance and forfeited his tum going anyway," he said

Other law enforcement sources

22 141 Sector de Linder Buten This photograph acquired by the FBI shows John Warnock Hinckley Jr., accused in the attempted assassination of President Reagan, sitting on a fence wall in front of the White House. The picture is undated but authorities said it is believed to have been taken within the last year.

هكذا من الأصل

Expected Surge in Reagan Popularity Is Not Seen Aiding Economic Program

By David S. Broder

Washington Post Service WASHINGTON — Political observers in both parties say they expect a surge in President Reagan's popularity after Monday's shooting, but most Republicans and Democrats on Capitol Hill doubt it will bave much impact on pros-pects for his economic program in Sympathy is a short-term commodity on Capitol Hill," said Sen. Paul Laxalt, the Nevada Republican who is Mr. Reagan's closest friend in Congress.

"In the long term, the president is likely to be even more popular," Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said been killed and somebody else Tuesday, "That's a result of his huwere presenting the program as a mor and the way be handles him-self. But 1 don't think it's likely to personal monument, the way Lynhave any legislative impact." Vatican Stresses While pollsters and political figures around the country reported a Celibacy Among wave of admiration for the courage and wit with which the 70-year-old Mr. Reagan responded to the as-Convert Priests sassinatioo attempt that hospitalized him with a bullet in his chest, White House officials were formulating plans for pushing Mr. Reagan's tax and spending cuts without the president's help. can has said that only a limited number of U.S. Episcopalian cler-Chief White House lobbyist gymen admitted to the Roman Catholic Church will be permitted Max Friedersdorf said there would be oo delay in consideration of the Reagan package because of his to serve as married priests. to clarify an agreement reached last Jone under which some Ep-iscopalian clergymen will be pershooting, and oo effort to speed up consideration to take advantage of the current wave of sympathy. "We feel we had a lot of momen-

lic Church. r into the Cat

United Press International

VATICAN CITY - The Vati-

The statement on Tuesday was

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said on television Tuesday don Johnson did with John Kenne dy's tax and civil rights bills ... I doubt very much it will have any that the temporary incapacitation of the president had made the Cahinet members "determined, effect."

even more, to push his program view. An aide to the House leaderand 'win one for the Gipper.' ship said. "The lobbyists who are But that borrowing from Mr. Reagan's Knute Rockne movie opposing Reagan's budget cuts will tuck tail for a couple of days hut they'll be right back." drew mostly skeptical comments on Capitol Hill.

House Democratic Whip Thom-"I can see why Secretary Regan would say that," said Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. of New York, rankas J. Foley of Washington said, "The sympathy and admiration at-taches to the president, but it ing Republican on the House doesn't mean that every proposal Ways and Means Committee and a is immune from respectful critiskeptic on the president's three-year, across-the-board tax-cut plan. "But it's not as if he had cism or comment."

As if to prove that point, the House Budget Committee session with Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker provided feisty questioning about a number of Mr. Reagan's budget

Culs, There's a belluva difference between killing a president and wounding him in a way that does not impair his abilities," said Rep. Morris K. Udall, Democrat of Arizona. "There's just not the emo-tional impact of the Keonedy killings.

Emotional Impact Howard Marlow, the AFL-C10 lobbyist coordinating a coalition of liberal and labor groups opposed to Mr. Reagan's proposed budget cuts, said he thought that "wbatever emotional impact there is will wear off in a day or two." But others expert in the ways of Congress were less certain. Lloyd Hackler, a forme

mitted to enter the Roman Catho-hopeless when the 16 Democrats, mostly from the conservative wing Most Democrats took a similar of the party and from Sun Belt states that would benefit least from Sen. Chafee's proposals, refused to go along with their party leaders in supporting his cause.

the vote.

Repeated Efforts

Page 3

Senate Move

To Increase

Budget Fails

Moderates Seek Aid

For Social Programs

By Helen Dewar

Washington Post Service WASHINGTON — An effort by moderate Republicans to restore nearly $1 billion of President

Reagan's budget cuts failed when enough Democrats voted with the president to give him one of his clearest victories yet in the con-clearest victories yet in the con-gressional budget hattle. By a vote of 40-59, with 16 Democrats joining most Republi-cans in upholding Mr. Reagan's position, the Senate Tuesday re-jected a proposal by Sen. John Chafee, Republican of Rhode Is-land, to restore $973 million that Mr. Reagan proposed to citil from

Mr. Reagan proposed to cut from a variety of social programs. Sen. Chafee picked up 10 other Republican votes, despite administration lohbying against his effort and opposition from Budget Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici, Republican of New Mexico, as well as from Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

The administration's interest in defeating Sen. Chalce's proposal was underscored when Vice President Bush, who rarely presides over the Senate, took his chair for

But Sen. Chafee's cause became

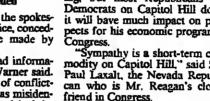

During the last few days. Demo-crats — at times even including some conservatives - have made repeated efforts to add money, often only modest amounts, for social programs that Mr. Reagan had marked for elimination or reduction in his budget cutting drive. Because Republicans had main-tained a high degree of unity in op-posing the Democratic initiatives, the breakaway effort by the Republican moderates was viewed as the best chance for restoring money for social programs io the first phase of Senate action on Mr. Reagan's budget proposals. As such, it had the support of Minori-ty Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and other Democratic leaders. Most of Sen. Chafee's Republican supporters came from the Northeast and Midwest, giving the effort a regional cast, although the Chafee forces did their best to deny it, arguing that they were simply trying to soften the blow of the budget cuts among people who could least afford the cost.

"We have met the test [of cutting the budget] and then some."

press secretary, James S. arlier given little chance of ; a bullet wound to the n speak and see and may to sit up in bed within a , doctors said Wednesday. ning report on his condithat Mr. Brady, 40, could four limbs and was con-.) improve although he reis say that Mr. Brady,

INGTON — The White

The Associated Press

ing Monday's assassing npt on President Reagan, ver without severe permantal or physical impairhysicians continue to be y optimistic as Mr. Braological condition continprove," the report said on rady, who on Tuesday we his right arm and leg, e night did the same with and arm when a doctor e Washington University asked him or Attempts vital spokesman had said that doctors were conout Mr. Brady's left side. joing to have a level imwould probably affect the port Grows for Ban Import of Gun Parts

Played Catch

Steven V. Roberts ew York Times Service INGTON --- In the afterthe attack Monday on Reagan, some members ess from both parties have support for legislation ld ban imports of gun d in the manufacture of tols often used by crimiss in 1968 barred the imsf cheap finished pistols, lied "Saturday night spe-t the law allowed the flow to continue. Federal law ent sources say that the T pistol used in the shootr. Reagan was assembled from parts manufactured jermaa v trom Thurmond, an outprogent of most gun consaid Tuesday that he sport legislation to bar xonents as part of a seventti-crime program. Sen. d; a South Carolina Rewho is chairman of the diciary Committee, said: ot to wage war on crime."

are seems little chance for gun laws. House Speaker P. O'Neill Jr. said: "I at a general gun control 'd meet with very much round here."

leagen campaigned last nst stricter gun laws, and him Tuesday evening. Mr. Brady played a game of catch with her — "demonstrating his ability to move" the assistance of a respirator. in spite of his weakened condition;" the medical bulletin said.

ıdy, Improving, Able to Talk and See

Ithough Condition Remains Critical

S. Korean Court Upholds Death

Sentences for 3 United Press International

SEOUL - The Supreme Court has approved death sentences for three persons and life imprisonment for seven for their involvement in last year's armed insurrection in Kwangin.

The court, upholding n military court ruling, also ratified the pris-on terms of 72 persons, ranging from 3 to 15 years, for taking part in the anti-government riots.

In rendering its verdict on Tuesday, the Supreme Court said: "A close study of the court documents showed that there were no legal mistakes in convicting the defendants."

The defendants, many of them university students, were convicted last summer for taking part in the May rioting in which at least 189 his wife, Sarah, visited 800 injured.

when Attorney General William French Smith was asked whether Monday's shooting would alter the administration's position, he replied: "I doubt very much whether it would."

Federal Law as Model

Rep. Delbert L. Latta, Republican of Ohio, said: "You'll never get at that individual who is menfaily disturbed and wants to get the president. You could have 900 laws and you wouldn't stop him from doing it."

Federal law covers only a small part of the country' violent crimes, and the enforcement of most laws against such crimes is a local issue, but Sen. Thurmond thinks Washington can set a model for other inrisdictions. "We've found that, when the federal government docs something in certain aspects of criminal law, it does have moral impact on the states," he said. Other lawmakers insist that tougher enforcement of existing laws is the only answer. "New York state has the toughest gun control laws," said Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., a New York Republican, "and we have the highest crime rate." Rep. William J. Hughes, a New Jersey Democrat, announced accelerated hearings on the "causes and prevention of violent crime."

bood

the hospital.

ident.

curred on the right side of Mr. Brady's brain, but that is the non-

McCarthy, 32, reported earlier in good condition, was said to be im-proving. District of Columbia po-liceman Thomas K. Delahanty, 45, who had been listed Tuesday in serious condition, was in good condition Wednesday. Both were wounded in the attack on the pres-

Air Companies

Agree on Blame

In Chicago Crash

CHICAGO - McDonnell-

Donglas and American Airlines have reached an out-of-court agreement on which company was to blame for the crash of an American Airlines DC-10 at Chicago's

O'Hare Airport that killed 273 per-

Details of Tuesday's settlement, announced in U.S. District Court, were secret, meaning that there will not be a full court hearing on the question of who was at fault in

The only issue to be decided at the worst U.S. air disaster.

relatives are entitled.

COMDE

compensation

the wing.

Secret Service agent Timothy J.

minant side, be said.

Jodie Foster

Edward Wilhite and Stuart F.

aid in his defense and attend the

Meanwhile, Mr. Hinckley

It was not known whether Mr.

Investigators were checking Mr.

Hinckley's recent movements, but little information was made public vestigators searched the room

Monday night, discovering the un-

When the session ended, he was bail hearing.

Johnson

... in "Taxi Driver" role said, bowever, that such informa-On Tuesday, White House chief tion routinely should have been of staff James A. Baker 3d told reprovided to the Secret Service, but porters that Mr. Brady's progress had been "incredible." Wedneswas not, adding that the FBI had known of the Nashville arrest but day, on a television show, he said that the latest development left had never told the Secret Service. "everybody ... very encouraged." Secret Service, is expected to testi-He recalled that, when Mr. Brafy to these points during a second dy was brought to the hospital, doctors said: "People just normalcongressional hearing also on Thursday into the operation of his ly don't recover from this kind of agency. wound ... They said, 'We hold out very little hope.'" The second hearing will be held by the Subcommittee on Treasury. The bullet caused "some mini-

Postal Service and General Govmal amount of damage" to the left side of the brain, which controls ernment of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Mr. Brady's mental processes, speech and motor movement on "It's a start we have to make," said Sen. James Abdnor, Republi-his right side, according to Dr. can of South Dakota, who is chair-O'Leary, chief of clinical affairs at man of the subcommittee. This committee six years ago "Fairly extensive damage" oc-held hearings into the conduct of the Secret Service after an assassination attempt against former President Gerald R. Ford in San Francisco.

It was during those hearings that Mr. Knight and other officials of the Secret Service acknowledged that the woman who fired at Mr. Ford, Sara Jane Moore, repeatedly phoned the Secret Service to warn it of her plans, but that no one took the calls.

Rep. Roybal is chairman of the Subcommittee on Treasury and Postal Service of the House Ap-propriations Committee. He said that the first witnesses would he Donald T. Regan, the secretary of the Treasury. The Secret Service is an agency of the Treasury Department

Rep. Roybal said he also was interested in a question that had arisen about morale among Secret Service agents. He noted in passing that appropriations for the Secret Service had risen rapidly in recent years. The service was given $157 million this fiscal year, and had asked for $20 million more for fiscal 1982.

The third congressional group that will conduct an investigation is the Subcommittee on Com-merce, Consumer and Monetary Affairs of the House Government Operations Committee.

future hearings is the amount of asstory damages to which Dacko Ends 'Siege'

Under terms of the settlement, In Favor of 'Alert' McDonnell-Douglas, the plane's manufacturer, will drop a suit seeking to force American Airlines BANGUL Central African Reto pay the full cost of damages public - President David Dacko stemming from the May 25, 1979. has lifted the state of siege imcrash. Initially, the two companies posed 10 days ago when support-ers of the opposition took to the had jointly accepted liability for streets to protest his March 15 The DC-10 dropped an engine election victory.

as it was taking off from O'Hare The siege status has been reon a flight to Los Angeles. An in-vestigation by the Federal Aviaplaced by a state of aleri, a milder measure, the Tuesday announcetion Administration blamed the ment said, and the night curfew crash on a crack in the engine will be shortened by two hours. mounting, which it said was caused by American Airlines Mr. Dacko, who regained power 18 months ago in a French-backed maintenance mechanics using a coup that overthrew Emperor forklift to remove the engine from Bedel Bokassa, will be sworn in Friday for a six-year term.

Personal Campaign

Noting that Mr. Reagan's supporters had expected a vigorous ersonal campaign by the president, beginning with speeches to at least three state legislatures this month. Sen. Lazalt said. "We have

H. Stuart Knight, director of the to formulate another political campaign in which we're selling a product, rather than a candidate. While surrogates can help, he said, "there's no substitute for Reagan."

> Alabama Twister Kills 2 United Press Internal HURTSBORO, Ala. - Two persons were killed and nine injured Wednesday by a tornado that passed through this castern Alabama town, police said. Damage to the center part of the town was described as extensive.

clergy Episcopalian clergy who are married," the statement said, "the Holy See has stipulated that the exception to the norm of celihacy is conceded in favor of these sole persons and should not be understood as implying a change in the thought of the [Roman Catholic] church as to the value of priestly celibacy, which remains the norm also for future candidates for the priesthood from this group." The statement also said that the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith had designated the Most Rev. Bernard Law, bishop of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, as ecclesiastic delegate in the United States. Vatican sources said that his task will be to examine individual cases of Episcopalian clergy-men wishing to join the Catholic don Johnson aide now representing the American Retail Federation, said he had thought Mr. Reagan "was beginning to lose the real good momentum" behind his program last week and "was in bad shape on the tax bill. I think he's going to get it back because of this. The members will find Ronald Reagan strengthened, and even if be can't get out there himself, conveying his wishes from the sickhed will be powerful stuff." And Rep. Tony Coelho of California, chairman of the Democrat-ic Congressional Campaign Committee, said the wounding of Mr. Reagan means "an extension of the honeymoon by three to five months and enough pressure on Republicans to go along on the tax bill that be might win that one. 100.

There was little question that the short-term effect would help both Mr. Reagan and his party. An occasional Republican offered fears that Mr. Reagan's convalescence would cost his party its most effective spokesman for a time.

Others said they felt that, for now,

gram they support is the presi-

Mr. Reagan's critics have an im-dent's program.

argued Sen. John C. Danforth, Republican of Missouri, in noting that the Budget Committee - and thus far the Senate - bad cut eper into the budget than even Mr. Reagan proposed.

"And now." said Sen. Danforth, we must mitigate the impact on those individuals and regions most harmed by what we've done." Added Sen. Lowell C. Weicker, Democrat of Connecticut: 'What's at stake bere is not a political party, but human lives.

Sen. Chafee had proposed additional spending of $450 million for education, $300 million for fuel assistance for the poor. $50 million for weatherization programs, $98 million for urban development grants, $50 million for community and mental health, and $25 million for mass transit.

Sympathy for President Puts Democrats on Defensive

By Adam Clymer New York Times Service

President Reagan's election, Re-publicans have been talking of their opportunity to build on that landslide to become the United States' dominant political party, and in recent weeks they have been finding nuggets of confirmation in

Last Friday, Richard B. Wirtheconomy was a major element in the recent increase, shown in polls, of people calling themselves Republicans.

But Mr. Reagan's brush with an assassin Monday emphasized how slippery that foothold toward majointy status really is, and how much the party's hopes rest, for now, with him. All sorts of Republicans are united behind his economic program, to be sure, but some doubt its merit and are lining up because they consider him a real leader

"He's the point man," as his friend, Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, said Tuesday.

Foes Pulling Punches

Mr. Reagan's escape, however, seems likely to burnish the prospects for one critical piece of his party's hopes for the future, legislative success for his tax and spending cuts. Foes were pulling their punches Tuesday, canceling rallies, rewriting speeches and worrying over how to make the distinction clear that they opposed

Most politicians expected Mr. Reagan's public standing to soar, both from sympathy and from admiration for his easy humor on the way to the operating table. "Here's the guy joking as they take the bullet out," said one reluctantly admiring House Democrat. But there was widespread uncertainty about how lasting that effect would be. Sen. Laxalt said. "I don't think there will be any longterm impact."

Patrick H. Caddell, a Democratic pollster, said that he believed "people are relieved, and they are rallying, hut it's personal, not the same thing as handling an international crisis brilliantly.

Robert M. Teeter, president of all they needed to do was to keep reminding the public that the pro-Market Opinion Research, a Detroit company that polls for Republicans, disagreed and said he doubted that it mattered what kind of a crisis Mr. Reagan mastered. "For people who didn't know what mediate problem, evidenced as the National Education Association they thought, or weren't all that sure, he was pretty calm and pretty called off a rally to protest budget tough, and this may have done cuts that it had planned to hold at more than some outside crisis in the Capitol Wednesday. Charles T. giving people a kind of sense of him," Mr. Teeter said. Short-Term Effect

Manatt, the new Democratic national chairman, was rewriting a speech he had planned to give Tuesday attacking the Reagan labor program.

1

ji N

Democrats in the House differed about whether the surge of favorable reaction to Mr. Reagan would last long enough to affect the chances of his legislative prospects. "He becomes untouchable and everyone is required to say nice things now, but it may pass very quickly." one said.

Rep. Charles B. Rangel of New York disagreed, arguing: "There's no way to avoid it. The sympathetic support is going to blur the real issues, the impact of the cuts, the inequities of the tax reductions."

 Phase 3 of the renovation program has been completed.

Hotel Meurice 228, rue de Rivoli 75001 Paris

Tel. 260_38.60 - Telex 230 673 F only the president's program, not the president.

WASHINGTON - Ever since public opinion polls. lin, Mr. Reagan's pollster, told leaders of the Republican National Committee that a belief that Mr. Reagan's policies would help the

Poland: Slow the Pace

Solidarity and the Polish government came close to the brink again this week and "stepped back. Once again the threat of a po--tentially catastrophic crackdown on the 10million member union was averted. There's no way of knowing how many more times that can happen. No one wants a violent - clash, but each time the tension rises more "cracks appear in the structures of both the state and the union. The pressure on the Polisb people must be approaching the unbearable

In this round, there were several critical changes. For the first time since Solidarity was founded in Gdansk's Lenin Shipyard last August, violence by the government against the union became an issue. In re-- sponse to the beating of workers, Solidarity threatened an open-ended general strike. And negotiations between the union and the government resulted in a broad compromise rather than almost total capitulation by the government.

Like all compromises, this one left people unsatisfied on both sides. Although Solidarity's national commission endorsed the agreement, considerable dissatisfaction was expressed with the outcome, and for the first " time publicly, with union leader Lech Walesa. Two union members who were injured in the incident that set off the latest troubles said in a letter: "We did not gain anything. Walesa has made bungled decisions. We can compromise on the supply of onions, but not when blood has been spilled." Mr. Walesa, himself, seems tired and wants to drop his leadership role as soon as things calm down. And there is an ongoing struggle in the government between hardliners who would stand fast against union demands, and those who favor additional concessions.

Meanwhile, a major underlying cause of the Polish crisis worsens. Polish officials estimate the country's external debt at $27 billion and food supplies are shrinking. West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher has suggested that in the end food shortages could shove the Poles over the edge. He is obviously right. For that reason, the West should continue to provide Poland with food aid and debt relief. For economic and political reasons, Bonn is most threatened by the Polish situation and therefore it bas taken a leading role in Western rescue operations. The West German move is worth following as long as there is no military intervention in Poland.

At the same time the Polish Catholic Church has provided some advice to Solidarity that is worth following: "Put [your] de-mands on the installment plan." Much has been gained. But to preserve it, the pace must now slow. Victories should be consolidated and compromises should not be rejected out of hand

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE.

The Arsenal of Handguns

Let's not talk about gun controls. We have all done that before — and before that, and that, and that — and it never has mattered - much, because "gun controls" can mean any-- thing or nothing. The people who know this best of all are those who make money in the great American handgun market - from the big three firms of Smith & Wesson, Colt Industries and Sturm, Ruger & Co., on down to the foreign gun-parts importers, the pawn-shop dealers and the street traders. They, along with the lobby organizations that would have us all believe that there's no dif-- ference between rifles and handguns, thrive · on the vagueness of the phrase "gun controls.

Quick as a flick of the trigger, they can point out that bere we all were in the District of Columbia, with one of the "toughest gun control laws in the country," and look what happened. That's right, because only minutes away, any deranged boob can rustle up a handgun from a roadside stand and drive it right in; or the same crazed person can buy one right here in the city, hot from any of the 50 states.

These same groups can tell you, too, that registering guns won't keep them out of the hands of killers or other criminals - and that's right, too; sure, it can help trace a stolen gun or two, but when manufacturers are dumping more than two million new handguns onto the market every year, what difference does a permit make? This is why the chief lobbyist for one of these groups with the conveniently broad names — the Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms - isn't all that worried about congressional reaction to the latest assassination attempt on a U.S. president. John M. Snyder predicts that the expected rush of activity in Congress will be nothing more than that - and that once this flurry ends, Congress might even pass a bill sponsored by the National Rifle Association to weaken the enforcement powers of the government.

Keep all gun talk and control talk lumped. together like this and, sure enough, Congress will either forget the whole subject (as it bad after John Lennon, Michael Halberstam and all the other lives lost every day in handgun, shootings) or pass some half-baked, incluent tive measure.

Other are arguing that efforts to eliminate or reduce the supply of handguns would be neither practically nor politically effective they suggest tougher, more comprehensive and more sophisticated law enforcement. Our own prescription is different. We agree on the law enforcement aspects, but believe that handguns - as opposed to long guns used by sportsmen or registered collections of pistols — should be taken off the open market. Effective law enforcement should substitute for the mass arming of everyone in attempts at self-defense.

True, just as all the narcotics laws in the world haven't stopped drug traffic, there is no way to stop handgun killings or assassina-

You Should Buy a Couple to Protect Yourselves Against These Other Satisfied Customers.'

Making of a Legend

WASHINGTON - The hon-W eymoon has ended and a new legend has been born. The gunfire that shattered the stillness of a rainy Washington Monday afternoon broke, not just four bodies, but the mood of eu-phoria that has buoyed this capital since the inauguration of a new president and the return of the hostages from Iran. But it also created a new hero in structure to the assassin's bullet Ronald Reagan, the chipper "Gipper" who took a .22-caliber has been demonstrated again. Last Saturday night, at the Grid-iron dinner, where Washington correspondents entertain the polislug in his chest but walked into the emergency room on his own power and joked with the annous doctors on his way into surgery. This being Washington, the poli-ticians no scotter learned that the ticians with satirical songs and skits, Mr. Reagan and his press secretary Jim Brady laughed ticians no sconer learned that the president was out of danger than they started sorting out the polit-cal implications of the day's dra-ma. That is a process that will take some time but one fast is constant.

some time, but one fact is so obvi-way to the hospital and Mr. Brady ous it cannot be missed even in a was lying on the sidewalk in his own blood, a bullet in his brain. capital that sometimes under-The sense that was so strong in January, when the hostages came home and the new administration took office, that perhaps the frus-trations and agonies of the 1960s and 1970s had been put behind us stands everything but the most im-portant thing. What happened to Mr. Reagan on Monday is the stuff of which legends are made.

I have a chilling thought that mocks the merry mood of the Gridiron dinner. A year ago, we lost Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the lost Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Democrat from Massachusetts, as our scheduled speaker because his friend — and mine — Allard Lowenstein had just beca shot to death. This year's Gridiron is inde-libly linked with the last glimpse of the lovely, loving man we knew as Jim Brady in his customary rollick-ing good humor. far bloodier place than it was in the innocent Eisenhower era. The fragility of the U.S. governmental

Next year - God knows what Waits HS.

Handling a $Crisis_{\Xi}$ Who's in Charge? Slat

نه 10

ma

very smart. Now that the new Cristal agement machinery has be to a first test of a sort in Mc shootings, yet a third cone seems inescapable. We hat heard the last of the power s between the White House ai Haig — and won't, for as a between the white house as lable Haig — and won't, for as B lable Mr. Haig remains in office. In arton That's a promise you coulorica h probably counted on the W.cc. said ton press to keep, in any cafic nair to press to keep, in any cafic nair it is made more certain not e o, the the nature of Mr. Haig but 28, but terms of the new Crisis Msimatu are, if anything, perhaps histring removed some of the sting fill Haig. So did the president's signation of Mr. Haig as hr mary adviser on foreign and chief formulator and s-man for foreign policy for t

Similar Thinking

The official announceme

ministration precise.

By Philip Geyelin second judgment followed 10 da the first — that Mr. Haig pain very smart.

WASHINGTON — By what stretch of anything other than his own compulsive instinct for filling power vacuums did Sec-retary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. make that memorable announcement minutes after Monday's assassination attempt that he was "in control here" at the White House?

The degree of President Reagan's incapacitation was still unknown. Vice President Bush, next in succession, was flying back to town, airborne, but by no means to town, airborne, but by no means out of touch, in one of the world's most sophisticated communica-tions centers. Even if both men had been incapable of functioning, nothing in the laws or the Consti-tution would have so swiftly conferred control of the govern-ment upon Mr. Haig. The order of succession passes first to the speaker of the House and then to the president pro tem of the Senate ment procedures. Given that to a things worked in those brie intra nizing moments on Monient Br case can be made that the arth the president pro tem of the Senate before reaching the secretary of are, it anyming, painting relation relation in the precise. Designating the vice principle is a scheme of the paint of th Happily, the confusion was flecting. But the incident only serves to sharpen the question that had given rise, only the previous week, to a crisis of sorts in the new Reagan administration over the management of crises. The ques-tion comes down now, as it did then, to Mr. Haig's own sense of the reach of his power as secretary. of state.

From the administration's first day, before he had even been con-firmed by the Senate, Mr. Haig made clear his own intention that has powers over foreign-policy making were to be nearly supreme. He was the prime mover in the struggle that led last week to the president's decision to put Mr. Bush in charge of the new Crisis Managment team.

Managment team. For Mr. Haig this was a need-less, self-inflicted rebuff. Nobody with his White House experience, and record of fierce loyalty to Richard Nixon, could have been unaware of an elementary fact of Washington political life: that the White House is filled, traditional-ly, with staff members with a keen and continuing concern for the president's political welfare and of the indivisibility of foreign policy and domestic policy, and politics; and that these presidential inti-mates come equipped with the most sensitive autenna for the first sign of challenge to their man's (or sign of challenge to their man's (or their) authority or political wel-

This town's favorite parlor game being what it is — Who's Up-Down-In-Or-Out — a sman aneuverer would, then, not have gratuitonsly invited the instant judgment that Mr. Bush was Up and In and that Mr. Haig was Down and Out, Accordingly, a

The official announceme fers to "emergency situation said the "type of inciden Bush "team" would deal "ranges from an isolated te attack to an attack upon the ed States by a hostile pe That's either a lot of territic very little — an Iranian h crisis or a Pearl Harbor obve fit, but they don't come alon iv day. it, but they don't come aron, ry day. The president, presumably make the decision on what c tutes a "crisis" worthy of ac ing the Bush team. (He was capable of doing so on Mor Mr. Bush himself will have n is management staff. he 3 sis management staff; he Tan draw, aides say, on the staff c in National Security Council. And in the ordinary use o new machinery, the presider the end, will be guided by strongest arguments from thos most trusts — those, more (than not, whose thinking is cle to his, and those who are bes formed. Unless the appearance power is Mr. Haig's primary cern, it's hard to see on a grounds a secretary of state : complain about having to com, on those terms for influence in making of foreign policy. $21981, The Washington I

The Ideology of Depression

By C.L. Sulzberger

PARIS - There is certainly no They learned of the need to insure clear-cut dividing line be that as many people as possible example, or West Germany een the delimition of the be en loyed de example, or West Germany H г. ог енне and Thailand compared to Likewise, China's great nati,

By David S. Broder

from criticism of the man, Mr. Reagan now enjoys an aura of goodwill and a presumption of good motive which no president since war hero Dwight D. Eisen-bower has had as a shield in the political arena, Tragically, that arena is now tions of national leaders. But right now once again - it is a question of focusing serious attention on the subject. And if this week's events do not do it, you have to ask yourself, what in God's name will.

THE WASHINGTON POST.

International Opinion

The Attack on Reagan

Political attacks flow through the American history of our century like a dark trace of blood. The sbots in Dallas are only the macabre echo of that famous "shot heard 'round the world" with which the American Revolution began 200 years ago ...

What distinguishes the perpetrators of violence in the United States from those in other regions, from terrorists and kidnappers and all those who cause street fights and break display windows, is the lack of any political or ideological motive. The association with guns is for Americans an almost intimate. bodily function. More than that: The possession of weapons is seen as a given right and any attempt to restrict the access to guns churns up deep-seated emotions. For many Americans, disarming equals emasculation.

- Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung.

* * *

Fortunately, as events on Monday showed, the political and constitutional machinery of the United States is sufficiently well organized to ride such a crisis and provide the continuity of government which the country and the Atlantic alliance need."

- From the Times (London).

As sometimes happens, something good comes out of the bad. It seems clear that the prestige of Ronald Reagan will grow from this ordeal.

- From l'Aurore (Paris).

President Reagan --- wisecracking with brave insouciance - will be a repository of admiration and goodwill until he rejoins the ranks of the fit politicians again. His budget cuts may breeze through; his immediate policy requests obediently fulfilled. But will anything really change?

Any European visitor to modern America finds it a frightening and complex place. Day by day, the level of random criminality rises to levels that would bring public upheaval here. Handguns are as easy to buy as soda pop across the United States. And what, only the other day, did Mr Reagan have to say about gun control? "Tve been in power for six weeks and I baven't fired a shot yet."

- From the Guardian (London).

* * *

The violence which runs through the country like the rumbling of distant thunder is the same current which renders America dynamic, vibrant, audacious, but also brutal, dangerous and sometimes bloody.

- From the Journal de Geneve (Geneva).

* * *

It is paradoxical that Mr. Reagan, who publicly defends uncontrolled possession of weapons, and who "supplemented" Mr. Carter's "human rights" propaganda with his propaganda about the "struggle against in-ternational terrorism," has himself almost fallen victim to the terrorism which so extensively mushrooms in his own country. .

- From Rude Pravo (Prague).

In the International Edition

Seventy-Five Years Ago April 2, 1906

NEW YORK - Few questions before Congress are so much discussed as the Hephurn bill providing for the establishment by the Interstate Commerce Commission on railway rates. The Chicago Tribune observes: 'The railroads would like to amend the bill so that whenever the commission fixes a rate the railway affected may go into court and have the rate suspended while legal proceedings are pending. If that were permitted, the roads, employing their customary dilatory tactics, could make rate regulation of little value." The Memphis Commercial Appeal comments: "The experience of European countries supplies plausible arguments against government regulation of railway rates."

.

.

Fifty Years Ago April 2, 1931

PARIS - Today's editorial in the Herald reads: "For advocates of the Nicaraguan canal project the great earthquake that has ruined the region around Managua could not have been more untimely. The engineers who have been verifying and amending previous surveys of the line may be obliged, if the project is persisted in, to make fresh calculations to conform to the geologicat changes that the seismic disturbance has probably caused. It may be said that the Isthmus of Panama itself is within the earthquake zone. But the Panama Canal cost a great many millions, a vast investment of toil and money. If disrupted by earthquake, it might be repaired at the expense of a few other millions."

Heroic Tales

From primitive days, heroic tales have been fashioned from in-O'Neil character sang, "I will pop the balloon. And I'll reveal that Tip O'Neill calls the Capitol tune." cidents in which brave men escape danger. That tradition has been carried intact into the presidency from Andrew Jackson, the hero But in reality, the balloon was of New Orleans, to Theodore Roopopped by the all-too-weil-remem-bered sound of gunfire, and a sevelt, the hero of San Juan Hill, demented individual came within and John Kennedy on PT-109.

In these and other cases, the sur-vival of the hero in conditions of inches of crasing the voters' mandate. imminent danger is taken as a sign of divine favor — a token that he has been saved for a reason. So much more so when the threat This society, which stubbornly resists even the most modest effort to discipline its own appetite for handguns, had once again paid the price for its foily. A sick man, arstrikes at the president in nflice, price for its folly. A sick man, ar-from a seemingly deranged assas-rested once before in threat-to-the-sin, and he survives what the entire president circumstances, had protelevision-watching world sees could easily have been a calamity. cured a new weapon with ridicu-lous ease — and this time had struck.

Ten weeks earlier, Mr. Reagan struck an unusual theme in his In-augural Address, when he turned from a recital of the nation's problems to say, "We have every right to dream heroic dreams. Those who say we're in a time when there are no heroes, they just don't know where to look."

In his first weeks in affice, Mr. Reagan demonstrated repeatedly a kind of personal case and charm which not only delighted his audi-ences but disarmed his critics. He was the first to kid his own supposed shortcomings — his age, his hearing, his eyesight, even his grasp of issues — in a way unt-inged by any sympathy-seeking self-pity.

Wit and Grace

When he displayed that same wil and grace in the hours after his own life was threatened, he cievated those appealing human quali-ties to the level of legend. As long as people remember the hospital-ized president joshing his doctors and nurses — and they will remember - no critic will be able to portray Mr. Reagan as a cruel or callous or heartless man.

Criticism of his policies will be - probably forever - separated

The International Herald Tribung welcomes letters from readers. Short letters have a better chance of being published. All let-ters are subject to condensation for space reasons. Anonymous letters will not be considered for publication. Writers may request that their letters be signed only with initials but preference will be given to those fully signed and bearing the writer's complete address. The Herald Tribune cannot acknowledge letters sent to the editor.

حلذا من الأصل

- that dream was over. "Then one noon," the Tip ported flop houses and swarm the streets with multitudes of beggars.

far less lower vis-a-vis preceding monetary values in a recession than in a depression. The purchas-ing power of money may be worth less in a recession than during what is termed a normal period; but it isn't carried around in potato sacks or wheelbarrows because it has virtually no value at all, and it takes a huge amount to buy a little object.

-Letters-The Saudi Planes

I must seriously question William Safire's journalistic credibility and fairness in his unjust and unwarranted criticism of President Reagan's decision to sell Saudi Arabia the additional equipment isurrection.

weapons against Israel. There is no iustification, nor any evidence to support this assumption. Let the records of the two countries speak for themselves. Saudi Arabia has an unblemished record of nonaggression. Its military has never fired a shot in Israel, on the other hand, regu-effectively, it must have offensiv weapons. However, no less an a gument can be made for anoth proven friend, Saudi Arabia.

W.W. HATCHER. Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

Against Lefever

Ernest W. Lefever's criticism human rights legislation is frive lous and much more than the ("The Case Against Lefever," IHI March 7-8). Whoever excuses th systematical use of torture and po-litical murder is accessary to th most cruel crimes one can imagine.

recession" and "depression." Perhaps the sole loosely accepted difference in interpreting the word is that during a recession people don't sell apples at street corners, dive out of skyscraper windows, sleep 500 to a room in state-sup-

The value of money is generally

It is noteworthy that several countries which today would be experiencing thorough depressions already did so during the late 1920s and the 1930s and learned much from their sad experience.

Nn ideology and no policy can juslutionary. tify human rights violations. And, what is more, the United States will derive no advantage from supporting repressive dictatorships. On the contrary, it will unite all democratic, social or Christian activists with Communist-influenced mum.

The proposed elimination of population control programs (the move against contraception, same issue) is another indication of the inhumanity with which the Reagan administration pursues some of its policies. Malnutrition, illiteracy, unemployment, social instability and the danger of more and more regional conflicts turning to open war are only some problems directly linked with overpopulation. The abolition of poulation control pro-grams would be the most malicious and irresponsible thing the U.S. government could do.

MARTIN BEYER. Ibbenbueren, W. Germany.

within the domain of the pycholo-gist as the economist or idealogist, these approaches seem immutably than in a non-Communist neighbor - when measured on a per capita basis.

ing labor market, provided infla-tion could be beld in theck. They learned about the need for social nam's impoverished empire. insurance, job insurance, health in-surance, high levels of free school-ing, and the dangers of artificially pride caused it during the Meric years to decline any foreign as ance, even following great d ters like earthquakes. It is only restricted trade. pragmatic new Deng regime with recognizes that the Chinese per Welfare State . In other words, scattered about will gain more happiness health by mixing and accept y the world there developed differ-ing forms of what is usually known help from other nations. It is curious that there are as the welfare state, a government clear-cut dividing lines bety the ideology of the rich and of poor in their economic effect⁴⁴ prepared to care to a much greater legree for its impoverished and jobless with pensions, housing, cer-tain food allotments provided from national funds primarily colcourse, lands with small popt tions and enormous natural lected from the more prosperous elements of society. bia, and Libya statistically b statistical positions of we: which are not always shared si. In a rather disorganized way this approach has managed in all de-veloped lands and also in many factorily among all people. And there are striking differences between practices of count less developed countries to ease the torments of a true Depression. claiming to be ideologically s-lar. There is very little land cor-tivization in Yugoslavia and f Thus there is swollen unemploy-ment in the United States, Britain, West Germany, France and else-where; but the protests of those afland. There is a considerable gree of private business in H fected are shrill although not revolutionary. In Poland they are revo-Needless Certain political systems are built on an unsound structure In Social Democratic West many, although things are a shakier now, there are infini better labor-capital relations t which inclines them toward a version of semipermanent recession. This is the case of those orthodox existed for years in Britain whe was run by postwar Labor gow ments representing primarily Communist countries which insist on collectivization of land and virtual elimination of private owner-ship of business, thus reducing human profit motive to a minitrade unions.

gary.

Politically speaking, it is feeling that national adminis tion tends to buy needless troug for itself when it welds its ecc? my, agriculture, trade and of For reasons that are as much economic fundamentals to inteltually concerved concepts or bor 7 and tracts long since outdat

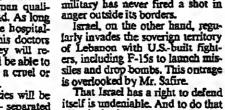

Pragmatic transcends dogmatic The ideology of true depress, where it strikes usually lacks in to run counter to the instancts of human nature. By erasing or re-ducing to a minimal the incentive ination and unwillingness to exi-iment with flexibility as Frank of a profit motive, it is demonstrably proved that in such lands the D. Roosevelt practiced success in ly in the United States when value of what is produced is less made democracy safe for world. ©1981, International Herald Tribu

Herald-En Tribune	Lee W. Huebner	Publisher
John Hay Whitney	Philip M. Foisie	Executive Edi
Chairman	Waiter N. Wells	Editor
Katharine Graham Arthur Ochs Sakberger	Robert K. McCabe	Deputy Edit
Co-Chairmen	Stephen Klaidman	Chief Editorial 3
International Harold Tellman, S.A. se apiral de 1,200,000 F. R.C. Partis No 75 5 2012. 175/151, son. Charles de Gande, 10221 Nonlhy- son-Soine, T.G. 76/17, 45, These 10273 Harold, Paris Catter, Harold, Paris Directors de la publicación: Walter N. Theyre, U.S. rebrezpicos prinz 223 yearly. Sociand dans postigr prios at Long Minard Con. 1979, 11030 - 1038 Interpresentandi Harold Attinue Ada addas macrosal.	Roland Pinson René Bondy	Associate Publi. Director of Find

· . . .

China

for their F-15 fighter planes (IHT, March 13). Mr. Safire bases his criticism on the enormous assumption that the planes will be used as offensive

Robin Lefevre's production, though patchy, bad an intriguing central notion, which was that the play could be set in 1917, with Bolingbroke as the Leninist revolutionary taking over a tottering czar-ist regime. This notion holds up better than most other attempts at Shakespearean modernization.

role also had some strong moments, and within the narrow confines of the Vic's stage and budget this

* * *

There has recently been considerable press comment on the possible Sunday opening of West End theaters. What I would like to consider here and now is the closing of West End theaters. At the beginning of this week, the Cambridge, Fortune, Garrick, Her Majesty's, New London, Old Vic, Phoenix, Royalty, St. George's, Savoy, Shaw and Whitehall were all dark. It will immediately be screeched by certain managers that their premises have shows either about to open or newly departed, but I can recall no single month in 17 years as a drama critic when more than a dozen mainstream

London playhouses were simultaneously shuttered.

tinue it might make sense to leave the posters of closed shows up outside (as is done in New York):

though this momentarily confuses those trying to avoid the barren and desolate outside appearance of a once-great theater like Her Majesty's, which

On a major and still more practical point, the sooner the Society of West End Managers, Equity, the backstage unions and the Greater London

Council licensing committees stop generally mess-ing about and start providing a sensible theater service when it is wanted (Sunday afternoons and evenings for a start) the more the West End is likely to avoid a total shutdown. The point of a cut-price ticket booth and the possibility of weekend playing is not that at last they are with us, but that if they had been with us 10 years ago when they should have been, we would not now have 25

Instead of attempting to set himself up as a lat-ter-day Lord Chamberlain, it would be more useful

Council could turn their attendon to the kind of

Sir Horace Cutler and the Greater London

percent of London's thesters closed.

now looks about ready for the squatters.

seats through locked doors, it does at least

On a minor and practical point, if this is to conwas a chamber thriller about kingship.

Landling Ale S. Reportedly Set Halt Managua Aid Revival of Orton's 'Sloane' Is Campy

HINGTON ---- The United has decided to halt all finand to the leftist Sandinista ment of Nicaragua because nks to rebels in El Salvador, stration sources said on sday.

· · · ·

E Server

2. 34

1166.01.1

101 at 2. . . .

Contra -

Table of ave.

and a second

missin .

the the last

A

n incar

Service and the service of the servi

ساز

8 . S. S.

翻 …

*

See. 2

Sector in the sector is a sector is a sector in the sector is a sector is a sector in the sector is a sector is a sector in the sector is a se

Sec. 1

10 Mar 19

😹 - Arra i

F 7 7 8

The second

2000 5

N 30 V

86 Th ----

100

The month of no m

-

St.8 . 200-

، مار المجر، فيترهند - الموسقين

÷.,

Si Jacobi ...

374 T

et 10. ...

ANT: CALLER

trans -

S. 55. 11 .

WERLY I

1464 · · ·

5 415 A

-

Second of different .

96 - 1

2125

1.

1

1.0

18.5

12.4

and a second

-

and the second s

8- 40- 17- 17

Havi -

2. 124 ...

pines -

Sec.

3 23,000

.

2-12-

 $\varphi_{i} \in \mathcal{F}_{i}$

See. Sec.

* s

3:57

. . . ·

24-23.00

₩---

14-14-1

10 A.A. 2010 - 1

Sales ...

18 A. A.

Same

20 Jul - -

5-9-1-1-1-

5¹⁴⁹⁴⁵ 1.000

187121

- 44.4

5211

عذ وريخ

از وریسته و سور مد

Street of شوب ريينې

, . · · ·

19. A.C.

100

2/

1. C.

- خر شر

2. 11

1. er - e dans diese in

V 1-20 11

83 JAF: .

يغيدي

E TRUE For

officials said that the State ment was informing Con-bat the president has deterthat the government of Nia is "aiding and abetting vi-in another country — El or — and that under the law 5. aid program must be end-

$75-million program had al-been suspended for review sout $60 million already disd. Under the law, the Nicargovernment will not receive asining $15 million and will ed to reimburse the United

el Fire Put Out

Las Vegas Strip and Press: The Amoria

VEGAS - A fire broke out fifth and sixth floors of the s Palace hotel on the Las Strip Wednesday, but au-s said it was quickly put was the third hotel fire in jost town in less than five fereman 'reportedly was , but there were no other ineported as some guests were ted. The fire was extini less than an hour.

States for the $60 million already received. U.S. officials said that the notification of the halt in aid would "also contain some carrots," sug-gesting that a total cutoff of Communist arms going to leftist insur-gents in El Salvador would be considered in restoring the U.S. finan-der heavy pressure from Sen. Jesse Helms, the South Carolina Republican who is chairman of the Sen-ate's Western Hemispheric subcommittee, to determine if the Nicaraguan government was cooper-ating so closely with Cuban subversion in Central America that it was becoming an extension of the Cuban operation.

ment to Congress says the Nicara-guan government, under terms of the law, is no longer eligible to receive U.S. aid because it is "har-boring international terrorism and abetting violence in another country." The decision is expected to have a wide political impact on the rest of Central America and will be a blow to moderate elements in the Nicaragnan government, who have been trying to resist the drift to the Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said on March 3 that the arms flow from Nicaragua had lessened sharply in response to U.S. pressure, but he subsequently said that the Managua government was looking for other less visible ways to continue it."

id Bagnold, 91, Dies; rote 'National Velvet'

United Press Interne DON - Enid Bagnold, 91, 1935 novel "National Velve Elizabeth Taylor her first ood starring role, died y, her family announced, ional Velvet," published in , vas about a girl who, disas a boy jockey, rides her orse to victory in Britain's og Grand National chase. It became an immenternational best-seller. It unched the 12-year-old Elizavior's film career.

DBITUARIES

Bagnold was the daughter umy officer. Her novels in-"Serena Blandish" (1924), Door of Life" (1938), "The and Envied" (1951) and Jin's Journey" (1956). Sevber plays were performed in York, including "Gertie" in ____ The death of Jakob Ackeret, 83, "The Chalk Garden" in 1956 a Swiss acronautics expert, was an-The Chinese Prime Minister" nounced here Wednesday.

cial assistance. The administration has been un-

The report by the State Depart-

left.

1964. Katharine Hepburn toured in "A Matter of Gravity" in 1966-67. Miss Bagnold in private life was Lady Jones, widow of Sir Ernest Jones who was chairman of Renters news service for 25 years. The literati of the 1920s and 1930s, such as Virginia Woolf, Rudyard Kipling, H.G. Wells and Victoria Sackville-West, often went to their mansion in the south coast town of Brighton. He died in 1962.

> . . Arthur Gander

CHIASSO, Switzerland (AP) -Arthur Gander, 71, president of the International Gymnastics Federation from 1966 to 1976, died Monday.

Jakob Ackeret

KUSNACHT, Switzerland (AP) Denuziere was a reporter for the French daily Le Monde. The siren who lured him from France was the twice-widowed Virginia de Par-

By Sheridan Morley International Herald Tribune

The London Stage

ONDON - Terence Rattigan, oot the likeliest L of champions, called it the best first play he had seen in 30 years of theatergoing; the Daily Telegraph reckoned it "shameless and repulsive in the extreme," and the author himself, writing to Plays and Players as "Mrs. Edna Welthorpe" in a determined attempt to drum up trade by controversy, hoped that "ordinary decent people will shortly strike back" against this "endless parade of mental and physical perversion." The author was of course Joe Orion, the play "Entertaining Mr. Sloane" and the year 1964.

"Sloane" and Orton divided the critics along predictable lines, hut a more interesting and prophetie division of opinion came from two enthusiasts, Rattigan and his first-night guest, Vivien Leigh; he saw it as a modern restoration comedy, she as a camp and jokey little number of no great significance. The present revival at the Lyrie Theatre Hammersmith is directed by Orton's friend the actor Kenneth Williams who, it appears, is inclined to side with the late Miss Leigh

Thus we have a camp and jokey little production starring Barbara Windsor, Williams' longtime costar in an eternity of "Carry On" films, but totally bereft of the depth or resonance I recall from the original production or earlier revivals. "Sloane" lives in my memory as a very funny, very black and very sinister play about a brother and sister fighting over the living body of a lodger and the dead body of a father. Like a seaside postcard that explodes in your face, "Sloane" is mined with laughter and cruelty. But exchanges such as "Did you kick him?" "Sometimes; he understands," cannot be made to work in an atmosphere of mindless knockabout farce; nor is it possible to feel the shiver of terror that the godfatherike Ed ought to inspire if he is played, as here by Dave King, like a minor and failed hoodhum. The result is no terror, no menace, no threat; instead a coy scamper through a once sinister classic which has somehow here been cosmeticized. Homosexual closet capers have become a camp carry-on and in the process a great deal has been lost.

It is perhaps possible to argue that 17 years after the arrival of Orton and "Sloane," when druids can be found carrying on at the National, we are no longer so shockable. But the point about "Sloane" was not its shock value alone; it was a reverberation of ice-cold laughter, and that is what Williams has missed amid the giggles.

* * *

That "Richard II" should have departed so rapidly from the repertoire of the Young Vic, where it lasted less than a month, is more than a bitle sad. environmental improvement that even a bankrupt New York City managed to give Broadway.

Authors

book

Louisiana Story — in Three Volumes

an civilization." His editor allowed By Dianne Cameron mational Herald Tribune PARIS - The blase journalist with 25 years behind him as an international correspondent 30 hardly expected to fall in love. Yet six years ago he temporarily abandoned job and country for a Loui-siana belle — who died in 1878. Until November, 1979, Maurice an civilization." His editor allowed pare a television mini-series in him a six-month leave, which be France based on the trilogy. He exspent in Louisiana delving through cludes the possibility of a fourth archives. After the success of "Louisiana," he and his wife re-turned to Baton Rouge, where be did much of his research. The secvolume of "Louisiana," but intends to continue writing. Denuziere, who has been named an honorary citizen of New Orond volume appeared a year later. leans, now spends two months a Denuziere describes himself as a year in Louisiana vacationing. "If romantic who is "nostalgic about that aristocratic civilization where someone asked me, where, in an-other life I would want to be regood manners, hospitality and born, I would answer: 'Between honor are important. New Roads [a town near Baton Clarence Dandridge, the prota-Rouge] and Fausse-Riviere.' gonist of "Louisiana" and overseer of Virginia's plantation. Bagatelle, and Lefevre was lucky to gather a remarkably disher mouth. In person, Sylvia Kristinguished company of verse-speakers, led by Rob-ert Eddison as a wonderfully melodious Gaunt and tel wastes no time letting you know that she has not only a body In the first of the "Emmanuelle" Clifford Rose as an unusually subile Duke of York. It was also good to see Judy Camphell in ber Shakespearean debut as his duehess and Barry Evseries, which she made with direcans as their son, giving unusual strength to the latter half of the play. Nickolas Grace in the tille tor Just Jaeckin in 1973, she sent pulses racing from Tuscaloosa to Tokyo. The feminists (and critics) nmed it as soft-focus porn, but as Kristel berself puts it today, "It wasn't just a coincidence - 350 million people couldn'i be wrong.' Seven years later, the film is firmly established as an erooc classie.

هكذا من الأصل

By Vicky Elliott

tion she find herself in, she looks as though butter wouldn't melt in

ONDON - On screen, oo

onal Herald Tribune

Meanwhile, Kristel bas swanned her way through a couple more "Emmanuelles" ("There were 46 versions, but I was only in three of them, so be careful"), a few unmemorable movies, countless commercials and a move to Los Ange-

Today, she unfurls with the fury of a puma at interviewers who label her with the obvious catch phrases and ask her when she is going to get down to serious act-ing. But to ber large public Kristel is still the Alice in Wonderland who discovers sex in Bangkok.

Kristel fell out with her Svengali, Jaeckin, and they spent six years slanging each other in the press. Reconciled, they are now blissfully working on what might seem like a recipe for instant, dehydrated box-office success just add D.H. Lawrence - a film version of "Lady Charterley's Lov-

Luscious Location

It all sounds like putting the right names with the right sala-ciousness. Other assets include a luscious English locadon, a version of the book personally accredited by Lawrence's wife Frieda and the best of British film expertise. Kristel considers this a chance for both Jacckin and herself to prove themselves - and to get their own back on the critics. As a result, she has been taking the whole operation pretty seriously — getting up at 5.30 a.m. every day for 10 weeks of

"We've marched to Russia 14 bines and back," Kristel said in London last weekend, trying to breathe again after 12 hours of inhaling burning rubber fumes the day before — for a mine scene in which Lady Chatterley tells her playmate and gamekeeper (played a oewcomer, Nicholas Clay) that she is leaving her aristocratic husband (Shane Briant).

"It was an English story,' she said, "and unfortunately, we had to contend with the English weather." There were days when Kristel had to fend off the hail with a er. blanket between takes, when the lipgloss bad frozen solid, when a

Sylvia Kristel: Next 'Lady Chatterley'

Movies

from the fourth floor - if she's not keeping an eye on her parking space.

Page 5

Equally healthy, as she is the first to admit, is her ego. She tells the story of the time when she walked out on Helmut Newton as he was shooting her two inches un-derwater for the "Emmanuelle 11t" poster. "My eyes turned bloodshot with the chlorine — and he just screamed at me to get some eyedrops. Then a lamppost nearly toppted into the water — it would have meant instant electrocution. That was the end." A large crowd had gathered, but she overcame ber convent prudishness and stalked out of the water in a buff - and not much else.

Kristel missed out on acting school. "I specialized," she says "in answering telephones in the foundry industry." After a stream of odd jobs in her native Utrecht. she fled to Paris at the age of 21, took up modeling, was elected "Miss TV Europe" in 1972 and found herself in films. It can be a handicap today: "If Just shours at me, 'Be camera conscious!' 1 can't cheat by looking at the guy's left ear, even though I'm blind as a

Energy and Wit

Allen and brought back into the limelight, compares her wide-eyed lucidity to Garbo.

declared Kristel. "t had a desire in a former life to be a phenomenon," she admitted. She admires the way

Robert De Niro sinks his teeth into a part, like a terrier with a bone, but she couldn't do it her-

"The camera's in love with me,"

Sylvia Kristel

she pad across a frozen lawn in But the energy and the wit are there. Kristel has been compared hare feet. "I discovered the soluto Carole Lombard; Rex Harrison proposed to her in Vienna, she mace out of Dennis the Mena says, because she reminded him of Kay Kendall. The Hollywood pho-"a furry bot water bottle. But that was in Week 6." tographer George Hurrell, who was dusted off by Rich's busband vided his stately bome in Barnet for the sbooting, has several decapitated ancestors and a number of Velazquez works papering his drawing room. ("I truly believe that they are all fakes," says Kristel.) The watery English light, as far as one can judge from stills taken on the set, makes each frame look like a Constable painting. "Just is like a French painter," says Kristel's manager and babysitter, Elaine Rich, who keeps constant watch over her highly strung charge in her suite at the St. James Club, the new London home for fool." She is after all Dutch - as she loves to point out berself and she has the acid candor of many women, the wicked delight in provoking the stuffy. Perhaps it started in the convent where, she said, she read "Lady Chatterley" because it was one of the forbid

She doesn't believe in mixing poliocs with acting and she har-

LONDON — Top seats will cost a record £25 ($56) at Loodon's Royal Festival Hall on May 27 when Herbert von Karajan hrings his Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra here for a single concert. They will perform just one work, Bruckner's Symphony No. 5.

celebrities. Unconvincingly, Kristel keeps referring to herself as a "romanoe den books." Record Price for Karajan bors a healthy suspicion of jogging and her Los Angeles neighbors' "sunburned hrains."

But she loves to share elbow room with the stars. Doing an elegant stretch in the pool of her historic Los Angeles apartment, she relishes the thought of Bette Davis watching with hawklike vigilance nightmare scene demanded that tion," she giggled, pulling those icy, classical features into a gri-

The Earl of Stafford, who pro-

Kristel has almost evangelical bopes for "Lady Chatterley," which she sees as part of a new ro-mantic trend. "It's about the growth of a woman, a woman who wants to be loved, not to he a doll," she said. "This is a time of such confusion that people need uplifting. And the film should con-self, she said.

tribute to cheering people up, to assure them they're oot hanging out there alone."

She doesn't take long to come down to earth again, "And now," she said with a grin, "I'll be having my afternoon coma."

The Associated Press

of Depovincial Court Opposes udeau Constitution Bid ť t

The Associated Press

AWA - Prime Minister Pilliott Trudean's drive to the Canadian constitution rom Britain by July 1 has calt a sctback by a provin-nt, which ruled he was actzally.

Newfoundland Supreme udeau must have the con-Canada's provinces to take p that would alter the relabetween the provinces federal government.

British House of Commons i ultimate control of Canaistitution, the British North a Act, since it adopted it in fr. Tradeao wants the Brittiament to surrender the ition to Canada hut first to it with two things on which wincial governments have table to agree for 50 years l of rights and a procedure ndments.

unsuccessful negotiations ovincial premiers last year, FBI Agent Says ideau declared an impasse sounced he would petition directly to amend the docnnd send it to Canada. But supported by only two of 's 10 provinces, and six ined lawsuits to try to stop sh Prime Minister Margaret er has promised to endorse oposal for "patriation," as the constitution to Canada 1, that clears the Canadian sent. But British legislators dicated they would be reto approve a proposal that backed by the provinces.

the adverse court ruling on y, Mr. Trudeau offered to e Supreme Court of Cana-on the issue if Parliament first give his constitutional : its approval. He said it portant for the court to pecific document, not a hycal case, on which to rule. sition leader Joe Clark. Progressive Conservatives cking parliamentary action filihuster, refused. He said

ria May Delay

"ighter Purchase Reuters

NA - Austria will probay for economic reasons the e of 24 jet fighters worth $500 million, Chancellor Seisky said.

Kreisky said after a Cabinet ; Tuesday night that major ies were needed in all ncluding projects such as ster purchase and the conn of a large conference cen-

the legislators "can't be asked to pass a matter that has been declared illegal by a supreme court of a province."

The Supreme Court already is to a scrupulously documented study of life in Louisiana from 1830 to hear an appeal of a pro-Trudeau ruling on the constitution hy the 1930, in which be fictionalized Vir-Manitoba Court of Appeal. Attor-neys said the Manitoba and ginia de Parlanges. Newfoundland decisions and another one expected from the Quebec Court of Appeal could be combined into a single case.

In those six years, Denuziere has produced a hefty trilogy that is an ode to the Southern way of Life: "Louisiana," "Fausse-Riviere," and, most recently, "Bagatelle." The first book - Virginia figures Newfoundland Attorney General Gerald Ottenheimer called on Mr. Trudeau Tuesday to give up on his "unconstitutional and illein all three — sold more than a million copies in 18 languages, and "Bagatelle" tops Paris-Match's best-seller list in France. gal objectives and return to the bargaining table." The Foreign Affairs Committee of the British House of Commons

Affinity for British Authors

indicated recently that the request for patriation of the constitution Denoziere was born in 1926 in Saint-Etienne, and studied literature. He said he especially appreci-ated British anthors such as might be turned down if it did not come from "Canada as a whole." George Meredith, Laurence Sterne and Oliver Goldsmith. Denuziere said he feels an affinity for their precision, not only in storytelling. but in their analyses of the feelings and psychology of human beings. The enormous success of "Louisiana" probably came at the right time, be said. "I was beginning to tire of the travel and the dead-lines." He had been trying to lead To Use Influence NEW YORK - Sen. Harrison the dual existence of reporter and book writer since 1959, but it was Williams, D-NJ, vowed to use his influence with Jimmy Carter, then the president, to obtain governnot until his encounter with Louiment contracts for a titanium mine siana that the author ontdistanced the reporter. What infatuated Denuziere was "the synthesis of American energy and openness with the elegance in which he was to be a part-owner, an FBI agent says. FBI agent John McCarthy testi-fied on Tuesday, the second day of the so-called Abscam trial of the New Construction of the 22 start and savoir faire of the old Europe-New Jersey Democrat. The 22-ye Senate veteran is the seventh and last member of Congress to be pro-secuted in the Abscam probe. The other six defendants, all members of the House of Representatives, were convicted Mr. McCarthy said that he posed as a representative of Abdul Enterprises, a phony company set op by the FBL He said that in 1979 Sen. Williams urged him to finance a titanium mine in which the senator was to hold a secret 18percent interest.

Senator Vowed

United Press Interne

Prosecutor Edward McDonald said that the 61-year-old senator with great pleasure promised to talk to the president of the United States about [the mine] in a per-sonal way." In addition to charges of bribery and conspiracy, Sen. Williams is accused of promising to help a phony sheikh emigrate to the United States.

In his opening statement, the senator's attorney, George Koelzer, said that the defense might introduce more than 100 government tapes. "The best evi-dence you will hear will be the very tapes" made by the government, langes, whose imposing portrait Denuziere fell in love with on a visit to an elegant 1732 plantation in Louisiana.

Southern society. He is orither a proponent of slavery nor does he bite the hand that feeds him. He was enthralled hy an 83-year-old woman's tale of the life and times of Virginia, a beautiful orphan who in 1831 married into Denuiziere realized after creating Dandridge (fictional, unlike Virginia) that he had imbued him with the "humanistic philosophy an aristocratic family and reigned over a vast plantation. Through of a Freemason, full of religious Virginia, Denuziere developed a passion for Louisiana, past and present. A Le Monde article led to and mystical uncertainties."

The ambidous Virginia typifies Southern womanhood for Denuziere. Women shouldered great re-sponsibilides: the bousehold, receptions, the health of the slaves, often the bookkeeping. Virginia became the spirit of Bagatelle, as if she had been its founder. Deauziere said he recognized similar traits in some modern Southern WOIDCIL.

is a fairly objective observer of

The second volume, "Fausse-Riviere," deals with a period that both "Northerners, ashamed, and Southerners, embarrassed," would rather forget: the Reconstruction Nonetheless, Denuziere believes that the Northerners who brought industry and financial know-how to the South enriched the region.

Prodding the Memory

After completing the second book, Denuziere felt that an im-portant story remained to be told: that of the relationship between France and its former colony. Louisianans volunteered and died to defend France in 1914; Denuziere regrets that the French "have a short memory." In "Bagatelle" he tries to awaken that memory, as well as to tell of Storyville and the birth of jazz.

Though he still lives in Paris, Denuziere confessed to fancying an image of himself in a wicker chair, mint julep in hand. "I'm ba-sically lazy," he said. His current interpretation of doing nothing is collaborating on a daily "Louisi-ana" radio serial and helping pre-

Maurice Denuziere: Yes, there is a Virginia.

* That's the date the rates go up. But you can benefit from the rates below if you subscribe no later than April 30th. We'll make sure you get the International Herald Tribune in your office or your home every day. Saving money (up to 50% off newsstand prices). Making valuable time. World news, world business, world culture and entertainment, shaped * to fit the successful person's work-style. It's compact and complete. Comprehensive global coverage in a global context. The decision-maker's necessary world's eye-view. Printed simultaneously in Paris, London, Zurich and now Hong Kong, it's the only truly international daily.

Decide on it today. Subscribe right away.

		12 months	6 monts	7 months		_	12 months	é menda) ponts
Adea (all)	5	255 00	127.50	70.00	Labance (arr) .	s	195 00	97 50	54 00
Alghanisten (auf) .	. 5	255 00	- 127 50	70.00	Lubya Jarfi	5	195 00	97.50	54 00
Ainca ex-cooper (au)	. 5	172.00	86 00	44.00	Lavembourg	L Fr	4,640.00	2230 00	1,240.00
Alnes. others (mr)	5	255 00	127.50	70.00	Malagary (air)	5	225 00	112 50	62.00
Algeria Jan	5	172 00	$6.00	48 00	Matu jari	5	172.00	$6 50	48.00
Adding	. Sch	2,300.00	1.150 00	636.00	Meuco (arti .	$	255 00	127 50	70.00
Belgan	B.Fr	4,640.00	2,320.00	1,200 00	Morence (atr)	5	172.00	$6.00	49.00
Balgario (asr)	5	172.00	86 00	48.00	Netherlands	FI.	344 00	172.00	94 00
Canada (air)	. $	255.00	127.50	70.00	Norway (aur)	N Kr	672 00	336.00	186.00
Cyprasteri	5	172.00	N6 00	48 00	Pakastan (mr)	5	255.00	127.50	7000
Czecheslovaku Jairy.	5	172.00	86.00	48 00	Poland (ast)	5	172.00	$6.00	46.00
Denmark (aur)	D,Kr	748 00	374.00	306.00	Polynesia, French (air)	5	225 00	1/2.50	62.00
Egypt far1	5	195.00	97 50	54 00	Portugal (surt	Exc.	5,400.00	2.700 00	1,500.00
Echoopia (air) .	5	255 00	127 50	70.00	Romann (ANT)	5	172.00	$6.00	49.00
Finland Hair)	F M.	612.00	306.00	170.00	Saudt Arabia (ant)	5	195.00	97 50	54 00
France	FF	$12.00	306.00	170.00	South America Lairi	5	255 00	127 50	70.00
Germani	. D.M	324 00	162.00	90.00	Spann (arr)	Plas.	10,000 00	5,400.00	7,000 00
Greet Britug		-46.00	23 00	12.00	Sweden tauri	Ş.Kr	612.00	306.00	170.00
Greece (air)	Dr	5.400.00	2,700 00	1,500.00	Switzerland .	S.Fr	300 00	150 00	82 00
Hungary (aur) .	$	172 00	86 00	48.00	Tutopa (anti	5	174.00	$6 00	48 00
Inth (Aur)	5	195.00	97 50	54 00	Turkey sain	$	172 00	86.00	46.00
iraq (siri	5	195.00	97 50	54 00	UAE (aur)	$	255.00	127 50	70.00
lociand timit .	5	172.00	Re 00	48 00	USSR INV.	5	172.00	$6.00	41 00
veland -	Chr	50.00	28 00	15.00	U.S.A. (au)	5	195.00	97 50	54.00
Israel Jown	5	195 00	97 50	54 00	Yugoslavia (mr)	5	177.60	R6 00	48.00
taly	. Lin	105400000	54,000,00	30,000,00	Zene (any	5	235.00	127.50	70.00
Kowat Jar	5	235 00	127.50	70.00	Other Eur Countr (wr)	5	172.00	$6.00	48.00

Attention: Subscription Manager International Herald Tribune 181, Avenue Charles-de-Gaulle 92521 Neuilly Cedex, France. Telephone: 747,12.65. Telex: 612832

THIS OFFER VALID FOR FIRST-TIME SUBSCRIBERS ONL". Rates effective through April 30th, 1981. IMPORTANT: Payment must be enclosed with this form to validate your subscription. Please make checks payable to the International Herald Tribune. Do not send cash. Pro-forma invoices are available opco request.

Yes, I want to subscribe to t 12 months and save up to 50% off the r	6 months	ribune for 3 months 2-4-81
Name:		2-4-01
Address:
City:	Country:
Job title/Profession: Company activity:
Nationality	Age:

	INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIB	INF. THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981
Page 6 NVSF Nationwide Trading Closi		12 Month Stack Sta. Close Print High Low Div. In s Yid. P/E 1002. High Low Gest. Close	12 Month Stock St. Chair Prov High Low Div In 5 Yiel Pre USE Migh Low Grow Prov Sibe 200 MIF and 244 As 10 122 43 by Sibe Chair 10 Stamming And Ar 44 56 578 578 578 578 4 6.2 4 Mark of AO 8.7 64 578 10 4 58	Transfer Law Div. at 2 Yes P.2 The Niss Law No. Stor Research 1.2 - 5110 203 Stra The The Stor Research 1.2 - 5110 203 Stra The Stor Stor Research 2.2 - 53 The Stor Stra Stor Stor Research 2.4 - 53 The Stor Stor
Tables include the nationwide prices up to the closing on V Tables include the nationwide prices up to the closing on V Close Privi 12 Month Stock 540 Close Close Privi High Law Div. to 5 Vid. P/E 1005. High Law Guot. Close	Vall Street. 12 Manth Block High Law Olv. in s vid. P/E 109. High Law Quot. Cose Prov.	13 A INPL PIAN B. 3 37 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	4 Manie of AO 47 6 16 16 11 + 3 199 Di Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 51 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 50 7 40 20 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 50 7 80 Man 200 124 3 17 The Ammon Las 50 7 80 Man 200 124 3 18 The Amm	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
		SW 4 108 WHE PILL22 10. 2380 44 at 44 SJ 4 08 MHE PILL12 21. 2120 359 405 239 405 JJ 4 07 MHE PILL12 21. 2120 70 21. 319 407 JW 4 7 MHE PILL12 21. 2218 70 31. 319 407 JW 4 7 MHE PILL12 11. 2 21. 2218 70 31. 319 407 JW 4 7 MHE PILL12 11. 2 21. 2219 204 31. 319 407 JW 5 113 MINIT PILL2 11. 2 21. 11. 10. 10. 110 31. 319 407 JW 5 113 MINIT PILL2 11. 2 1147 114 110 31. 319 407 JW 5 113 MINIT PILL2 11. 31. 117 118 110 110 31. 319 407 JW 5 1140 MINIT PILL2 11. 31. 117 118 110 110 31. 319 41 JW 5 1140 MINIT PILL2 11. 31. 117 118 110 110 31. 319 41 JW 5 1140 MINIT PILL2 11. 31. 117 118 110 31. 319 41 JW 5 210 MINIT PILL 12. 32. 42. 57. 37. 118 110 31. 319 41 32. 319 310 JW 5 210 MINIT PILL2 11. 31. 171 110. 109 110 110 41 31. 110 JW 5 210 MINIT PILL2 11. 37. 127. 218 218 219 42. 219 41 210. 219 42. 219<
	·
المحدا من الاجل

۳

Part 2

Industry: Challenge As the Pace Slows n National Economy

By Andrew Hargrave

(-1 ¥

認知るななないないないない。

ALL OF THE ALL

and the second of the second secon

学业物"指学性"。

N - Manufacturing was the backbone the West German economic miracle in Os and 1960s. ft has been responsible merally high level of employment and ity since World War II, and it kept a surplus in the country's balance of ts until 1979.

that the economy is stagnant, the balf payments in the red and exports will industry again rise to the occasion after the first oil shock of 1973? Will it the same resilience against escalating prices and labor costs and the high inanal value of the Deutsche mark?

mark, of course, took a bit of a plunge last month of 1980 and the first six of this year, but it has regained some of c recently. Theoretically, the rise should elped exports, particularly those whose aterial imports are slight — engineering, als, electronics and automobiles. Surly, industry does not quite see it that ditional export deliveries compensating for slacker home demand.

. The main reason for the institutes' gnarded optimism rests on the substantial cushion of optimism rests on the substantial cosmon or orders at the beginning of this year in such key areas as the engineering, electrical and elec-tronics industries. There is doubt, however, that the automobile industry will realize its ex-pectation of maintaining last year's output level

Compensation in Exports

It is significant that in engineering - where output is expected to decline only slightly from last year's high level - the rise in export or ders compensated nearly for the decline in domestic ones. The unknown factor is the extent to which shortage of foreign exchange will dampen the demand in developing countries. [China's. recent suspension or cancellation of major capital contracts, including some Ger-man ones, may be a straw in the wind.]

actru 15UY, U continued boom in data processing equipment may make up for weaker demand in the communications sector. Activity in the power-station sector will, as indicated elsewhere in this report, depend very much on outside, political factors. Overall, the substantial increase in export orders last year may result in a 2- to 3percent rise in capital goods manufactured this year. On the other hand, demand for consumer goods may be less buoyant because of depend-ence on .general commic conditions - as may other consumer products, such as textiles.

Outlook: Weathering New Problems

EEC: Integration Remains Goal, but Less So

INTERNATIONAL

Herald Tribune

PARIS, APRIL, 1981

A SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT

FOCUS ON

WEST GERMANY

1981

By Charles Wilkins

BONN — The outlook in West Germany — a country accustomed to playing down the positive aspects of its economic situation — is far from cheering. Warnings about the gloomy prospects are being taken seriously and growth forecasts have been revised downwards as the economy develops less favorably than hoped. Conditions in West Germany, not so long ago the potencial motivating force for a broad economic upturn, have changed considerably as the country faces problems it has never known. Higher oil prices, strong international competition and structural difficulties combined with a stubborn balance of payments deficit have raised doubts about growth prospects this year and further into the 1980s. The Munich-based Institute fur Wirtschaftsforschung (IFO), an economic research

The Munich-based Institute fur Wirtschaftsforschung (IFO), an economic research institute, recently pointed ont that the country's economic positioo is much less favor-able than it was in the early 1970s. Early last year, the Institute der Deutschen undt Wirtschaft (IW), a research institute in Cologne, warned that the economy was inade-quately equipped to achieve the occessary degree of competitiveness and independence from foreign energy sources called for in the 1980s.

Commentators have emphasized that 1981 will be a decisive year for Germany's economic development in the coming decade. If so, the prospects are oot looking too good. The federal government in late January made a major downward revisioo of its growth forecast for the year, saying it expects the gross nacional product to stagnate or contract by up to one percent. This would follow real GNP growth of 1.8 percent last year. The government had previously maintained that growth would be up to one percent in 1981.

This revision of official expectations marked a shift in forecast direction by leading economic research institutes in Essen, Hamburg, Kiel, Munich and West Berlin. They had also revised their real GNP forecasts for the year down to around minus one percent from zero growth. This compares with the OECD's (Organization for Economic and Cooperation Development's) December forecast that West German GNP will fall one-half percent this year, but should pick up to an annual growth rate of two percent in 1982.

The institutes stated they did not treat their revised forecast as a fundamental change from the zero-growth prediction given in their joint report of last autumn. The main difference was in the timing of the upturn which, they said, will now be delayed but is oonetheless expected during the second balf.

Nevertheless, West German industry in late December was expressing concern about the chances for a recovery in the sbort-term, even before 1981 growth forecasts were revised. A majority of 19 industry associations polled by the Cologne IW institute, which itself is backed by industry, saw little bope of an upturn in the latter half of this vear.

The economy is now in the midst of a recession that, some economists say, will result in growth dropping by as much as three percent in the first ball of this year. Although in many quarters bope still centers on the second balf (and an additional steep rise m oil prices would delay any such recovery), doubts have begun to spread. Economics Minister Graf Lambsdorff told the Bundestag be still strongly bopes the recovery will arrive before then, but cautioned he could oot guarantee this would actually happen.

The banking sector and industry also have become more pessimistic regarding the current outlook. The Banking Federation stated that the downturn in the domestic economy has strengthened in the past few months and said there are no signs yet of any change. From the industrial standpoint, a Trade and Industry Association (DIHT)

(Continued on Page 15S)

raw poll conducted by the Frankfurter cine Zeitung in February (before the und in the value of the mark) indicated sst major manufacturers regarded intert factors such as wage and productivity is more relevant to their fortunes than y changes.

Salary Rises Worrisome

seemed far more worried about the 8-: demand by the main engineering and nion IG Metall (which they countered 2.5-percent to 3-percent offer matching sected rise in productivity) than about aries of the international money mar-

of course possible that salaries, on the the annual bargaining round, were up-t in the minds of those questioned. The e for this spring was difficult to though it should be noted that it will millions of workers in key industries yond IG Metall's 2.7 million members. moromise around 5.5 percent to 6 perse current inflation rate, may be possitly because of rising unemployment. vas this kind of approach that Chancel-mut Schmidt warned against recently e addressed the West German Indusderation (BDI). "It is the basic social aus which has left its imprint on this i more so than in many European es and not to mention some countries Europe," be said. "It is the basis of our ic performance: We'll need it in the fu-

i must not endanger it." recent surveys — before the relative the value of the mark - shed light on tionship between pay and productivity. survey (see table with continuation inpints out that between 1970 and 1979, erman labor costs calculated in marks we steeply in comparison to such com-as the United States, Canada, Britain, d Sweden than to Japan, France, Swit-Belgium, Spain and the Netherlands. er-term productivity increases, bowev-the position in a different light. (See ide.)

t is, of course, a limit to productivity is once a certain level is achieved. West ty's performance seems creditable viss main rivals, especially in the post-t-War period.

ay also be noted that labor costs in 179 had risen at a slightly higher rate on sche mark basis in France and at a ugher rate in Japan, the two countries schieved higher productivity rises than tral Republic.

also true that virtual stagnation in U.S. tivity was accompanied by an equally rease in hourly labor costs during 1970 , though with a steeply declining dollar the Deutsche mark.

Capital Investment Unaffected

e level of investment is one important in the manufacturing performance of untry, another, as Chancellor Schmidt ized, is social consensus. The signs are 1 spite of the expected stagnation in termany's overall output this year, capi-stment may be relatively unaifected. capital investment rose by 4.1 percent r, despite an increase in the gross social of only 1.8 percent. This year's ts by the main research institutes vary a nil growth and minus 4 percent, mainuse of a drop in building construction

e also are indications that manufacturlustries engaged in capital equipment able to increase their output, with ad-

The chemical industry, which last year recorded a slight reduction in output and saw its capacity utilization decline from 80 percent to 50 percent, is expected to maintain 1981 output at last year's level.

In the steel industry, last year's 5.5-percent drop in crude steel output may be repeated this year, with exports dropping even more sharply because of falling demand by European customers. The latter may also halt expansion in hard coal as a substantial proportion of

(Continued on Page 15S)

By Lothar Ruchl

RUSSELS - Conceived originally as a D means of surmounting past hostilides, building political unity and securing lasting peace among the countries of Western Europe the European communities have developed into an association of sovereign national states with joint policies. The goal of "supranational integration" has remained the guiding star, but it seems to recede as time passes and Western Europe acquires a history.

In 1970, after Britain, Denmark and Ireland acceded to the EEC Treaty of Rome and the existing communices, the nine partners aimed at a complete "economic and monetary union" as the basis for a political union of their countries by 1980. The Federal Republic of Germany had long been a stannch supporter of poblical unity by federation, a commitment main-tained by all democratic West German parties. But times have changed and Europe's common development has come under the inhibiting influence of critical economic factors, particularly during the past several years.

The golden days of well-being and increasing wealth - due to expansion of the economies and increasing net returns of invested capital, profit by labor, rentability of production at almost full employment of the labor force and monetary stability — seem to be over, at least for the next decade or two.

Great Expectations

The West German economy was the driving force of this wealth- and welfare-building ex-pansion in Western Europe, and whenever there was a slackening, all looked to Bonn for new steam and acceleration. West Germany has been almost constantly the object of its partners' expectations. It has been pressured by partners and the United States to adapt its economic policies to benefit the entire Western trade and monetary system. It has been asked to allow more inflation in order to narrow the gap between prices and ease the currency-tocurrency flow of money across the borders and from market to market in order to stimulate exports from other economies. Deficit spending to accelerate the rhythm of production and consumption of goods, development aid at low interest to some Southern European countries and in general to developing countries overseas, compensation payments within the EEC in favor of other countries such as Britain, Ireland, Italy and in some respects France, were and are recommended to West Germany as adequate measures to keep the Western world commy - or at least Western Europe moving.

هكذا من الأصل

No other EEC partner has come under comparable pressure and no other currency but the Deutsche mark has been sought as the symbol and expression of wealth and economic health as well as the symptom of economic deca-dence. The highs and lows, up and downs of the British pound, the U.S. dollar and even the French franc have never caused so much concern as the mark. Everyone wants to know if Germany will recover its economic health and help heal the community, or if the vigor of the German national economy has been broken by the international economic crises provoked since 1973 by oil price rises and the radical change of trade terms.

The origin and history of the Western Euro-pean economic community --- based on a common market with a common agricultural policy, a customs union and joint foreign trade and commerce arrangements - has been the history of Western European post-war economic expansion as well. The EEC and later its general successor the EC have been basically expansionist in orientation, with an expecta-tion of continuous economic growth, full employment and relative stability, guarantees of social progress and welfare, and gradual reduc-oon of the differences in living standards and social conditions in the different parts of Western Europe.

Risks to Stability

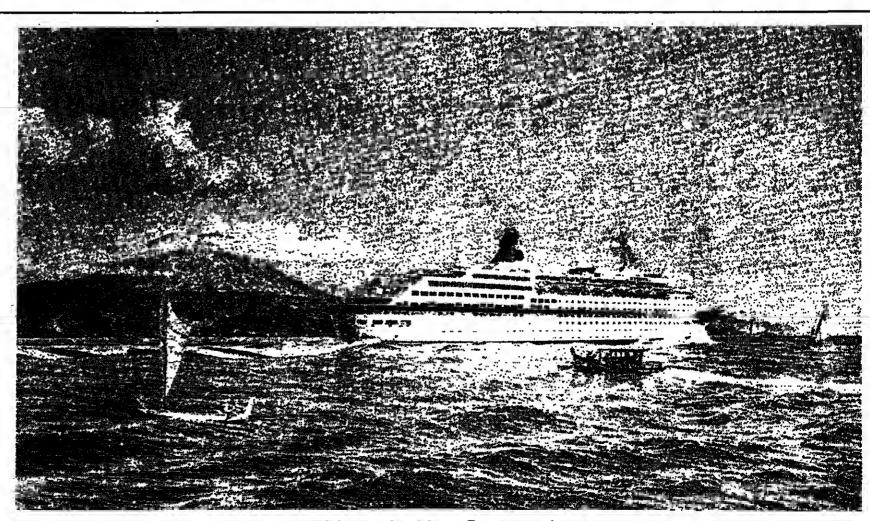

After eight years of reduced economic owth in real terms, continuing deterioration of the international terms of trade, revolution-ary change of the exchange conditions between raw materials of high market value and industrial produce, capital investment and services, both Western Europe and West Germany face

(Continued from Page 18S)

1

Ł

ę.

Artist's conception of the new Europa on a cruise.

PREPARING A SYMBOL OF OPTIMISM: A NEW LUXURY LINER

HAMBURG - The age of the luxury liner is not dead - and neither is West German shipping, despite current applements and read - and neither is West German shipping, despite current problems. A glowing symbol of the undented optimism of West German shipowners is the new luxury liner Europa. Hapag-Lloyd AG. West Germany's largest shipping line, will send the 35,000-ton (gross registered) vessel on its maiden voyage in January, 1982.

Europa will have accommodations for 600 passengers and a crew of 278. Hapag-Lloyd said. The liner has reached a test speed of 22 knots, but on cruises will generally make between 14 and 18 knots. The oew ship carries on a tradition of more than 100 years - the first Europa was launched in 1879. The new Europa's maiden voyage will be a trip around Africa lasting about 22 days.

Top Priority: Analyzing The Balance Of Payments

By Joshua Larkin

FRANKFURT - Not so long ago, West Germany was the economic miracle. Its economy was expected to be the locomotive for the West, its currency the safest store of wealth, its balance of payments the envy of all The cost of oil was absorbed in the ledger books as quickly as it was consumed on the Autobahn. West Germans became the leading travelers of the world, and recruited work forces for their factories from abroad. These Gastorbeiter, or guest workers, could earn enough to afford to send money home to their fami-

Consumers of ideas from abroad, the West Germans paid for this and their other luxuries with engineering — the production of Mercedes, Siemens, Lurgi and others. This happy balance, linked to a government offering political and social security, led some West Germans into thinking that the Federal Republic had supplanted Sweden - now weary of being the "ideal society" - as the model for the rest of the industrialized world.

in the Red

But red figures have replaced the black ones at the bottom of the West German accounts. and some economists here are beginning to wonder if this is a structural and not just cyclical imbalance.

"We used to be in a better position than anyone, including the Swedes," said one econ-omist, n specialist in foreign trade and payments. "But now I think you have to say we're facing the same problems." Investors from abroad seem to be coming to the same conclusion, seeing io the balance-ofpayments mirror a reflection of West Germa-

(Continued on Page 9S).

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

Shipping: A Chill Wind Blows in the North

By Barry Dale

HAMBURG - Considering its relatively short coastline. West Germany has a strong seafaring tradition and a good international reputation as a shipping and shipbuilding obtion.

But for some years a chill wind has been blowing round Germaoy's northern ports and shipyards. Last year saw the disappearance of a major traditional shipping line, Bremen-based DDG-Hansa, because of insolvency. Some of its activities have been taken over by other German shipping lines, hu some have had to be dropped.

The Association of German Shipowners, VDR, said West German liner services had mixed for-tunes in 1980, ranging from satisfactory to extremely worrying.

Tramp shipping and dry hulk goods, for instance, fared reasonably well, with profitability levels aided by ecocomic improvements during previous years. But in these two sectors, the VDR notes, the trend toward re-registering ships under flags of convenience has continued, with more than half the tonnage operating in these sectors switched to a oon-German flag by the end of 1980.

The main reason for the change is production costs in West Germany, where wage and social welfare costs have reached a level that makes profitable operation under the German flag impossible. Not only must steps be taken to halt or reverse this trend, but West Germany must make sure its shipowners do not pull out and go into exile in other countries where costs are lower,

Manning of Vessels

The VDR says the industry's required changes will affect manning of vessels, company cost structures and subsidies for West German shipping

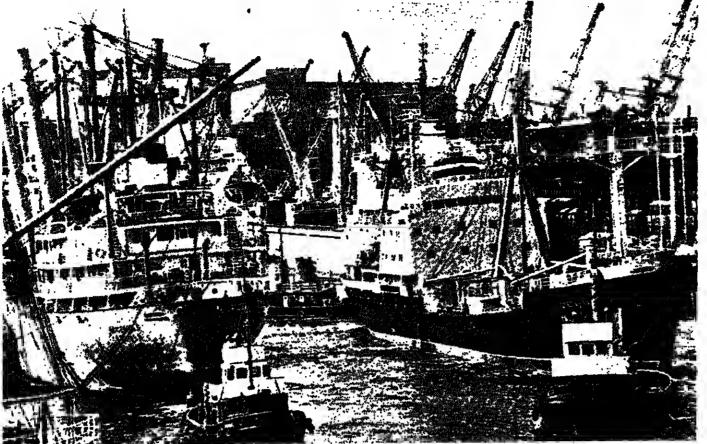

It said it has made offers to seamen's unions that affect numbers of foreign crewmen oo tonnage flying the West German flag, and take into consideration their level of training and the wage and social service structures of their home COUNTRY.

said

tras

But VDR President Hans Juergen Stoecker bas warned that West German shipping faces further difficulties, the position for liner traffic and large tankers having wors-

He put the number of German-

A busy day in the overseas harbor, one of Bremen's 14 modern harbor basins.

of aggravating international comowned vessels flying a foreign flag at 340 at the start of this year, totaling 3.9 millioo gross register toos

Jermany The VDR stated that its deci-The number of ocean-going vession to approve the settlement was sels flying the West German flag, was 446 of 6.9 million GRT, with prompted by the desire to prevent unrest aboard ship. 600 coastal vessels of 400,000 Strength of Mark GRT remaining loyal to the red. gold and black flag of the Federal

One major factor hitting West German shipping for several years - the Deutsche mark's streogth --Republic. These vessels employed 30,000 crewmen, 22 percent of them noo-Germans, Mr. Stoecker has been alleviated in recent months, according to Mr. Stoecker. The present parity of the dol-lar against the Deutsche mark is benefiting West German exports The VDR has agreed to a new pay scale for West German seamen, involving an increase in the basic wage of 5.4 per cent, plus and the ships that are required to transport them," he said. "But this small bonuses and peripheral exfactor alone cannot solve the problems of uncompetitiveness faccing However, reservations were expressed by the VDR about the [German] shipping." Mr. Stoecker said that although level of the settlement, owing to the pressure on profits in many sectors of shipping, the likelihood West German shipowpers are searching for ways to improve their position, they still require back-up from the federal governpetiniveness and in view of the overall economic situation in West ment West German shipowners have for years complained bitterly over the unfair competition from the Soviet Union, and Mr. Stoecker said this challcoge remains a major threat.

The overall West German fleet, under the national flag and flags of convenience, has not in fact declined in recent years, Mr. Stoecker said. To help prevent the shift toward foreign flags, however, German shipowners must be given assurances that the investments they make in future will not be lost. This is the real point of subsidies to the sector, he added, and a further outstanding contribution could come from changes to fiscal policy

Mr. Stoecker summed up the positioo in a recent seminar on transport policy at Muenster University. "Enterprise is risk — especially in shipping," he said. What West German shipowners expect is protection of their room for development

The results shown by West Germany's largest shipping line, Ha-pag-Lloyd AG, could be viewed as a microcosm of the industry as a whole. The company passed a divi-dend in 1979 and has described 1980 results as unsatisfactory.

The company was in fact hit by the losses incurred by its airline, but was also affected by setbacks in the liner sector, with large and unpredictable losses of revenue and rising costs on important routes

With bunkering costs a general problem the North American trades were hit by a tough price battle, which led to a decline of up to 30 per cent in freight rates.

Shipyards: Production Continues To Decline

HAMBURG - West German shipbuilders have little cause for cheer after several lean years. Figures issued by the West German Shiphuilders Association show that production fell an additional 10 percent last year.

The association said deliveries in 1980 totaled just under 400,000 gross registered tons, with a value of about 2 hillion Deutsche marks. The overall order book at mid-December was between 2 and 2.5 bil-

About two-thirds of the orders in 1980 were for West German operators, who are themselves having a lean time. Yards delivered 58 vessels displacing 140.000 gross registered tons to domestic shipowners in the first nine months of last year. This tonnage had a value of DM800 million out of a total of DMI.28 billion, the shipbuilders association said.

This position is likely to be maintained, with 51 vessels displacing 740,000 gross registered tons under construction or on the drawing board at West German yards for domestic operators. This represents 67.6 percent of the total order book.

West German Yards

Looking at it the other way, 83 percent of the vessels delivered between October, 1979, and September, 1980, for operation under the German flag were built at West German yards.

Another worry for West Ger-man shipbuilders must be the marked shift last year away from the specialized tonnage on which West German yards had pinned their hopes. Unable to compete with shipbuilding nations, espe-cially in Asia, which benefit from low-cost labor and can produce off-the-peg vessels at much lower prices, West German yards concentrated on sophisticated ships involving high intensity technology and considerable know-how.

Unfortunately, demand has shifted toward simpler bulk carri-ers while West German yards continue to operate against discriminatory subsidies in other countries, the shipbuilders association said.

There was little sign late last year of a balance between supply and demand for new bottoms, the association added, and with the slowdown in growth of world trade, prospects for an improvement in the near future are poor. The Bremen Institute for Maritime Economics said that the oum-ber of shipbuilding nations is growing, with Germany and other industrial nations facing the challenge of a growing oumber of Third World and threshold countries. These countries are in some cases grabbing an increasingly large slice of the world shipbuilding cake, put at around 48 million tons of orders in hand by the Bremen Institute.

Japan the Leader

Institute figures show that of the 35 nations currently engaged in shipbuilding Japan holds 38.1 percent of the market, followed by South Korea with 6.8 percent. Bra-zil 6.6 percent and Spain 6.3 percent. West Germany on the other hand accounts for a bare 2.3 percent, and has recently been over-taken by Taiwan, which holds 2.6 percent

Slight comfort for West German ipbuilders comes from the Yard Aid Program, which will sun until at least the end of this year. The program, launched by the govern-ment to belp subsidize ship connal figure was probably n million. struction contracts and in force for the sector could come shift in foreign exchang with the yen rising strongly the Deutsche mark in reci and helping to close the tion cost gap between Ja Germany. The Japanese have se yards will not operate flat vear, but considerable sk has been expressed here a likelihood of the world's shipbuilding nation redu

since 1979, was approved commission of the Europu

oomic Community last aut

declining aid program ini

at DM240 million, but is c reduced to DM180 mill year. At the same time th mum amount of contra-that can be subsidized u.

scheme is being reduced percent to 15 percent. By summer, 1981, the had made DM175 millic

able for aid in the constru

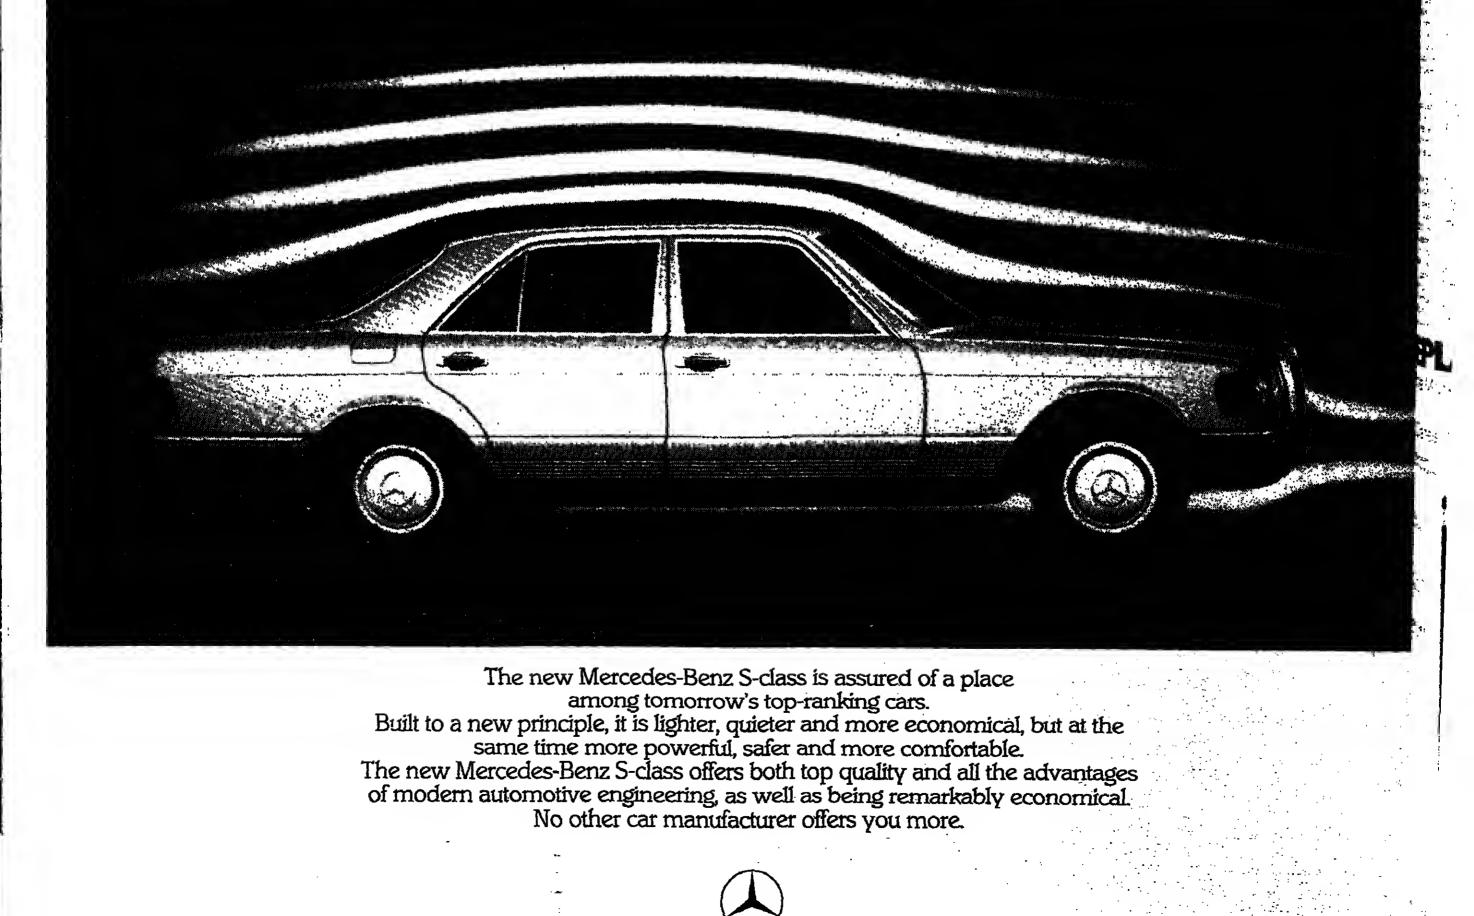

52 new vessels of 250.00

Observers on West Gu

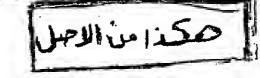

northern seaboard feel son

The program was conce

pacity usage voluntarily balance the market. Although the Japanese took to construct only 4.8 tons in 1980, observers fe Mercedes-Benz. Engineered like no other car in the world.

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

Analyzing a National Balance of Payments Problem

(Continued from Page 7S) ny's domestic difficulties and the

ource of trouble ahead West Germany's current account, the balance of trade and services, went into deficit in 1979 for the first time in 14 years. Despite early predictions of a deficit of some 20 billion Deutsche increase of about 50 percent over marks in 1980, the currency stayed markably immune to oil price in-creases in the 1970s. But with the Iranian revolution and the shortremarkably strong. Only when attention changed to interest rates and prime rates in the United States moved to 20 per cent did investors become disaffected with ages that followed, it too felt the pressure on its trade balance. With the mark.

Last spring, London stockbroker James Capel and Co. even predicted that a weaker mark would so help West German exports that the current-account deficit in 1980 would probably show bitle change.

Guessing Game

Opinion has changed since then. The current account showed a deficit of more than DM28 billion in 1980. The guessing game for 1981 began early, with a somewhat weaker mark beloing to build up trade and pare the deficit in the billion for 1980. current account to some 18 billion which together with payments to the EEC and other such transfers merks.

Gradually the estimates were added a net 25 billion marks to the moved higher. In early February deficit in the current account. this year, the government issued an Even the rights to patents and licenses add a cost of about 1.5 bilofficial prediction - a shortfall of 22 to 25 billion marks. Private estilion marks to the West German mates had already moved higher. current account each year. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. pub-lished a forecast of DM34 billion. In the past, the power of Ger-man exports has outweighed all which astonished many West Gerthese factors. But as payments for man economists who were, nonetheless, revising their own figures higher. By the middle of February, nearly all forecasts showed West Germany continuing with a deficit of the same magnitude as last year.

The problem has as many sourcservices and transfer of money es as solutions. In the first rank abroad has grown, so have im-stands the country's oil require- ports, and the West German exment. Even by cutting oil imports port machine has not been able to by 12 per cent in volume last year. keep pace. West Germany still paid DM58 billion for this source of energy, an One solution, import restric-

West Germany had seemed rethe latest oil price rises, the gov-ernment has estimated West Germany will have to pay DM70 bil-lion this year, and some private estimates are higher still.

tions, is anathema to large segments of West German business. Without free trade a trading na-tion such as this would find it difficult to sell all its production.

Travel restrictions were pro-posed late last year by the government's technology minister to help cut the deficit on tourism. The idea proved so unpopular that the finance and economics ministries quickly dissociated themselves from the idea.

Unthinkable Solutions

'You just can't ask a German not to go skiing in Austria or swimming in Spain,' said one banker. 'And currency controls, again. they're just out of the question." Bundesbank President Karl Otto Poehl called the idea of such wondered how such countries as Italy. Spain, Greece and Turkey would finance their current-account deficits without the West German tourism. Nor can foreign workers be asked to stop sending funds bome, nor can the companies involved in providing the exports be told to find their own inventions. In the short term, the problem is one of financing the current account. The deficit in 1979 was paid for largely through imports of cap- chases of an estimated DM10 bilital - foreign investors taking a lion of government debt last year stake in German companies, a share of the hurden of government

Nearly DM9.5 billion flowed a fundamental shift in thinking into the country to finance the DM10-billion deficit. But last year. about international finance. On the basis of the 'real' return, after with the current-account shortfall inflation, mark-denominated debr nearly three times as great, a scant was still the best. Yields available DM5.6 billion in such investment during 1980 ranged from 7 to 10 could be found. West German percent, well above the rise in conmonetary reserves fell therefore by nearly a third, and as the year wore on and forecasts for this year sumer prices of 5.8 percent. Bonds in the U.S. market, and even short-term dollar deposits. grew more gloomy the central rarely earned so much after inflation, and sterling paper nearly al-ways fell short of a real return. bank became more worried. For several years the United States and, to a lesser extent, Brit-But still the funds flowed away ain had run large deficits in their from West Germany to where nominal returns could be translatbalance of payments, and suffered with weak currencies as a result. ed into dinars or riyals, pesos or almost anything else with the cer-tainty that monetarist principles Now they were back in the black Both, tackling the problem of would prevent the dollar or the pound from falling enough to 1981.

before.

مكذا من الأصل

But even Saudi Arabian count of only DM5.6 billion.

excessive monetary growth with make a difference. formulas learned in part from the West Germans, raised interest eventually led to a semi-formal "gentlemen's agreement" under rates to levels only imagined before. which commercial banks agreed to

A war of interest rates, which helped to change the entire picture of investment in 1979 and 1980. began, and West Germany was one of the losers. The Bundesbank raised its discount and lombard rates to record levels but failed to stave off the exit of short-term 'bot' money seeking the higher yields available in dollars or pounds

Economists said this degree of weakness in the West German currency could result in an immediate yielded a surplus on the capital acincrease in import prices of about percent, with a consequent and Economists said this represented rect impact on inflation. di

Indeed, Bundesbank President Poehl attributed the reversal of the slowing of inflation from a midyear six percent in January directly to the weakness of the mark.

The lower value of the currency helps to stimulate exports, though the benefits can prove elusive. According to a number of econo-mists, the time lag should be in the order of six to nine months before the cheaper mark and lower German inflation rates work their way into increased competitiveness in international markets.

This factor alone has spurred optimism about the West German current account.

One economist said that productivity and buying power in West Germany would seem to imply an exchange rate for the dollar of 2.05 Pressure from the Bundesbank to 2.10 marks this year. But this depends on confidence, primarily of the foreign investor, he said.

avoid providing credit to foreign Steps in February by the Bunborrowers until the end of March, desbank to push German interest rates higher had an immediate ef-Still pressure on the mark confect, but it remains to be seen tinued, and the dollar's "Reagan Rally" took the U.S. currency to a high of more than 2.25 marks in whether the Reagan administration's plans in the U.S., and the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board to them, will give West Germid-February, up about 30 percent from lows reached less than a year many the breathing space it is looking for.

The port of Hamburg

URG - After a record in 1979, a slowdown in 'e and stagnation in ecowth combined last year sout a small reduction in handled by West Ger-

Streep our all some rais and بدراع حاودته

195 T. V. . . -

Same

. . .

-1. -

1.

8258.14.41

Here 19 22

£ _ _ _ _

1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 19

العابرة المحمدة

5

-

(d) . . .

Harris the Local States

17 m · · · n system data Ale i e éż. – . . . the war

iyan . . مرادحه يعاقي

Section 1

e. .

a

Aque = -

÷

÷ .

2017

A 149.00

8 - " ...

ti≥:_•

uction of about 3.5 peraffic at the 12 largest due almost entirely to ntial decline in imports ade oil and - to a lesser retroleum products. That ffic at the deepwater oil vilhelmshaven showed a almost 7 per cent from tional ink with Eastern Engope. tional ink with Eastern Engope. The growth of transit traffic last interfor all shipments in for lower shipments in crude oil,

The reduction of about 3.5 percent in traffic at the 12 largest ports was due almost entirely to the substantial decline in imports of coal, crude oil and - to a lesser extent - petroleum products.

Interestingly, coal imports via ters, and about 600,000 square feet Bamburg increased slightly. to the storage area to cover 1.6 mil-Hamburg is Europe's main lion square feet. "massit" port, the West's tradi-tional link with Eastern Engope, is expected to be in service next The growth of transit traffic last year, the rest in 1983. Hamburg, too, has been invest-

But oil is by no means the only cause of the shortfall. West Germans spent more than DM35 billion abroad last year, well ahead of their nearest rivals, the Americans. And the net travel account is estimated at a deficit of about DM25 Foreigners working in West Germany regularly send home 500 to 600 million marks a month, travel restrictions 'stupid' and Finance Minister Hans Matthoefer

West German ports) decline of only 0.2 percontainer and bulk gave it a better ovver of Hamburg's re-del a view in microcosm in line. It also shows just 100,000 tons short broost part of Hamburg's ports, which declined substantially fewer of oil, petrojean prodin steel and chemipecially at container terminals. in as well as inby anthonities, and the public - particularly cucrgy Mist of West Germadeficit.

than two billion Deutsche marks petroleum products and iron ore. have been spent on new facilities General and bagged cargo are the more profitable sectors of portover the past ten years, in addition to the almost DMI billion spent traffic; their 18.1 million tons, or almost 30 percent of all traffic. on storm protection. handled in Hamburg, showed a slight increase over 1979. West Germany's second port, Bremen, is on par with Hamburg

The pattern of trade in West German ports throughout last year followed the economic trend fairly closely: upsurge in the first half of in general and bagged cargo (inthe year, decline in the second. The upshot, says Hamburg's general representative, Helmat F. H. Handing containers) though not in volume traffic. The two ports to-gether handle four-fifths of West sen, is that no growth in traffic can be expected this year and "in some Germany's total seaborne trade in bagged and general cargo, and a substantial proportion of their in-vestments have been used to imtypes of cargo we shall even have to acept cutbacks."

Mr. Hansen emphasized that the prove cargo-handling facilities, eslevel of business in Hamburg and in other ports depends very much on the world economic situation. Bremen is in the process of extending its container terminal to make it the largest facility of this type in Europe. The extension will Hamburg's task is to safeguard its favorable position in a context o "difficult market conditions and add 630 meters to the quays, in-creasing their length to 2,000 megrowing competition." -AH

ESSEPLATZ MUNCHE apture the Market and Let Munich Capture You

Dates 1981 and Spring 1982

8

SMETICS sternational Trade Fair for

Ńay CEPTAL al Hospital Exhibition altin Ge man Hospital OPTO-ELEXTRONIK Wit Conoress and dune ernational Trade Fair for ste Treatment and Disposal: wage, Refuse. City Cleaning, inter Service 3 - 27 June iPO -- Autumn

5th International Sports Juinment Fair) - 13 September

TERMONTEC guipment for Alpine Sports, eisure Activities and Tourism h International Trade hibilion with Conferences 7 - 20 Septem

JAFA Ith International Trade Fair of otel and Catering Trades 3 - 28 September

4th MOOE-WOCHE-MUNCHEN iternational Fashion Fair -7 October

YSTEMS omputer Systems and their pplication - Internationa Cocress and Trade Fair 3 - 23 October

PRODUCTRONICA 4th Internationel Trade Fair for Manufacture in Electronics with strations and Conferances 10 - 14 Nover

HEIM + HANDWERK '81 landicrafts in the Domestic phere with Special Shows and Technical Displays by the different Handicrafts Branches 26 November - 6 Decem

CARAVAN - BOOT - INTER-NATIONALER REISEMARKT 12a Salon International des Caraanes, Bateeux, Voyages et Vacances du 6 su 14 février

INHORGENTA - Se Salon International de l'Horlogerie, de la Bijouterie, de l'Orlèvrerie et des Plerres Précieuses avec équipe ments de fabrication et technique des magesins du 13 au 16 tévrier *

ISPO - Printemps - 16e Salon International des Arheles de Sport du 25 février au 28 février

HM - 34e Foire Internationale le l'Artisanat et des Métlers La Foire de l'Artisanal et pour Artisanat

du 13 au 21 mars 45 MODE-WOCHE-MUNCHEN Selon International du Prèt-a-Porte

du 28 mars au 31 mars 99er Congrès de la Société Allenande de Chirurcie avec Prèsen tation speciale d'Inf du 27 au 30 svrit

Only for stade buyers Republic of Germany ne (083) 51 07-1 Telev 5 212 066 posellachalt mbH Messegalande P.O.6. 12 10 09. D-8000 Munchen 12.

Bavarian drive and friendliness can help

Bavaria, our home, has a long tradition in international trade, and from this base we have built our reputation as foreign trade

We are one of the largest universal banks in West Germany, and appreciated for our flexibility and fnendliness. And we know our market well.

This professional experience guarantees

Our full range of modern facilities includes: Professional documentation and rapid payment transfers (S.W.I.F.T.) Export-import financing packages

-

Client-oriented foreign exchange operations

 Advice on seeking new trading partners Easy access to foreign markets through our international presence and connections. Get in touch and put one of Germany's top

Central Office: Brienner Strasse 20, 8000 Munchen 2, Tel (199) 21714. Telek: 5286270, Cables, Bayertoank Munich, Branches: London, Tel. 638:5711: Singapore, Tel. 22269:25: Subsidiary: Bayerische Landesbank International S.A., Luxembourg, Tel. 47:5911-1 Representative Offices: Toronio, Tel: 862-8840, Vienna, Tel: 663:41:663:41:663:64. Julian Secure, Tel: 8381613; New York, Tel. 888-067019: Athliates: Deutsch-Skandinavische Bank AG, Frankurt Main, Tel. 2047;

you conquer new markets.

banking experts.

you the best possible service and advice. Universal banks to work for you.

Page 105 - XVI

For the alpinist, many a peak

OUR SPECIALISTS WILL SHOW YOU HOW UNIVERSAL WE ARE

Tourism: A Wealth Of Sights and Sounds gables on Grapengiesser Strasse, built in 1548 as a brewery and now housing the local chamber of commerce: Gincken Strasse 9, the first (1487) half-timbered local house, with a highly decorated courtyard

Luene monastery, founded by the Benedictine order in 1172. In additinn to its sothic church and many artworks, the former monaster;

hnuses medieval embroidered

linen and brightly colored Gobelins tapestries that are exhibited to the public for one week each year in August (August 22 to 30 this

On the southern side of Luene-burg Heath lies the town of Celle, whose independence was won from the dukes by Lueneburg's salt-flavored prosperity. Although all the main streets in the town still lead up to the 13th-century castle where the dukes resided (its present appearance dates from altera-tions between 1660 and 1680),

Celle is best known for its rows of well-maintained balf-timbered protect historic buildings from pol-

Celle's castle contains Germainterior of the theater was modern-

Museum on Schloss Platz concenlution.

FRANKFURT — This year marks the 1.025th anniver-sary of the founding of Lueneburg. an occasion that will pass without fanfare in what once was one of the richest cities in Germany. After a millenium, another 25 years does not make a big impression. and Am Berge 35, the oldest pri-vate home, built by a local salt producer. Outside town is the Lueneburg, a large town on the northern edge of the Lueneburg Heath only 36 miles from the bustling port city of Hamburg, grew up around Am Sande, the spacious market square (actually a long rectangle) that is still the core of the city. The area's medieval appearance has remained almost unchanged. Overlooking the market place is the Rathaus, said to be the biggest medieval city hall still intact in Germany. Its oldest sections date to the year 1200, al-1720.

Kept under glass in the city ball is a piece of wild boar meat. Once upon a time, so the legend goes, a bunter came across that boar in a muddy pool. After killing the animal, the bunter saw that its bair had turned into glistening white bristles, actually crystalized salt, and the muddy pool revealed an apparently inexhaustible mine of salt. The "white gold" became sy-nonymous with what was then called Lueneborg, and the city thanks to its location on the Ilmenau River - became the commercial center of the region until the railroad arrived in the 19th century.

Churches Mark Divisions

tory of the Lueneburg Heath. Lueneburg was neglected during. World War II, a fact that accounts for its well-preserved medieval ap-pearance. The major sights include the elaborately decorated city hall and the four churches that once marked the town's division into the market, salt, sand and water year), but Wienhausen is worth a quarters. Among other buildings of interest are the house of two visit at any time.

Farther south, slightly more than 30 miles from Celle, is Braunschweig (sometimes called Bruns-wick in English). This city of more than a quarter of a million people was founded about 800 years ago by Heary the Lion, whose grandnephew Otto the Strict was 10 build the first castle in Celle. Henry and his Englisb wife Mathilde are buried in the cathedral - 2 masterpiece of state sculpture. Another work of art from that time, the first free-standing medievel monument, is the bronze linn that Henry had cast with a gold coating in 1166 as a symbol of his power. The lion is on view minus its gold coating. Visitors should also see the cathedral and the city's medieval center. Braunschweig's name bas traveled the world as a sausage, which an 18th-century traveler noted was especially esteemed as part of a festive dinner in the East and West Indies. Braunschweige Mumme gained a reputation as one of the great beers of Lower Saxony. Beer is the principal drink of the region, and it is usually drunk with a clear corn "Schnaps." Another beer bouses. Their good condition stems partially from a ban on cars from this area. Einbecker, is the in the center of Celle, a measure to origin of the word "Bock" beer.

Braunschweig is less than 40 miles from the state capital of Hannover, the location of the fany's nidest functioning theater, dating from 1695 — although the mous industrial fair and temporary host of the treasure from the tomb of the ancient Egyptian King Tutankhamen (at Kestner Museized in the 1930s. The Bomann um until April 26. Next stop: Hamburg). About 30 miles south of Braun-trates on rural culture and the hisschweig lies Goslar, a 1,000-year-old town (in which 168 buildings date from before 1550) that bas Nearby, just south of Celle, lies another medieval monastery, Kloster Wienhausen, whose tapestries also are a source of fame. They are on display for 11 days each year, from the Friday after Whitsunday (June 12 to 22 this kept its medieval appearance. The impressive "Kaiserpfalz" (Imperial Palace), the largest secular building in the Holy Roman Empire in the 11th century, today ranks as the largest building of its kind still standing in Germany. It is a reminder that Goslar, now a town of 55,000 people, was a center of German and European history in the 11th and 12th centuries. The Hall of Homage in city hall contains unique early-16th-century murals and ceiling paintings showing the infe of Christ. On Goslar's Berg Strasse is the original bome of the Siemens family, founders and owners of Germany's multinational electronics company headquartered in Munich. The house may be visited.

Pied Piper's Town

The town of Hamelin (Hameln in German) is also in Lower Saxo-ny, tess than 30 miles from Hannolegendary rat C

Clients of a large international commercial bank expect a universal range of services. But they also expect the bank to possess strengths in special areas where individual cases call for extraordinary expertise.

For DG BANK, both are aviomatic. On the one hand, you can count on us for full-service versatility. On the other hand, direct contact with our specialists gives you the added benefits of personal attention and (ast decisions, So we're also the right people to call for creative answers to your very special needs. Such as long-term corporate financing, for example, in DM as well as other major currencies, on a lixed or floating-rate basis.

To ensure that our comprehensive range of services is internationally accessible. DG BANK maintains bases in the world's key financial and commercial centers. As a member of the UNICO BANKING GROUP we have furthermore joined forces with five large European banks, and we maintain contacts with financial institutions worldwide

Why not give us a ring? A short call could mark the beginning of a lasting relationship leads the local children away in reenactments of the Grimm Brothers fairy tale Sundays at noon (May 17 to September 13 this year). The story, said to be based on a real incident in 1284, is also acted out by miniature figures in the train station restaurant.

DG BANK, P.O. Box 2628, Wiesenhuettenstrasse 10, D-6000 Frankfurt am Main 1, West Germany, Phone: (611) 2680-1, Telex: 412291.

A local bouse dating from that time is the gothic house containing the Loewenapotheke on Backer Strasse. It was built around 1300. South of Goslar is the city of Kassel, actually in the neighboring state of Hesse but closer to Hannover than to Frankfurt or Hesse's state capital, Wiesbaden.

Kassel, site of the controversial documenta international art exhi-bitions, is host this year of the "Bundesgartenschau" (Federal "Bundesgartenschau" (Federal Horticultural Show). Held in the Karlsauer baroque park, the show devotes 172 days (April 30 to Oc-tober 18) to plant and flower dis-plays, special events and petformances. The four-day grand opening is scheduled to include English buskers and a Swiss street theater group as well as 500 square dancers. Several concerts, a 1,000-member choir and a 200-figure puppet ensemble are also on the program. Modern art enthusiasts should not feel deprived by the lack of a documenta this year. Cologne is putting together one of the major modern art exhibitions of the year, modern art exhibitions of the year, "West Art: Contemporary Art. Since 1939," which will attempt to show the changing face of the avant garde during the last 40 years in Western Europe and the United States, with works by Mon-drian, Klee, Dubuffet, Jackson Pollock, Rauschenberg, Andy Warhol and, from nearby Dussel-dorf Losenh Bruys. In addition dorf, Joseph Beuys. In addition, the exhibition will display works of 30 young and little-known artists. "West Art" will be in the Rheinhalle on the trade fair grounds from May 30 to August

West Germany's rich urban landscape. A statue of the Roland erected in 1404 stands guard outside Bremen's Ra the public. Also here are th For those who find themselves in southern Germany with a wish manic National Muscum. sure house for German pa to see some of the countryside, the and sculpture, handicrafts cities of Frankfurt, Stutigart and furniture and costumes. Out Munich provide convenient gateseums in Nuremberg are t to transportation and to to silent ruins of the stadium ways. Some areas of northern Bavaria (Franconia) are closer to Frankfurt than to the Bavarian capital, Munich. Hitler stirred up his New the 1930s can still be seen From Frankfurt, the first histor-On the other side of Or ic city encountered is likely to be in the southwest, lies die Forest. Its well-known to. Wuerzburg, in the heart of the Franconian wine country (an al-most exclusively white wine kept clude the spa of Baden-Donaueschingen, wher in flat green bottles). Wuerzburg, Danabe begins its 1,710-mi which grew conspicuously wealthy ney to the Black Sea, and t versity town of Freiburg in ... along with its prince-bishops, is a showcase for the sculpture and carvings of Balthasar Neumann The "Schwarzwaldand Tilman Riemenschneider.

strasse" (Black Forest Hill For more than a quarter of a provides numerous views o century, Wuerzburg has been the start (or end) of the "The Roman-tic Road." Created as an itinerary ral beauty and access to places worth visiting betwee den-Baden and Freudenstat for foreign tourists, the popular The Black Forest's nar route connects once fiercely inde-pendent cities and towns that have been acquired b cherry/whipped cream ca preserved or restored centuries-old dark smoked ham, but the castles, churches and other sites. ous cafes and restaurants Along the route are Rothenburg ob der Tauber, Dinkelsbuehl and Augsburg. Wuerzburg and Fussen ends, respectively, of the route, Renowned Opera Festival

Other cities in Franconia include Bambert, a 1,000-year-old bishop's residence with a famous bishop's residence with a ramous medieval cathedral and many art treasures, and Bayreuth, celebrat-ed for its annual Wagner opera fes-tival. Nuremberg, location of the annual international toy fair and colorful Christmas market, has maintained the home of native son Albrecht Duerer, which is open to ny.)

An 18-hole golf course at Baden-Baden.

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

XVII — Page 118

isure: A Nation Takes Its Play as Seriously as Its Work ICH --- Have West Ger-switched completely Jesure ethic, shutting praditional work ethic? HCH mass-circulation weekly last fail asked a pointed a headline on its cover: West Germans Lazy?" pors were mundated with d protest letters. "We are -working people in the was the consensus of and the readers wrong. they have not already, Germans are about to set ational record in absenad leisure time.

Scale on Working

mg to a 1979 survey by magazine, the country's West Germans ranked d the Austrians and as the people in the world withe least. According to Life average gainfully Austrian spends 1,808 is at his job, the average 1.810.' and the average man 1.812. By compariaverage U.S. citizen works the Spaniard 2,008, the 2,026 and the Japanese new labor-management ents set for implementation ar will provide the average with five to six weeks' paid n a year and are certain to the West Germans internapions in working less. ed. Bonn's Institute for gy estimated last autumn est Germans have already e prize, since 8.4 percent of itractual time on the job is rough unexcused absenteeh the result that the average Serman works only 1,643 nnually.

Leisare Ethic it all means is that the inof the work ethic, now prelaubszeit — quitting, leisure cation time — are on an incoffee break.

thesis, to be sure, is hardly /eteran observers of the ferman scene recall the conllor Ludwig Ethard, the arof the "economic miracle," d the world and his countrya calling them lazy. age of time has not made

> animaning

1997 (M. 19

ж.

والور. ر د. موار 2414

Time off: At Mittenwald, southern Bavaria, a mountain lake draws a crowd for a day of swimming and diving. dispelling the myth of the hardworking, diligent Germans any less ample, have estimated that their unpopular. employees in New Stanton, Pa.,

How unpopular was something work 42 more days each year than Otto Lambsdorff, the minister of their opposite numbers in Wolfs-economics, learned last winter burg. when he rephrased Mr. Erhard's remarks and warned that the times are over "when we can continue to work fewer hours indefinitely for ever more pay." But despite the outrage that his comments drew — and not just from organized labor — the fact remains that the West Germans, who once lived to work, now work, if at all, primarily to live.

Costs, Quality

And it is beginning to tell, in the form of spiraling labor costs and reduced quality that are pricing and driving West German goods out of their traditional markets. To be sure, things have changed since the de facto devaluation of minds, the Deutsche mark in January and February of this year, but until then West German industrial hourly labor costs were almost the highest in the world, just a few cents less than in Belgium, Sweden and The Netherlands, and from 25 to 50 percent higher than in Britain, the United States, Canada and France That has been one reason why so many West German manufacturers have established production facilities in the United States. Although hourly productivity by ananananana

individual workers has grown com-petitively with other industrial soworkers receive a vacation bonus - Urlaubsgeld - which averages about 40 percent of the monthly cieties during the past decade, the West German has spent progrestake-home pay. sively lewer hours on the job.

Volkswagen executives, for exin winter, the rest in summer. work 42 more days each year than Less Time, Same Pay

The once famed and feared furor teutonicus, it seems, is as extinct as the dinosaur --- thanks to social legislation and labor management contracts enacted during the past two decades. The result is that the average West German now spends less time on the job — and still gets paid for it — than anyone else in the Western world.

Average annual paid vacations are one factor, and it seems that whomever you talk to - blue-col-lar or white-collar worker, tradesman or bureaucrat, executive or professional - Urlaub (vacation) is always the first thing on their

By law everyone is entitled to at least three weeks, and certain age groups, such as those under 18 and those over 35, have the right to four weeks.

But labor management negotiations over the years have guaran-teed most people considerably more. According to the Deutsche Gewerkschaftsbund, the German Federation of Trade Unions, more than two-thirds of workers and employees currently get at least six weeks off. Moreover, in addition to their normal pay, about 80 per-cent of all blue- and white-collar festivals.

Executives normally have eight season to a liquid and joyous conweeks, half or one-third of the time clusion Nearly every village and town

Extended Weekend

But the West German who still

- to which everyone is entitled. This can be followed by a is required to report at the job but

Flexible Sick Leave

The sick-leave system is espeer in the country reports sick about 15 days a year. Last year, in addition to all this, must not work "too hard."

But there is more: The high sets aside a day to celebrate its number of paid legal holidays each year — 16, give or take a few de-pending on regional differences founding in the year something-orother A.D. and social custom

Not only do the West Germans celebrate nearly every major and minor Catholic and Protestant holend has, for all practical purposes, become a two-and-a-half day one. Rare is the West German office iday, but they celebrate them twice where anyone can still be found at as long as anywhere else. his or ber desk after noon on Fri-

Christmas lasts three days offidays. Among civil servants, law-yers, physicians and most other professionals, the "free Wednescially, beginning around noon Dec. 24 when all stores close, offices having shut down the 23d, and includes the 25th and 26th. Then day afternoon" has been a tradithere is the protracted New Year's tion since the turn of the century. celebration, the weeklong preoccufeels overworked after all that bas pation with Easter and the long yet another option: the six weeks Pentecost weekend of annual sick leave - at full pay

In Bavaria, where Epiphany Day (Jan, 6) is also a legal holiday. it is customary for most offices, businesses and smaller plants to month's paid Kur - a convalescent cure at a spa - which can be stretched into an additional period simply shut down from Dec. 23 to Jan. of Schonzeit, a post-convalescent period during which the "patient"

Long Easter Week

Easter week is precisely that, be-ginning with Green Thursday before Good Friday and lasting through Easter Monday - very often the Tuesday after.

cially flexible, often finding ex-pression in the phrases: "I think I'll take my flu this week," and, "He's celebrating his grippe." On the average, every industrial work-ic the country exports side about In most states Corpus Christi, Ascension, All Saints and Repentance Days are legal holidays, to which one must add All Souls, Labor Day (May 1), German Unity Day (June 17) and a spate of local

Rhinelanders, in the industrial the Bundestag enacted a measure that allows working parents five additional days off yearly -- at heart of the country, and Bavarians take at least a week to bring the annual pre-Lenten carnival pay. of course — to nurse small, sick children at home. In 1978, the last year for which figures are available, it cost West German employers 24.6 billion DM in direct payments to workers absent for reasons such as illness health and cures and accidents. No estimate has been made of indirect cosis.

هكذا من الأصل

Absenteeism, according to the Cologne-based Institute of the German Economy, reduces the time actually worked by 8.4 percent, compared to 3.5 percent in the United States and less than 2 percent in Japan.

And lest one forget, paid time off, not chargeable against accrued vacation time, is usually granted for "extraordinary events" such as weddings, births, house movings or deaths of close relatives. Not only is it permissible to attend one's grandmother's funeral, but also that of one's grandmother-in-law.

Not How When? The macroeconomie effect of all this is probably incalculable. That on the foreigner attempting to do business in West Germany is mad-deningly frustrating. "The main problem you will face trying to do business here is not how but Meanwhile, the two-day weekwhen," " a West German executive has commented in trying to impart well-meaning advice to American counterparts.

What he meant was that the West Germans have become so preoccupied with Freizeit that the average visitor may not find his German counterpart in the office. "I'd say the best time for scheduling a business trip here," he continued, "is between late January and early April and again from early September through November. The rest of the year you'll run into the vacation schedules summer, winter, spring and autumn

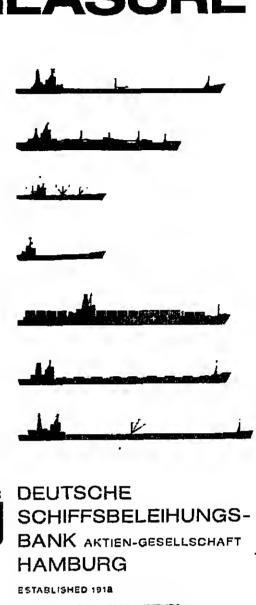

But April can be a problem, too, depending on when Easter falls. The schools have Easter vacation and most parents also go on "May is an absolute disaster. It starts with Labor Day. Then, depending on when Easter was, there's Ascension day, Pentecost weekend, and Corpus Christi day — all legal holidays." Is it any wonder then that, according to a recent Dresdner Bank study of the problem. productivity in West Germany is 24 percent lower than in the United States?

SHIP FINANCE MADE TO MEASURE

P. O. Box 11 19 20 - 2000 HAMBURG 11 Telephono: "36 28 66 + Telev" 02 14029

DAL-LEASING. THE EXPORT SYSTEM

  ······

tamping the world th success

se are the symbols of outstanding achievet, know-how and experience on a global Symbols of O&K's mammoth range of tines serving the construction industry: and mobile hydraulic excavators, ed loaders, dumpers, graders, mobile lorry mounted cranes, bucket wheel and ket chain excavators, spreaders, dredgers mineral processing plant.

Advanced technology, matchless performance and unflagging earning power - indispensable gualities which make O&K earthmoving equipment such highly-prized tools, day in, day out. Whether it's in quarries, sandpits or open-cast mines, building dams or laying pipelines, deepening and widening waterways or land reclamation, O&K have left their indelible mark - ever since 1876.

O&K Orenstein & Koppel Aktiengesellschaft Head Office: D-4600 Dortmund 1 · W. Germany

WHICH GIVES YOUR CUSTOMERS DIRECT SERVICE AND BRINGS YOU NEW BUSINESS.

How often have the borders of your country been the real export problem? Your representative has good product and sales experience. But your customer wants to know if he can afford the product. And he wants to know where he stands. Does he speak your language? Does he understand your legal system? With DAL-Leasing, you don't only employ a marketing system which makes you more versatile. You also take the individual path.____ The companies in the strong European group of DAL International will prepare tailormade draft contracts for your customer.

In his language and in accordance with local law. Contracts which are exactly suited to your customer's needs. Additionally, the DAL-Leasing specialist will assist your representative on the spot as a second sales expert. Without any extra cost, you give your customer the know-how which will enable him to realize his planned investment. The solution is leasing. ____ With DAL-Leasing you can immediately compete against local competition on equal terms. ____ The DAL-Leasing Group. In West Germany, Belgium, France, Italy, Austria and Switzerland.

DAL-Leasing. A decision to make you stronger.

DAL-INTERNATIONAL LEASING GMBH, MAINZ (WEST GERMANY)

DAUSubsidiaties and Portnersmos in eaxing Belgium S.A. Blussels - Printle Condeset Co ustria, AL Anlagen Leasing Ges mib H, Vienna – Belowm, LB Leasi - Stylzener d. ALAG Anlagen Learing

Page 125 - XVIII

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

Considering Berlin as a Production ducing areas. The Rheingau stretches along the Rhine River — "Gau" is Mid-dle High German for waterside

We'll help you examine this question and explain the wide range of special advantages Berlin has to offer.

Relief on turnover tax, specially favorable depreciation, investment allowances, profit tax relief, favorable interest rates Berliner Industriebank AG on long-term credit ~ 1 Berlin 11 just to name some of Postfach 110580 the most important. Telephone

(030) 82 30 11

Berliner Industriebank AG

Partner and Adviser to Berlin Business

ing and eating. "All this leads to a better understanding of German wines," the brochure promises, but it also leads to a test of stamina. Academic Week The academic week gets under way with a visit to Eberbach Monastery outside Etrille. Although the Swedes carried off its valuable library in the 30 Years War, the nearly 850-year-old walled compound remains a close to perfect example of a medieval Cistercian monastery. Now admin-istered by the state of Hesse. Eberbach Monastery has seven wine es-tates that together make it West Germany's biggest wine grower. The second day includes a visit to the State Research Institute of Viniculture and Horticulture here ir. Geisenheim, which is visited by scientists and wine growers from landscape — on both sides of the city of Wiesbaden, from Lorcbhausen to Wicker. From here comes the original Jobannisberg Riesling, a wine name that travels well and can be found in the vineyards of California and Brazil. Here is Hochheim source of "hoch" (as the British tend to call all Rhine wine), allegedly the fa-vorite of Queen Victoria. A Hochheim vineyard that she visit-ed in 1850 is named after her.

Praised as the "blessed plains and vine-clad countryside" by Goethe, the Rheingau offers end-less material for discussion, especially while enjoying the product of its vincyards. That is what takes place several times a year. from May to October, at the German Wine Academy. Seven seminars are being held this year in English. including one postgraduate course for former seminar participants.

The DM1,250 course includes lectures and visits to vineyards and wine cellars and a lot of wine-tast-

Wine Academy: A Week of Tasting, Talkin By Clotilde Lucey GEISENHEIM — In the parish church in the town of Rauenthal there is a 300-year-old statue of the Virgin with the infant Jesus in one arm and a bunch of Jesus in one arm and a bunch of grapes in the other. The statue is known as the Grape Madonna, and it could not be in a more fit-ting place. Rauenthal lies in the Rheingau, one of Germany's most internationally famous wine-pro-ducine areas

The village of Kaub, at the foot of a carpet of terraced vineyards. Looming over the village is the Burg Guteniels fortre

'A wine seminar is first of all a pleasure. In fact, the course used to be called 'relaxation with wine,' but along with the hands-on practical sessions, the leisurely meals and sightseeing, one soaks in knowledge of history, culture and the scientific basis of wine.

che is b

of artificially sweetened wine. A perennial debate about Ger man wine is waged over whether it is for sipping but not for supping; that it does not go with meals. Count Erwein Matuschka-Greif-fenclau, a member of a family now in its 28th generation as the owner of Schloss Vollrads, has conducted extensive experiments in this area.

The count bas prepared a long list of suitable German wines for the around the world. The same day, volved 200 dealers and 800 the seminar participants have growers in various German wine lunch on a Rhine river cruiser, regions and some in neighboring France and Luxembourg. Was this sipping wines as they pass the vineyards where they originated. alleged violation possible only because West German wine laws are The basic course also offers trips too strict? In practice, the real to other German wine areas, to the c Baden is of Heidelberg castle) and Rheinhessen (with a visit to the Liebfraumilch vineyard and Liebwine," but along with the hands-on practical sessions, the leisurely meals and sightseeing, one soaks in knowledge of history, culture and the scientific basis of wine. An im-

A wine seminar is first of all a pleasure. In fact, the course used to be called "relaxation with frau church in Worms). .

ΩY.

G AMK Berlin

Fairs and Exhibitions Division

Fairs and Exhibitions

1981
30.0305.04.	WASSER Berlin '81 Congress "Wasser", National/International Technical Conferences, Special Show, in conjunction with IFW '81 International Fair Water Supply
05.0408.04.	BERLINER INTERCHIC - 122. Durchreise/International Fashion Fair
09.0613.06.	30th German Congress for Medical Advanced Training 14th German Congress for Dental Advanced Training International Pharmaceutical and Medico-Technical Exhibition
29.0603.07.	SURTEC Berlin '81 – International Congress and Exhibition on Surface Technology
31.0801.09.	BERLINER INTERCHIC - 123. Durchreise/International Fashion Fair
04.0913.09.	International Audio- and Video-Fair Berlin
30.0904.10.	19th Overseas Import Fair "Partners for Progress" Berlin 1981
07.10.–10.10.	büro-data Exhibition of the Office Industry Berlin '81
11.1014.10.	BERLINER INTERCHIC - 124. Durchreise/International Fashion Fair
27.1031.10.	EL-FA '81 Berlin – Electrical Engineering Exhibition of the Berlin Trade Representatives CDH
30.10.–04.11.	bautec berlin '81 Building Fair and Congress on Modernisation, Construction, City-Planning
18.1122.11.	Hobbies Pets and Plants Berlin 1981
28.1106.12.	ANTIQUA '81 Berlin
1982
22.0131.01.	International Green Week Berlin 1982
27.0205.03.	International Tourism-Exchange ITB Berlin '82
13.03.–21.03.	Leisure Industries Exhibition Berlin '82 Boats, Sports and Caravaning
Extract from the

Extract from the programme of events

Fair plus congress.

The new form of communication in Berlin, The Berlin Exhibition Grounds are linked directly with the International Congress Center Berlin by a three storey bridge. The ideal conditions for events of every size and type.

BERLIN 1981/82

Inter-EXIII

AMK Berlin Company for Exhibitions, Fairs and Congresses Ltd. P.O. Box 19 70 40 · Messedamm 22 · D-1000 Berlin 19 Tel.: (030) 30 38 1 · Telex: 01 82 908 amkb d

portant lesson that a participant whole menu, from pate de foie gras (with a Riesling Auslese), a main course of stewed or roast beef, duck or pheasant (with a dry spaceburgunder from Baden-Wurtcan learn is that the experts do not always agree on why a wine tastes the way it does as well as on other mute points in this ancient alchetemberg, for example) or wild boar (all dry German reds), and on to Lively Debate the cheese. Only for strong cheese Some of the liveliest moments in such as goat cheese does the count feel there is no suitable German the week are touched off by a simpie statement: "I don't like this wine. Of course, the count's choicwine," which is usually immediatees could be the subject of debate at ly followed by a pro'and con dethe next wine seminar. bate. Also subject to debate is the (For more information: German latest charge of adding sugar to the Wine Academy, P.O. Box 1705, A village in the Moselle wine region. wine, which investigators claim in-6500 Mainz, West Germany.)

Hamburg Frankfurt Offenbach

	31.12.1980	31.12.1979
Business Volume	DM 2.651 m	DM 2.447 m
Total Assets	DM 2151 m	DM 2.055 m
Deposits	DM 1,569 m	DM 1.499 m
Acceptances	DM 321 m	DM 302 m
Bills and Advances	DM 1.439 m	DM 1.319 m
Capital	DM 100 m	DM 95 m

The Partners

SCHRODER. MUNCHMEYER, HENGST INTERNATIONAL S.A.

Luxembourg		. •
	31.12.1980 31.1	2.1979
	Loans to Customers DM 353 m DM	366 m 165 m 349 m 17 m
	The Board of Directo	rs

محدامة الأجل

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

XIX - Page 13S

he New Pinakothek in Munich

By Susan Reimer-Torn

ENICH — When in the early 19th century a group of young artists left Germany to set in casels in Rome, a future king was in their in the set of in The young prince, soon to be crowned adwig t of Bavaria in 1825, was an ardent

Mony of his friends' paintings. Nows that one of the priorities of Ludwig's was the creation of a museum exhibiting the phis, contemporaries. Ludwig's New Pingsing his collection of mostly German the first half of the 19th century, was central Munich, significantly positioned-be Old Pinakothek, repository of Europe-inglects from the Renaissance through the g s museum was maintained and gradualby other acquisitions of 19th century if the building was irreparably damaged by m World War II. Its paintings, safely resembere, are now the nucleus of the col-of the long awaited New Pinakothek, rectad on Ludwig's original site. The $500 3, 22-room museum opened its doors, with Sceremony, for the first time last week.

is newest Bavarian muscum is an outgrowth region's traditional enthusiasm for art cola always closely linked with regional pride. history of art patronage, boasts 17 major mu-s housing 22,000 works — and these collecare frequently enhanced by gifts and loans local sources.

hile the New Pinakothek houses art from all Enrope, its construction was characterized be Bavarian's fierce sense of cultural indelence: When, in 1978, the federal government ed to contribute 50% of the funds needed to re important works from the Hirsch collecmuseum directors Erich Steingraber and hard Ruhmer refused assistance rather than stely compromise their autonomy.

knowledgement of Bavaria's past achieve-t was also a primary concern to the directors he New Pinakothek. The designs of architect ander Freiherr von Branca, chosen out of alt 300 entries in an official contest, stress an ity with the Old Pinakothek - still standing opposite the new building. He even tried to tivate a quarry, source of the red clay used in facade of the older building. Failing that, a bination of gray sandstone and granite was ned for its low key, homogeneous effect. Inskylights deliberately recall the design of the ent museum. New Pinakothek's stone interior and keyhole windows, its inner courtyards coiled around a central, spiral ramp give it a quasi-medi-eval look. At the same time, its gleaning newness and high-efficiency elegance update it into a style that Mr. von Branca, somewhat enigmatically, calls postmodern; that is, "a combination of old and new that comes full circle."

Attention to historical continuity also guided the directors in their choice and arrangement of the museum's 500 paintings and small collection of sculpture. Unlike some of the other new Gerof schiptifie. Onlike some of the other new Ger-man museums that deliberately avoid imposing a visitor's itinerary, the sloping ramp at the New Pinakothek purposefully ushers viewers through what the directors call "a continuum of art histo-

The visit begins with works by selected 18th century artists, such as Gainsborough and Richard Wilson, elements of whose portraits and landscapes are considered precursory to important 19th century developments.

The New Pinakothek is also distinguished by a surprisingly substantial exhibition of English painting the only collection of its kind in Germany. The curators would like to redress the unrestimation of English influence on 19th century continental art. Outstanding in the English col-lection is Turner's agitated vision of a storm at the harbor of Ostende, his unmistakeable canvas swirling in a fusion of water, air and light.

Nor are the Impressionists and post-Impres-sionists neglected at the New Pinakothek ---thanks to the foresightedness of a certain Mr. Tscbudis; When his early advocacy of the new schools antagonized Kaiser Wilhelm in Berlin, Tschudis moved to Munich, Although the Munich art world was only slightly less antipathetic, Tschudis' eventual appointment as curator of the New Pinakothek allowed him to hang his 37 unpopular paintings on its walls in 1911. The collection, now newly assembled, includes important works of Cczanne, Courbet, Monet, Manet, Van Gogh and Gauguin.

The museum's present-day directors have a similar disregard for current fashion in art. In addition to an overview of history, they are committed to "a reassessment of Germany's artistic past." The relative obscurity and even unpopularity of many of its artists does notetrouble the museum's directors. They are, on the contrary, proud to anticipate what they believe will be an important new trend. Moreover, the museum, with its air of intimate formality, is not equipped to handle huge crowds. Their goal, in keeping with the tradition of Ludwig and his royal predecessors, is erziehen, that is to educate and elevate the public — in this case to a selective appreciation of quality in fine .art.

MUNICH — Microelectronics. which bas brought about a revolution in the application, expansion and prices of computers. has similarly transformed the communications business. And this transformation is not limited to any particular form of communication: it embraces media and newspapers as well as private and business telephone systems, telex and typewriter (both becoming obsolete through the spread of elec-tronic mail, facsimile transmission and the word processor), the transmission of words and pictures via satellite and intricate defense cominterest in computers.

munications systems. It is a fiercely competitive market restrained only by national considerations. The Deutsche Bundespost (Post Office), for example, is not expected to provide major opportunities for foreign compa nies in the gradual transfer 10 a digital telephone switching system. Similarly, the French government gives preference to CIT-Alcatel and Thomson CSF, and British Telecom - also publicly owned gives preference to GEC, Plessey and STC, a subsidiary of ITT.

The Dutch multinational Philips has estimated that of a world public telecommunications market of around $30 billion a year, only $4 billion — or 13 percent — is open to true international competition. (The big contract recently won by a Siemens-led consortium in Egypt belongs in this category). The concept "communications" covers a good deal more than just public telecommunications, and the linkages between different forms of communication are appreciated by the major international companies. Gradually the origi-nal computer manufacturers like 1BM (which has a large West German operating subsidiary) have come into the communications market just as the original telecommunications specialists like Siemens. Philips, AEG Telefunken and Standard Elektrik-Lornz t the West German ITT subsidiary) have increasingly been taking an

Significant Feature

This integration of devices, interest activities and research has received a new impetus from mi-croelectronics, a significant feature communication systems of all kinds In the case of Siemens, communications are the concern's second largest operating division, with sales of over 9 billion Deutsche marks last year (an increase of 12 percent over the previous year) and an order book of over DM10 billion, up 13 percent. Siemens bas the lion's share of the West German Post Office's contract to gradually transform the entire telephone network from analogue to digital switching. (Orders by the post office last year amounted to more than DM g billion: this year's total investment may exceed DM12 billion). Next year the new digital technology should be on trial in six exchanges and by 1985 the first series-pro-duced digital exchanges should be in operation. Nevertheless, it may take literally decades for all the 3,000-plus West German ex-changes to be converted to disital changes to be converted to digital switching.

Similarly, the new glass fiber (optic) cables which are thinner. tougher and more resistant to interference than the conventional copper wire cables they are destined to replace are being tested in many other countries as well as West Germany.

Their application spreads well beyond telecommunications - optical fiber cables can carry speech as well as television or computer information. Competition in this area is far more open than in the provision of public telephone sys-tems and the West German companies are baving to face the full blast of foreign competition.

Storing Information

Another aspect of the electronic revolution may be seen in the postal service. Eventually much of the business correspondence, not only within West Germany but throughout the world, is expected to be carried on by "Teletex," a new service integrating data and word processing with the storing of information. Although Seimens has pioneered the concept, which is being introduced this year, several competitors have entered the field, including Triumph-Adler the Volkswagenwerk subsidiary). Olympia (an associate of AEG-Telefunken). Standard Elektrik-Lorenz and of course. Siemens's great European rival. Philips. Forecasts put the possible increase in West German subscribers from the present 10,000 to at least 120,000 by 1990.

The "electronic newspaper" ser-vice, already available in Britain, is at present being tested in West Germany. in the Berlin and Dues-seldorf areas. The simple form allows the subscriber to dial for the information to be screened - and repeated, if he so wishes.

However, newspapers answer this threat by using satellite and facsimile transmission of pages (text and pictures), or entire news-papers over satellite and telephone links respectively. (International Herald Tribune uses both - the first for its Hong Kong, the second for its London and Zurich editions).

Satellite transmission is not limited to newspapers. It is an integral part of the transatlantic television and telephone services, and West German companies, not only those in electronics but also in the aerospace and engineering industries. are supplying knowbow, systems and components. They include Sie-mens and AEG-Telefunken (the largest supplier of solar cells to provide energy for satellites) as linking of computers and termi-nals, external and internal digital telephone switchboards, word processors, electronic mail, facsimile, transmission of drawings, pictures and images may be integrated into single sophisticated systems. Klaus Luft of Nixdorf believes that the integration of all these electronic devices into a single sys-tem will lead to a decentralization office functions and a greater flexibility in procedure. It should enable smaller companies to close the "information gap" which hitherto favored the large concerns. The larger companies in turn would be able to delegate more responsibility to their subsidiaries. associates and even branches.

well as Messerschmin, Dornier, Standard Elektrik, Brown-Boveri,

But it is in offices that the elec tronic revolution is expected to achieve its fastest growth. Here the

M.A.N. and others.

Expansion of integrated communications systems in offices would profoundly change the nature of employment and perhaps the number of people employed. According to Mr. Luft, employees will have to accept that the proportion of "standardized work which has to be carried out in line with immutable rules" will continue to increase. The problem, he says, must be solved by the cooperation and understanding of all those affected; it is not one that technology can solve hy itself. — A.H

Chemicals: Industry Hit Hard By Exports Slump, Recession

By Gareth Edwards

NKFURT — After enjoy-ig the strongest year of the ym 1979, the West German als industry, came down to with a bump during 1980. It tered the year with cantious and hopes of continuing in real terms of around 2 but the rapid dereriorathe West German economy session in important foreign hit chemicals demand ind started a squeeze on mics' profits.

lened by the rising costs of and raw materials, the innow sees little chance of a tial recovery in the first 1981. Karl Wamsler, presi-I the West German Chemiustry Federation, expects try to perform little better overall economy over the months, a period when Jerman gross national prodexpected to decline by percent

t German chemicals compa ve fared better than some of European rivals however es appear to have stabilized ast three months, albeit at a 'ow level.

areas of the industry that een bardest hit are precisely hat contributed most to the s growth in 1979, namely nd intermediate petrochemnd plastics. Customer indusere building up stocks rapid-ng the 1979-1980 surge in oil and a series of price inin petrochemical products it a surge in demand as custried to anticipate the next te economy started to weakwever, several areas of inwhich number among the suyers of chemical products tiles, motors and construcor example - began to cut emand and reduce stock levthe second and third quar-1980, the chemicals indusaffered an unprecedented n demand. Leading compacluding Hoechst and Bayer. forced to introduce shortorkiog in some sectors, and dusty's profitability took a g as the level at which plants ed was drastically cut back.

Drop in Demand

suffered a drop of 63 pergroup profits in the third while its big domestic loechst and BASF also saw profits fail by more than 40

the year as a whole the piclittle better. The industry d a remarkably strong first quarter but none of the big chemi-cals groups are likely to match their 1979 performance and BASF has warned that it will have to cut its dividend for 1980.

The main production drop last year was in organic chemicals, where output was down by around 11.7 percent. Production of ethylene, the most important basic petrochemical — used in a wide range of products including plas-tics, fibers and paints — fell by 13.1 percent in the first 11 months of 1980 to only 2.8 million tons as opposed to 3.2 million tons in the same period of 1979.

Some Less Affected

Areas that are not so immediately affected by the trade cycle, such as fertilizers, crop-protection chemicals and consumer products, were not as hard hit by the recession in the industry last year. Some sectors, like pharmaceuticals, have even managed some growth. Overall, however, the chemicals groups have been working at a substantially reduced level of capacity. Hoechst reported recently that its plants were working at only 72 percent of capacity in the fourth quarter of 1980 whereas the had been 82 percent in 1979. The reduction in output has been clearly reflected in the number of chemical workers hit by short-time working. In February of this year 19,747 employees in the industry ware still on short-time. The recession has left its deepest mark, however, in the synthetic fibers sector, which has been in something of a crisis for much of the late 1970s. Some capacity in the industry bas been cut back under economic pressures and as part of an agreed reduction by producers in the European Community. But according to Enka, one of the leading West German synthetic fibers companies, the industry in Western Europe has run up losses of around 2.5 billion Deutsche marks in 1980 and is urging a fur-ther cutback of some 600,000 tons of capacity to bring the sector more in line with demand.

Rise in U.S. Imports

Producers of synthetic fibers particularly have been suffering from rising U.S. imports in EEC markets, which have been made possible by U.S. feedstock- and energy-cost advantages. The rising price of energy and oil-based feedstocks is a more general prob-lem for the West German chemicals sector, which, because of fall-ing demand for its products, has been unable to pass on rising costs in the form of higher prices.

facturing price index rose by 8 percent last year — they are far be-hind the increase in costs and in some particularly bard-pressed sectors product prices have fallen below the previous year's level.

West German chemicals companies complain that their rivals across the border in France are enjoying an advantage of around 25 percent in power costs, and it is unlikely that the comparative positions will change in the next few years. The cheaper French power prices appear to stem from the larger nuclear, energy component that has been built up in France. The gap between the two countries is likely to widen further during the next decade. The leading West German building group of nuclear power plants — Kraftwerk - estimated recently that Union by 1985 the buildup of nuclear energy in France will give a costs ad-vantage to French industry and consumers of up to DM10 billion. By 1988, barring accidents or major changes in political policy, France could be deriving as much as 70 percent of its power needs from nuclear energy, while West Germany will have a nuclear component of at best little more than 20 percent.

This imbalance between neigh bours has done little to impair the standing of the West German chemicals sector in the world industry. Hoechst, Bayer and BASF are the world's three largest chemi-cals companies, and last year the West German industry was able to consolidate its position as the larg-est exporter of chemicals in the world

The industry's turnover in-creased nominally by 5 percent last year to DM108 billion, the rise coming from higher prices offset-ting the 4 percent fall in produc-tion. Exports rose by around 7.1 percent - to DM43.4 billion in the first 11 months of the year and as much as 43.7 percent of production is going now to foreign markets. In the same period imports rose by 10.4 percent to DM24.4 billion

The chemicals industry, with a work force of some 551,000 people, is one of the major pillars of West German industry and of the nation's export effort. Capital expenditure this year is expected to come close to last year's level of DM7 billion - up from DM6 bil-lion in 1979 - but Mr. Wamsler warned recently that spending could start falling in 1982 without a clear improvement in the industry's fortunes. The first balf of 1981 appears to have been largely written off in terms of recovery.

Although prices have been rising - the German chemicals manuond half of the year.

Whether you're all business or have unforgettable holidays on your mind. Germany.

What's good for business can also be great for your personal pleasure. On your next business trip to Germany, just tack on a few relaxing free days - or even an entire unforgettable vacation.

Prices, incidentally, are astonishingly reasonable once you get a

As an incentive travel country, too, Germany offers a whole host of enticing special attractions. In magnificent surroundings.

Come to Germany. Even if you have nothing but business on your mind. Our countryside, our food and beverages, our hotels little bit out of the business centers. and our incomparably romantic ambience will leave you many a wonderful memory to take home. Beethovenstrasse 69 D-6000 Frankfurt am Main 1 Fed. Rep. of Germany

Page 14S - XX

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

By Gareth Edwards

FRANKFURT - When West Germany started to welcome foreign workers io the early 1960s to oil the wheels of the booming economy, the first seeds of social and racial tinrest were sown.

It has only just become apparent, however, that the millions of foreigners drawn into the country as a temporary reserve army for the over-stretched labor market bave little intention of leaving.

The Federal Republic faces a formidable problem of social integratioo in the 1980s.

Josef Stingl, president of the Federal Labor Office in Nuremberg, recently had to appeal to German citizens to show greater understanding of foreign workers and their families.

"For the forseeable future our economy can hardly survive with-out them." Mr. Sungl said. "They helped us when we needed them. now we canoot simply send them home.

Hostility to the presence of the 4.5-millioo foreigners in West Germany - around 7 percent of the population - has become iotal more pronounced as the economy has weakened to the brink of reces-

Uaemployment, rising steadily, reached 1.3 millioo (5.6 percent of the working populatioo) in February, and with the growing number of jobless has come an increasiog rescotment of the fact that non-Germans hold some 2 million jobs in the Federal Republic.

Such resentment tends to overlook the fact that many of West Germany's industrial assembly lines and municipal services could hardly function today without foreign workers. With the level of educatioo and training among immigrant workers geoerally lower than among Ger-mans, most foreigners are able to get only the lowest jobs in German society.

The more unpleasaot and unsocial the work, the higher the percentage of foreigners and the smaller the chance of attracting a German to do the job even if there were oo immigrant available to do

At a company like Ruhrkohle, West Germany's maio coal-mining group, more than 15 percent of the work force are foreigners, but the in February against 4.3 percent a percentage changes to almost 100 percent underground at some pits. year earlier. workers from outside the EEC was Tomorrow's Proletariat

The danger, recognized by au-thorities, is that native Germans are increasingly looking down on their foreign oeighbors. And the future of the immigrants' children "the proletariat of tomorrow."

Hostility to the presence of the 4.5-million foreigners in West Germany around 7 percent of

It bas begun to dawn on the the total population country that the foreign populatioo in its midst is a permanent one. Some 78 percent of the for-eigners questioned in a recent Ber-– has become more lin survey said they had oo intenpronounced as the tion of returning bome.

economy has weakened to the West Germany created some-thing of a social timebomb for itbrink of recession. self by encouraging the growth of lic.

according to Mr. Stingl - is io danger for, "they will be employed when auxiliary workers are needed and theo sacked again some time when they are ool. The jobs of foreign workers un-doubtedly are more vulnerable during periods of economic de-

The disadvantage in skills means that foreigners are more likely to be io jobs that will be lost when the economy starts to turn down. A study by the German Institute for Ecocomic Research in Berlin showed that in the recession years of 1973-1976 every fourth foreign worker - but only every 25th German worker --- lost his job.

The same process appears to be at work in the current ecocomic downturn. In February more than 158,609 foreigners - 7.3 percent of the foreign work force - were out of work. A year ago the figure was 5.7 percent. But only 5.6 percent of the total labor force in available today for teachers and West Germany was without work education, we will bave to spend in a few years time on police and resocializatioo measures," he warns.

this large disadvantaged class among its population. One-fourth The foreign-populatioo issue exof the foreigners to the country are oloded during last autumn's generchildren under the age of 16 and al election campaign with calls from the German nationalist party the authorities are recognizing that the most difficult issue to tackle is (NPD) for a stop to immigration. education. Politicians from the major parties It is not unusual in inner city

By September last year more than 50 percent of Germany's foreign populatioo had been in the country for more than 10 years.

has oo ready solutioos.

denounced the policy, but they obareas to find schools and classes viously were aware of the way in where foreigners - with a variety which the wind was blowing. At his final major election rally. languages but oooe of them German — comprise 50 to 70 per-cent of the student body. Almost. Chancellor Helmut Schmidt urged his audience to show "tolerance 60 percept of foreign pupils leave solidarity" toward the counschool without any qualifying ex-aminations and two-thirds without try's foreign population, but add-ed, "We are not the labor exchange job training. Social surveys suggest that it is predominantly the chilfor the world." Occasionally, hostility to fordren of foreign families that suffer, caught between their parents' cul-ture and that of their classmates, eigners has been expressed by attacks on the boarding houses of newly arrived refugees, and on forbut belonging fully to neither. Heinz Kuehn, the government's eigners' shops and lodgings. In the worst incident, last year in Hamcommissioner for foreigners, is burg, two people were killed by a aware of the problem even if he Molotov cocktail thrown into a hostel for Vietnamese seekiog po-The resources we don't make litical asylum in West Germany. But most of the hostility is verbal:

'Unemployment, rising steadily, reached 1.3 million (5.6 percent of the working population) in February, and with the growing number of jobless has come an increasing resentment of the fact that non-Germans hold some 2 million jobs in the Federal Republic. Such resentment tends to overlook the fact that many of West Germany's industrial assembly lines and municipal services could hardly function today without foreign workers.

Hannover Fair: 9 Variations on Theme of Exporting Engineering

West Germany's "fair of fairs" began in Hannover April I. The fair's overall more than balf a million visitors from as many as 100 countries are expected; theme is the nation's major export industry, engineering. Nine events support the theme. Representatives from more than 5,600 companies as well as industry to electrotechnology and the latest in data communications.

oewspapers and politicians receive a steady stream of crank letters asking such questions as, "How long can it go on? We are not the dustbin of the world." The idea that Germany is being swamped by uncontrolled immigration has been strengthened in the past year by the surge of "eco-nomic relugees" to the Federal Reoublic.

Germans living in the Federal Republic Foreign ghettos have formed rapidly in the poorer quarters of West Germany's major cities, and many Germans find its cary to make the foreigners scapegoas for inner-city problems of poor hous-ing, rising crime and falling school standards

For many years, govern policies toward foreign we were bostile and aimed at m. a defficult for them to settle long stays in the Federal Repu

1.000

.the

Regulations, have been it somewhat since 1978, but pe_ sion to stay indefinitely still h on several factors, such as k of unbroken time that one worked, knowledge of the Ge-language, adequate living ac. modation for the worker an family, and whether childre scissol age have actually has school

A report from the Institut Economic Research makes it that a wish to integrate foreign pulations is being expressed facts hardly correspond hopes.

"The situation today is ch terized rather by the formatic. shettos, by under-privilege, a. part by a lack of willingness o part of both Germans and for ers to integrate," the report si asylum laws,

Abuse of the political asylum system has inflamed emotions regarding foreigners, but it has also served to obscure the real problems that exist for millions of non-

Thousands of people from Turkey, India, Africa and Asia have sought to enter the country by exploiting the very liberal political

There's something wrong with our world.

Money changes the world. That can be seen. clearly if countries are portrayed according to their economic strength and not by their geographical size.

Suddenly small countries burst at the seams. with individual ones dominating entire continents.

The other side of the picture is that large countries with less developed economies shrink to dwarf size. A lopsided situation indeed - precarious not only for the weak economies, but also for the industrialized ones. For where are the markets of the future?

Where poverty rules, there will be no money to purchase our export products. A lack of roads, energy harbors and skilled workers means no export chances for the industrialized countries.

Therefore it is essential to help develop that part of the world. We must buy from them. Then, in exchange, we can supply the plant and equipment that enable better and economically more efficient production.

محدامن الاجل

Only in this way is it possible to achieve, in the long run, the necessary equilibrium in the world economy.

The fact that we as a bank concern ourselves with this problem may surprise you. However, as a commonweal enterprise we also see ourselves as a promoter of ideas.

BfG:London. 83. Cannon Street Bucklersbury House, London EC4N 8HE

BfG:Luxembourg S.A., 17, rue du Fossé B.P. Box 1123. Luxembourg

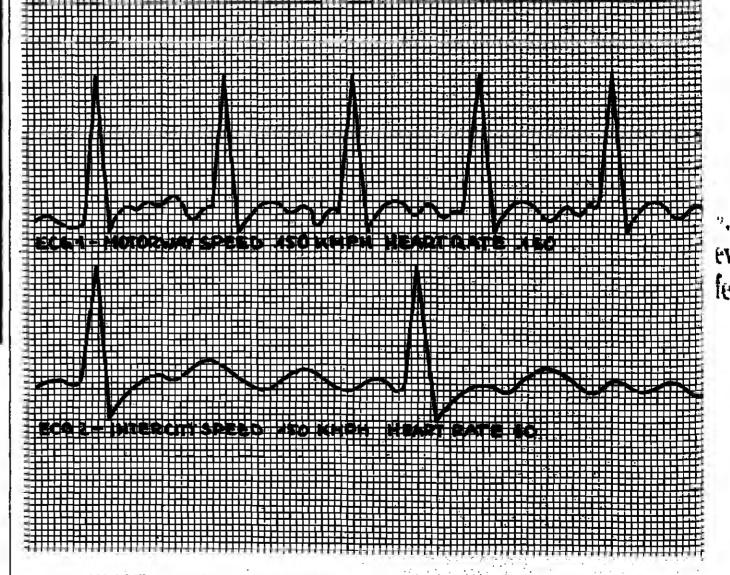

BfG:Finance Asia Ltd., 6, Des Voeux Road Central G.P.O. Box 11272, Hong Kong

BfG:Bank für Gemeinwirtschaft, Theaterplatz 2 6000 Frankfurt am Main

BfG:Bank für Gemeinwirtschaft.

TRAVELING BY TRAIN IS NOT

We'd like to talk about a subject which many people should take to heart. We'n talking about relaxed travel. Without going into one or the other of the well-known highlight of railway travel, we'd like to tell you just how exciting it is to go by train.

For this purpose, we have reproduced the ECG of Alan T. (his name is known to us) The first (ECG 1) was made on the motorway at 150 kmph and the second (ECG 2) was made in an Intercity express, also travelling at 150 kmph.

If you think this is an advertisement against the car, you've got it quite wrong. It's much more an advertisement for your heart.

dustry: A Challenge of the Times

soal is exported to EEC

ancerns this year confirm ample, both Maunesmann N. report expanding exat books and inert domess though Siemens' 19-perin orders last year was almaily divided between derport orders. Sichnic is not likely to main through the year: domget term, West Ger-interim term, West Gerstry is expected to benefit. In the capital requirements ed by the energy crisis inspiration it has given to byical advance and strucnges. We main research institutes the mainded taxation, de-

E. 77 - 2

Set of the a pada a second

ç. . .

Palation states

han i the second antiprises are already tak-

a and other benefits from rimment to encourage change as well as the det of alternative energy ification of the chemical BASF into consumer elecincluding its cooperation at with the Japanese manr Hitachi; Mannesmann's : of 50 percent of equity in - processing firm Kienzle the electrical firm Hartand Brann; and genwerk's acquisition of e computer company Tridler are examples of major branching into industries romise.

adustry Diversifying, Too

also are significant interiges taking place, particuthe steel industry, whose nncertain. esmann, Thyssen, Krupp eckner have been diversit of steel by building up incering and trading divii by acquisitions. Thyssen and Krupp have grading their steel producrupp now converts oneits total crude steel into e profitable special steels, it is the world's largest i. is now a 61-percent der in the aircraft firm te Flugwerke, which splitthe Dutch manufacturer last year. Now that the economy is stagnant, the balance of payments in the red and exports tighter, will industry again rise to the occasion as it did after the first oil shock of 1973? Will it exhibit the same resilience against escalating energy prices and labor costs and the high international value of the mark?

Comparative Hourly Manufacturing-Industry Labor Costs on DM Basis

COUNTRY	TOTAL LABOR COSTS	HOURLY BATE	* FRINGE BENIFICS
Belgium	21.53	12,41	9.12
Sweden		12.95	8.41
The Netherlands	21.18	12.07	9.11
West Germany	21.14	12.46	8.68
Switzerland	20,62	14.22	6.40
Denmark	20,29	16.80	3,49
United States	16.95	12.24	4.71
Italy	15.25	7.33	7.92
Conada ···	15.05	11.71	3.34
France	15.05	8.41	6.64
Japan .	11.77	9.69	2.08
United Kingdom	· 10.20	7.85	2.35
reland	8.98	6.96	2.02
Greece	6.25	4.11	2.14
	•	family of fame little	wintschaft at Kiel University

"fringe banefits include sick and holiday pay, pention provisions, etc. They cover the cost of such banefits to the employer and not, as is the case in livition, for exceepts, state banefits paid out of government revenue.

Krupp also has taken over a fire protection and safety firm. The group, as reported elsewhere, is deeply engaged in energy conversion and conservation.

Conversion Its loss-making shipbuilding subsidiary AG Weser is to be converted into a special-purpose vessel specialist by 1985.

The group achieved an aboveaverage 2.7-percent return on its sales last year, compared with a loss in 1975 and much lower profits since.

But progress is not expected to be maintained this year because of the indifferent economic climate. This applies generally to West German manufacturing industry. Rise in Labor Productivity in Selected Countries mates provide West German			nk,

AVERAGE ANNUA	L %
RISE PER PERIOD	GERMANY	U.S.	FRANCE	U.K.	JAPAN
1961/1964	+4.3	+3.0	+5.0	+2.4	+10.6
1964/1969	+4.7	+1.9	+4.5	+2.5	+9.2
1970/1973	+4.1	+1.4	+4.9	+3.6	+7.9
1974/1979	+3.1	+0.1	+3.2	+0.8	+3.4

هكذا من الأصل

A CENTER IN BERLIN — West Berlin's International Congress Center, surrounded by its exhibition grounds. The center's 80 halls can handle conferences of up to 5,000 participants. The center is important to West Germany's business life.

Outlook: Weathering New Problems

(Continued from Page 7S)

forecast, based on a wide-ranging poll of company views, said an upturn is not in sight for at least another six months, and hinted it might take still longer.

Bonn officials said in January it was the government's job to improve medium-term prospects this year and return the economy to growth. The duration of the recession is of greater eoncern than its depth, they said. But statements repeating the formula "second-half upturn," it is suggested elsewhere, are beginning to sound like wishful thinking. The prospects of continued high interest rates in the wake of U.S. President Ronald Reagan's economic package and tight Bundesbank credit policies will not make the government's task any easier.

Expectations for an upturn at any point this year are based on several conditions, and it is still far from clear that they will be met. These include an end to the international recession and, specifically. no further turmoil in the oil all markets. Energy costs in West p Germany rose 30 percent last year st and the burden remains heavy in 1981 because of the mark's weakthess. From the domestic angle, the major condition in this situation is for moderate wage settlements in the current round in order to avoid a collapse in companies' invest-

Inevitably any discussion of long-term growth prospects returns to the energy outlook. The IFO institute commented that economic growth in West Germany will always be at risk so long as the country maintains its heavy dependence on imported oil. Additional price rises for oil, highly likely, pose the most serious threat to growth, the IFO said. The only solution is a strategy whose emphasis is "Weg vom Oel" 1"away from oil").

Such an approach would provide opportunities for lowering the unemployment level. Investments would be needed in additional energy-saving projects and in ere-in the oil is in West at last year is heavy in ark's weakc angle, the situation is lements in ter to avoid et s' westter a word ter to avoid ter to the to avoid

Turning to the longer-term effects of falling growth in the domestie economy, the RWI insuitute in Essen said a process of permanent de-industrialization had been taking place in West Germany since 1973. An institute economist said declining growth rates had hit the industrial sector exclusively. Industry had reduced the number of its workers by 1.4 million since that year, while new jobs were created almost entirely in the publie sector or branches depending on it. The number of state employees rose 2 million from 1960 to 1978 while the overall number of employees in West Germany was scareely changed.

Contrary to the views of the Kiel

Institute, which viewed the growth of the service sector positively. Essen's RWI sees production of goods as the base of the German economy. "The country cannot pay for its oil imports with services, but only with output from the industry sector," RWI said.

XXI - Fage 15S

So far as other policy solutions to the growth problem, the institutes jointly oppose government measures to stimulate the economy or employment. They favor instead an easing in interest rates. Government subsidies are criticized, and it is noted these have shown stronger growth rates than the GNP, although spending on technology and regional outlay is seen with relative favor. Removal of largely bureaucratic obstacles to investment in energy, communications, transport and housing is urged as a means of relieving unemployment. But these and other proposals

But these and other proposals cannot dispel the doubts about a "second-balf upturn" and growth prospects beyond. West Germans may have to wait a while for the outlook to become more cheering.

the current round in order to avoid a collapse in companies' investment planning. Inevitably any discussion of long-term growth prospects returns to the energy outlook. The IFO institute commented that economic growth in West Germany will always be at risk so long as the

AIN ISK XCITIN

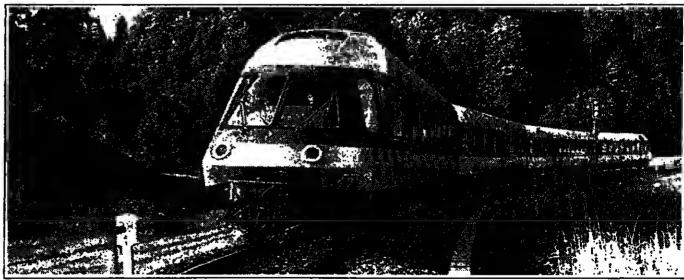

»...the daily which just about every German business executive feels he must read.« Financial Times, London

• • • • •

Coverage
Title	Federal Republic of Germany
rankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung andelsblatt	58% 46%
le Welt	29%

Source: European Businessman Readership Survey 1980 by Research Services Ltd., sponsored by Financial Times · Berlingske Tidende · Business Week · Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung · Harvard Business Review · International Management.

For your trade finance, Hypo-Bank royal client service travels far and wide.

Companies active in international trade require a bank willing to go to great lengths to provide the scope and quality of services needed to compete effectively. Hypo-Bank is such a bank. Documentary credits, letters of credit, buyers' and sellers' credits, forfailing, project financing – these are just examples of the comprehensive service potential of one of Germany's largest universal banks with consolidated assets of more than DM 72 billion.

But more than that, we have a service tradition to live up to. A reputation for royal client treatment dating back to 1835 when we were established in Munich by King Ludwig I of Bavaria.

Through our network of subsidiaries (including Luxembourg), branches in London and New York, representative offices, affiliates, partnership in ABECOR, and a mobile team of banking professionals, we offer services worldwide.

For a fast introduction to Hypo-Bank's llexible approach to international banking get in touch with us at: Theatinerstrasse 11 D-8000 Munich 2 Tel.: (089) 2366-1 Tx: 05286525-27

. Modern Banking in the finest Royal Tradition

Page 16S - XXII

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, APRIL, 1981

Weapons Industry: A Reputation for Quality

BONN — "If we don't sell them, someone else will. So what is the point to a ban and our 'holier than thou' attitude?"

The products are modern, sophisticated military weapons tanks, armored vehicles, howitzers. submarines, frigates, combat air-craft, helicopters. West German industry now produces about 20 billion Deutsche marks worth of them a year.

And the comment is one heard with mounting frequency in those government and industry circles keenly conscious of the conun-drum that West German military hardware is in global demand because of its reputation for technical excellence, but is under a selfimposed export restriction.

tanks and armored vehicles. There is, first of all, Saudi Arabia's tentative request for some 300 Leopard 11 tanks from Krauss-Maffei and possibly up to 2,000 other armored track vehicles. This was followed by a Malaysian inquiry last Janu-ary regarding the purchase of 103 Marder type personnel carriers and 530 Condor armored cars from Thyssen-Henschel. In addi-tion, Chile has placed an order for two small submarines. The decision to sell is up to Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's and Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Indeed, it is hard to find another

To sell or not to sell, that is a Genscher's left-liberal coalition issue hereabouts that crosses as government of Social and Free question that has become acute in the spring of 1981, largely because Democrats (SPD and FDP). The of an interest on the part of a numexport of arms is strictly regulated by constitutional restraints and the ber of countries in West German 1961 weapons export law; amend-ed in 1971 and 1978.

The government is reappraising those restrictions, largely because of the Saudi Arabian request. In doing so it is being forced to tread gingerly through a political and economic minefield.

Opponents and proponents of a relaxation of Bonn's self-imposed export restrictions are to be found not only in the SPD and FDP but many party and interest-group lines, or one where the arguments being proffered pro and con are quite as emotional and pregnant with far-reaching diplomatic, geopolitical and economic ramifications.

Postwar Sensitivity

The ban is the result of postwar sensitivity to Germany's role as the chief aggressor in two world wars and the reputation of German industrialists as "merchants of

The 1961 law is one of the world's most restrictive measures dealing with the sale of weapons to foreign countries and areas of tension. For all practical purposes -

though there have been some notable exceptions of late - it limits the export of West German military hardware to other NATO countries and nations that are clearly allies, such as Australia and Japan.

But when it was enacted, it was a moot law. for West Germany no longer had an arms industry after wartime destruction and postwar dismantling.

At the time, the Bundeswehr. Bonn's new army, was a scant six years old and, just as today, had no raison d'etre other than as an no raison o cire other than as an integrated adjunct of NATO. Orig-inally it had been equipped with surplus hardware from U.S., British and French arsenals. When the time came to modernize and re-place that first generation of weapons, arrangements were made to outfit the Bundeswehr primarily with arms and weapons systems assembled and produced locally on Allied franchise and license. The most memorable example was the F-104 Starfighter, more than oue-fourth of which have crashed since local production of the plane began in the early 1960s.

Lingering Fear

The fear of Germany's once mighty war machine and military industrial complex lingered in the minds of many, not merely in Washington, London and Paris, but also in Bonn. They wanted a "yes, but" army - a force that would alleviate the Western defense burden but one that could never again become an instrument to threaten or break the peace. Quietly and step-by-step, however, that army developed into the most effective in Western Europe, and along with the transformation came the gradual change in the West German arms industry. The franchise and license agreemenus turned into joint ventures and cooperative projects with French and British industry. The West German manufacturers began assuming the leading roles in the various consortiums, and ultimately they struck out on their own with competitive designs and development projects.

To be sure, by international comparisons, the West German arms industry is still a gnome. As a weapons smithy, the Federal Republic today ranks fifth in the world — behind the U.S., the Sovi-et Union, France and Britain and the gap between fourth and fifth place is enormous. A scant 300,000 people — little more than one percent of the total labor force — are employed in arms manufacturing of any kind, and the industry's sales volume, including exports, accounts for but 1.3 percent of the gross national product.

Even the giants in the field are relatively small by international contracts account for only a frac-1.4 million level - there is the contion of their activity. tention that more exports would case the strain on the West Ger-Leaders in Field man military budget. The Bun-The two largest in terms of total sales derived from arms producdeswehr could reduce the per-unit price of new weapons and systems. tion are Siemens and AEG-Tele-Leverage of Power funken, both makers of radar equipment, aircraft and ship navi-Moreover, it has been suggested, arms trading would provide a legational systems and firing control verage of power that would enable Bonn to maintain internatinal devices. But for both, defense work represents less than 10 percent of credibility and wield global influ-ence beyond its role in NATO or sales volume. Next comes the aerospace conglomerate of MBB-VFW. makers of military aircraft, heli-copters and missiles, for whom arms making is a DM2-billion business, representing 60 percent its position as an "economic gi-The counterarguments are no less familiar. They range from the historical and moral consideraf gross volu tions steeped in Germany's past to Krauss-Maffei, maker of the Leopard and Gepard tanks; Rheinmetall, the munitions and the argument that enlarging the arms industry's capacities will cannon manufacturer, and Momerely create a growing, self-pertoren-Turbinen-Union, producer petuating industrial force that ultimately would dictate foreign poliof aircraft, tank and ship engines all have sales of less than DMI bilcy decisions. The prospect of creatlion each. ing jobs, it has been argued, is ap-But such comparisons underpealing. The danger of layoffs in state the actual worth and poten-tial of the West German arms in-for defense and policy needs is not.

dustry, whose reputation for tech-nical excellence and systems performance more than compensates for what it may lack in size. Like few others, West German weapons today are internationally popular and in demand. The Leopard I tank, regarded as "the best in the West," is now being superseded by the even houer Leopard II, which is said to out-perform all currently deployed Soviet armor, including the awesome T-72, as well as the new main battle tanks being developed by the United States and Britain. Its smooth-bore 120-mm gun, made by Rheinmetall and accepted for purchase by the U.S. Army for in-stallation on the U.S. XM-1 tank, is judged to be the world's most

Top Fighter Plane

There is the new supersonic, multipurpose Tornado jet, a joint British-Italian-West German design, most of it German, which is now going on the line to replace the Luitwaffe's Starfighters and Phantoms.

Two anti-tank missiles, code-named Milan and Hot, and an anti-tank system called Roland, worth of arms exports. Some 40 percent of the equipment went to non-NATO countries, primarily Australia, New Zealand, Japan. Switzerland and Sweden. are considered the most advanced and sophisticated in the world. They are a joint development by France's Aerospatiale and Mu-nich's Messerschmitt-Boelkowbarrassing cases of arms being ex-ported via third-country channels Blohm (MBB). in apparent violation of the gov-

From helicopters to scout cars, ernment's intents, of wespons going to areas of tension such as Turkey and Greece because they from howitzers to rifles and sub-machine guns, West German weaponry now is synonymous with are NATO allies, and to areas that technical perfection and high perbecame tense. formance, though none of the ment agreed to the sale of two small submarines to Argentina by hardware has been tested in battle. But given the Bundeswehr's size, rivalries within NATO, and other the Thyssen congiomerate's North factors, there are natural market Sea Yards. limitations to this burgconing industry, heightened by Boan's self-A year later, Argentina was on the verge of war with Chile be-cause of the Beagle Channel disimposed restrictions on export. Pressure to lift or modify those restrictions is hardly new, and the pute. Now Bonn is under pressure arguments put forth by propoto approve export of two subma-rines to Chile to preserve a balance nents are familiar. Besides creating and preserving in the area, despite strong domesjobs - a weighty suggestion at a is at the insignificant thus far. Wh Thus far, over the years, the counterarguments have prevailed. They were bolstered by the legal weapons account for 3 to 4 pe of U.S. and Soviet annual exand more than I percer restraints and Article 26 of the France's and Britain's, in West German constitution, which Germany they represent a prohibits acts "tending to disturb two-tenths of one percent. peaceful relations between "Dations" and "preparation for ag-gressive war," as well as the "man-Sand Request ulacturing, transport or marketing of weapons," except by govern-ment permission.

What has brought the ent tentative pequest from Saudi-

Not only is Saudi Arabia a link in Middle East security. is a major creditor of West G ay and supplies nearly 30 pe of West Germany's oil. F and the People's Republic of Chi-na, have been turned down, much nents, among them Mr. So, and Mr. Genscher, argue that to the chagrin of the West German Which is not to say, however, that West Germany has not exder the circumstances, the § are entitled to "special cons Between 1975 and 1979, accord-ing to Stockholm's International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI). Those opposed to a deal tend that it would not only Israel, a country to which Germany, for reasons of the caust, has a "special obliga" but that it would open and the foreign, defense, coonom-ics, finance and interior ministers) floodgates to "special cons tion" for potential customer ultimately undermine the e policy.

Opposition is by no means ed to the militant left wing w Mr. Schmidt's own party. I FDP there is also a vociferou by, being speacheaded by not than Wolfgang Mischnick, the ty's floor leader in the bland Surprisingly, within CDU/CSU no, there is a s Isction opposed to relating y and expanding the atmit trade Although I.G. Metall, the West German steel and workers using is unequiv opposed to a relaxation of t strictions or to using arms or tion as a means to secure or .more jobs, a "working gross shop-stewards from amore facturing plants has been to to lobby for the Saudi dest. change in policy, in sharp c diction to the views of the leadership.

Divided Opinious

Even in industry there are

Cologne Trade Fairs. Perfect service - that's our business.

A NATION'S TECHNOLOGY ON DISPLAY - A view of the Krapp Pavilion at it Hannover Fair. The giant Krapp concern is one of the leaders in West German technolog

Potential Customers

chuding Iran under the late shah

the Bonn government's security council (made up of the chancellor approved nearly DM6 billion

There have also been some em-

Thus, in 1977, the Bonn govern-

Final User Sales

arms industry.

ported at all,

Various potential customers, in-both countries. Many West German arms also Italian franchise manufacturer of there, sold 210 of them to Libya.

ons being re-exported.

ed opinions Thus, Otto Wolff von crongen, the president of the reached Third World countries, some of them in deep conflict with neighbors, because Bour has been man Chamber of Industry Commerce, cautioned reunable to enforce the "final user" against using arms-manufac clause that must be written into all as an economic stimulant contracts to ensure against weapmeans to improve the employ situation and West Germany There are no limits, for example port profiles. on the sale of arms to Italy. But On the other hand, Mr. Italy, not bound by West Germastressed that a more flexible ny's strict rules, can re-export the pretation of the law and the hardware to the Middle East or the area of tension" is in order. Gulf. In 1978, for example, the Whether that re-interpre and reassessment of policy w the Leopard tank, called the Lion possible in the near future doubtful, however.

"For the time being," Schmidt said recently, "there the prospect of obtaining a m Bonn also has no control over the export of weapons by West Germany's partners in joint ven-tures and consortiums. Thus, two ty or consensus for a char years ago, Euromissile, the jointlypolicy, not to even mention 2 owned subsidiary of MBB and Aerospatiale, sold 1,000 Milan and scale agreement with Saudi bia

Hot anti-tank missiles to Syria. Yet, the under-the-table and ex-But if and when Bonn change its position, it will fi tra-legal deals notwithstanding dearth of customers waiting West Germany's share of internadoor. tional arms selling has remained

Information Mosse- und Ausstellungs-Ges.m b H. Koln, P.O. Box 210 760, O-5000 Koln 21

∆ Köln Messe

Cologne has optimum transport connections:

E. g. 995 passenger trains daily, 180 of which are international (16 TEE trains, 48 intercity trains). 10 motorways connect Cologne to Europe.

32 goods stations, including one of the largest container stations in Germany: 6 harbours; an international drive-in airport, second in Germany for goods traffic.

Of the 58 large cities in the Federal Republic 24 are within a radius of 80 km from Cologne.

حكذا من الاجل

More reliable and more economical energy for Cologne.

55 thousand million tons of brown coal ere deposited before the gates of Cologne. The city's natural gas and oil supply is directly connected to the large pipelines.

Cologne has an unusually manifold and healthy economic structure.

Centre of industry, banking and insurance. Location of 40,000 industrial establishments. Trade fair centre: 16 international trade fairs and exhibitions. Broadcasting centre: 4 broadcasting companies.

Cologne is also a shopping centre for 4 million people: 8,430 retail shops.

Cologne has a rich manpower potential

Nearly all professions are represented. At the moment approximately 32,000 industrial training places and almost 44,000 students.

And – Cologne lays high value on recreation.

Culture is emphasized: e.g. 18 museums and 12 theatres. Sports facilities, extensive public parks and gardens as well as. nearby recreation areas with exponsive woods and lakes.

Cologne offers developed, easily accessible property.

In 1979, alone through the Office for Promotion of Trade and Industry, 356,000 sq. metres of industrial and commercial areas was procured for 99 companies. That is the best proof of the attractiveness of Cologne's position.

Secure the advantages of Cologne's position for you too

ise send us your information broc

Key porition Cologne

Stadt Köln Amt für Wirtschaftsförderung Am Hof 52, D-5000 Köln 1 Tel. 0221/221-3781 Telex 08 882 988 dost d

The benefits had been immediate and massive, and they were by no means limited to an upsurge in the trade with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe that is so vital to the West German economy.

More significantly, there had been steady progress in improved access to East Germany and West Berlin tension between the two countries

Across the Wall

million visits by West Germans to

East Germany, three million of those by West Berliners to East

Berlin, access to which had been virtually barred for a decade since the building of the wall in 1961.

Thanks to the accords, people liv-ing in towns and villages along the border were able, for the first time since the 1950s, to travel with few formalities to see their kin and friends in the hamlets just on the other side. Private phone calls between the two parts of Germany.

thanks to the installation of new lines, have shot up from a few hundred thousand annually a decade ago to more than 17 million in 1980.

Moreover, travel on the four main land routes to West Berlin

There were other potendal benebecame virtually routine.

Thus, in 1979 there were eight having boycould the Moscov

Olympics and for contributing to a new arms spiral by favoring the more conciliatory, leaving the pursue, especially in the light of the new U.S. administration's more tough-minded position.

At present, Bonn's Ostpolitik

What it demonstrates is that

Bonn's freedom of action is in fact rather clearly and sharply circum-scribed by Washington's and Mos-cow's own interests. The more relations between the superpowers become tense and concentrate on security and military aspects, the less opportunity West Germany, East

Germany and the other East European countries have to pursue their viet hloc, and Bonn's military and security policies will be determined by developments in the U.S.-Soviet

It is a fact the Schmidt-Genscher government is now starting to real-appears to be in disarray and virtunonexistent.

own policy goals.

relations.

Bonn's Role In the NATO Alliance

By Lothar Ruchl

anger

1 a 17 - 1

Seamer .

Street Attainants

1=44 12. 18

A. Stranger

fain - 1

2010 10-10-

±0;÷ ,

r S

ارتر میں استی

styn in t

Sugar

k 🛪

fin in a

1. ANA 11-

inter the s

Sec. Sec. 1 .

.

4-5 - -

÷.....

S. . . .

L Mark L. C. Mark

materia de la compañía de la compañía

Sec. Sec. .

Ser. .

1

Sec. 1.

ોત્સ

100

3-14

14.00

ino n

Selection of the 257

 $\mathcal{T}_{1,1} \to \dots \to \mathcal{T}_{n-1}$

ten in

 $\max_{i \in \mathcal{I}} || i \in \mathcal{I}_{i}$

والمتحدث والمحمدتها

100 (m. 176)

÷ .

 $\mathcal{J}_{\mathrm{eff}} = \{ 1, \dots, n\}$

1.27 1.11

x 47. - C. د ور به

1. 1. 1.

و و المعالم

100 C

- 1

.

تواحد ا

~~~ C

10000

· · · ·

Sec. and i e e e

deres.

.

3 ····

_____

garante mana

50 (A) 1. 1.

يد الوكة فعها

🖛 🔬 🖓 📩

5 .

1

1420 - 20<sup>-2</sup>

in a star with

ISSELS --- When West Germany was re-armed by mntual if subled consent in 1955 in order to bolster Western defenses . and shield France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Brit-ters obvious that the internal equation of the North Atlantic

Deganization would gradually change. Deganization would gradually change. Sentence of the new ally grew and Sentency because one of the three major partners — with Pand Britain -- in all decisions for the defense of central But Britain and France remained the privileged parmers nited States in European affairs, the alliance and the her West German governments nor public opinion aspired inence, and the Federal Republic was comfortably settling in protected partner of obvious importance but no great ambifor leadership. Bonn's policies were directed at the goal of lity" within the Western alliance and "partnership without mination." At the same time the unsolved "German quesput the Federal Republic in an incomparable situation of are to pressure. The political situation matched the geonical situation: West Germany was the central confrontation between East and West in Europe - in political as well as in ry terms. West Germany today remains the main garrison, ory of the NATO "shield forces" and deployment area for

Behind all Western policy of three ### decades: The 'German Problem'

ie unique situation associated with the West German military ibution to NATO and the international importance of the German industrial economy brought about the social relahip between the United States and the Federal Republic as 'as the French-German "entente cordiale" of the 1960s; both become basic features of the European situation and of the al make-up of the North Atlantic alliance.

An Impossible Goal

anwhile, all Western policies have had to be shaped in accor-e with the insoluble "German problem," consisting of the mate claim of the German nation to national reunification he impossibility for the West to reach this goal in the face of enting Eastern resistance. The contradiction in Western poliward the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe inherent in the ssion of West Germany to NATO on equal terms inhibited unduct of relations with the East. There had been little enthuin Western Europe for German reunification at the best of ; but when it became apparent in the mid-1960s that the nan issue stood between Europe and detente, the pressure on Germany began to build in the West as well.

change took place in West Germany's situation: From a art defender of the West, holding the front line and blocking dvance of Soviet political penetration toward the West, the ral Republic was becoming an obstacle for accommodation the East. Berlin stood out not only as a testament to the 's commitment to freedom in the midst of Soviet-occupied -al Europe but as the symbol of Western vulnerability.

the same time the German military contribution to the deof Western Europe increased to unwieldy proportions. In -an and Polish eyes the Federal Republic had grown into the not only of a major American ally in Europe and a dominant ter in Western Europe's economic community - as well as in I trade and the international industrial-technological commu-- but into the dimensions of a new military-industrial power re center of Europe, It was natural for West Germany to me the object of Eastern political pressures, offers and milithreats.

ter Willy Brandt foreign minist . 1967 then unnungsgefaelle or "detente on degrading levels." He put Germany on the highest level of tension with the East and idered it most directly exposed to Soviet pressures and mili-threats, then sought to correct this situation in favor of panpean and German security within the framework of the Westlliance.

East-West Relations: Any Changes Are Quickly Felt

BONN - Any change in the elimate of the East-West con-Oder-Neisse frontier and the treaty with Warsaw, and the basic agreeflict immediately and profoundly ment with East Germany, tantaaffects the international position mount to diplomatic recognition, and foreign policy of the Federal which opened the way for both Bonn's and East Berlin's admis-Republic. sion to the United Nations.

That is how a West German historian described the difficulties experienced by the administrations of Konrad Adenauer and Ludwig Erhard in the 1960s when their own hard-lining attitudes stood in the way of the incipient mood of detente that was starting to thaw the Cold War between Washington and Moscow.

It was a time when Bonn's infor West Germans visiting friends transigence and adherence to the positions and slogan-like formulas and relatives. Much of the former of the Truman and Eisenhower had been relaxed and the "Berlin eras became an increasing irritant problem" had been defused. and foreign policy obstacle to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Reverse of Axiom Today the axiom still applies,

but in reverse As tension has mounted between Washington and Moscow, it is Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's and foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher's continuing pursuit of Ostpolitik and detente that is a source of irritation to Bonn's main allies — the U.S., France and Britain, Just as Adenauer and Erhard were maneuvering themselves into foreign policy isolation in the 1960s, so the Schmidt-Genscher coalition of Social and Free Democrats (SPD and FDP) now seems in danger of political exclusion form the mainstream of Western policy today - unless that policy change It is like saying that when U.S.-Soviet relations catch cold, regard-less of who is to blame, Bonn fits that went beyond the burnan factor. The renewed people-to-people contacts, so the Brandt-Scheel Ostpolitik had envisioned, would comes down with pneumonia.

And it is a fact of life to which the Schmidt-Genscher government has been awakening slowly and reluctantly.

'Political Dwarf'

What is happening today recon-firms in fact what Bonn in the past has either claimed or lamented, depending on the situation. Namely, that West Germany is "an eco-nomic giant, but a political dwarf."

Popular legends notwithstanding, Bonn's pursuit of Ostpolitik and improved ties with East Germany, the countries of Eastern Europe and even the Soviet Union itself were not the driving force behind but the consequence and beneficiary of the Nixon-Kissinger policy of detente....

The pursuit of that policy in a changed global situation has be come increasingly difficult - and not only for Bonn but for the East European countries as well. They, too, cannot conduct a bilateral "narrow gauge" policy of im-proved relations and "peaceful co-existence" if Moscow bas placed obstacles on the wider-track

Bonn's Ostpolitik now appears to be in disarray ... Bonn's freedom of action is rather clearly and sharply circumscribed by Washington's and Moscow's interests. The more superpower relations become tense, the less opportunity West Germany, East Germany and the other East European countries have to pursue lead to ultimate German reunification, for, according to its grand de-sign, recognition of two German states existing peacefully would help keep alive the idea of one German nation and people. A reversion to a Cold War atmosphere would jeopardize all of this. Thus, when the tension between Moscow and Washington became critical early last year, the Schmidt-Genscher government, hoping to salvage what it could of detente, dug in its heels to avoid being sucked into the whirlpool.

Reaction Capital

But much to its dismay, and no doubt Mr. Schmidt's surprise, Bonn soon realized it was still what it had been in the 1950s and '60s: a reaction instead of an action capital. Various East European officials planning to visit West Germany have no policy at all.

suddenly canceled their trips or postponed them indefinitely, ap-parently on instructions from Moscow. Mr. Schmidt's own visits to the Soviet Union and East Germany were shelved, at least for a while It was not until late June that the chancellor finally met with President Brezhnev, and only after France's Valery Giscard d'Estaing had already done so and discovered, as did Mr. Schmidt, that the Russians were not about to change their policy on Afghanistan.

Though there were no concrete results, the Schmidt-Brezhnev summit did, however, underscore the chancellor's determination to keep open the lines of communication, especially at a time when the United States, immobilized by the Iran hostage crisis and the primary election campaigns, seemed to

For a while last summer it looked as if West Germany's Ostpolitik, though less dynamic, might get back on the track. An August summit with Po-land's Edward Gierek was planned development and stationing of Cruise missiles in Western Europe. Not since the building of the in Bonn, to be followed a week lat-Berlin Wall in 1961 had there been er by a historic first meeting with East Germany's Erich Honecker tones as hawkishly strident from the East German leadership. Then, just as surprising, in Janu-ary and February the tone became near East Berlin.

هكذا من الأصل

But then came the Polish strikes. Mr. Gierek canceled his visit and two weeks later was out of power. Bonn government perhaps even more confused over what course to Mr. Schmidt had played a key role in inducing a consortium of West German hanks to give Poland another $680 million loan. one-third of it backed by West German government guarantees.

Then the mounting Polish crises forced Mr. Schmidt to cancel his planned trip to East Germany. And suddenly, in October East-West German relations went into a freeze when East Berlin quadrupled - to 25 Deutsche marks a day - the entrance fee that West Germans and West Berliners must pay to visit their friends and relatives in East Germany. Visits dropped off by 60 percent and have remained at that lower level In this game, Bonn is perhaps the least free, if only because of the Mr. Honecker's reasons for the rate increase were obvious: to isovulnerability of West Berlin, deep late East Germany, 80 percent of within Communist territory and whose citizens watch West Gerdependent on Allied guarantees man television daily, from "sub-versive" ideas that might spread and protection. Thus, increasingly in the months to come, Bonn's Ostpolitik, includ-ing its important trade with the Sothe "Polish disease."

By late fall and early winter the East-West freeze had hit Germany full force. Indeed, with East Berlin leading the propaganda campaign, Bonn was singled out for interfering in Poland's internal affairs and encouraging "anti-Socialist forces" there, for fomenting the anti-Communist resistance in Afghanistan, # their own policy goals.

Basis for German Policy

e success of this policy of the 1969-1975 period is the basis Il West German policy in Europe and within the NATO ace: the German partner ceased to be a political obstacle to West detente and a liability for Western security policies, gained international influence as well as freedom from pres-is on the basis of this particular West German approach to ccurity and stability of East-West relations that the foundaof the German position in NATO must be regarded. The ral Republic remains the central front-line country of Westurope with the bulk of the ready NATO forces for the comdefense; it is the main deployment area for NATO theater ar forces with short-range weapons and it would become the tost battlefield of Europe in case of war. is only natural that West German policy toward the cast is cupied with security. West Germany is in favor of a strong se with unbroken cover by escalatory means of deterrence on vestern side, providing for the solidarity, risk-sharing and cal-strategic unity of the North Atlantic alliance, and in faf arms control and mutual security arrangements between O and the Warsaw Pact.

is double approach governs West German alliance and for-policy. It is expressed in the active and lasting German interpolicies and strategies of equilibrium or the "balance of s." Another aspect of this approach is restraint in dealing international crises and a concern for reliability and accoun-ty of national policies within the alliance and vis a vis other ries, in particular those of the Warsaw Pact. The Federal blic has always fulfilled its commitments to NATO, even economic difficulties have put severe strain on the means.

Sizable Contribution

present the German contribution to NATO is 50 percent of Ad and ground-based anti-air defense forces, 30 percent of tional combat aircraft, 70 percent of the naval forces and ercent of the land-based naval air force assets in the Baltic The German army provides 36 full-strength NATO standard at brigades and 12 divisional combat support formations as s addidonal combat support and supply units for three anny plus territorial forces and equipment for a wartime army of than one million men who can be mobilized and ready for vment within three days.

addition to the allied forces stationed on German territory, rations are under way - and under negotiation with the d States — to provide infrastructure, transport facilities and yment areas for another U.S. army corps and more U.S. air at squadrons, to be deployed from the United States as rapid accements. This German "host nation support" will be a furlirect contribution for the allied defense of Western Europe e of need. German participation in the NATO programs for se improvement and modernization of theater nuclear forces ised not only on financial support and investment in modern rment, training, combat stocks and military organization, but on the additional use of West German territory by allied and weapons land weapons.

this context, particular significance is attached to the Gerpart in the deployment of new American medium-range oudelivery systems under the December 1979 NATO program. ederal Republic would receive a major part of the envisaged capons in addition to the ouclear arms already in Germany. I have to bear the brunt of Soviet pressure and political ulties arising from the decision, if the envisaged arms control fails.

rman attitudes in the alliance as in East-West relations in se will remain measured, with adequate contributions to both se and arms control on the basis of balanced options to ize security. German foreign policy will continue to work d a reduction of tension and risk of conflict, but it will n firmly attatched to the North Atlantic alliance and the ton defense of Western Europe, even under the constraints iternational economic situation has begun to place on deexpenditures and other public spending.

Lothar Ruchi is a former correspondent in Brussels for the DF West German television network.

"trunk line." As one West German diplomatic source pats it: "The microclimate is dependent on what we call the Grosswetterlage - the overall climate."

Realities Highlighted

The realities of this were never more apparent than during the past 14 months or so — since the Polish crises and Ronald Reagan's inauguration.

After the Soviet intervendon in Kabul, the Schmidt government attempted to go it alone by pursu-ing a policy of "divisible detente." The chancellor not only feit that Ostpolitik could still be salvaged, despite the shambles of U.S.-Soviet relations, but he was ontspoken in his criocism of Jimmy Carter's unsteady and moralistic stance toward Moscow.

Two concepts dominated think-ing in Bonn. Somehow the doors had to be kept open and the dia-logue kept going with the Soviet Union. Second, there was no political clout or currency to be won in a policy of "punishing the Krem-lin" with trade embargoes or boycotting the Olympic Games. Thus Chancellor Schmidt, shortly after the Afghan invasion, announced his intentions to meet as planned with both Leonid Bre-zhnev and East Germany's Erich Honecker in 1980.

The motivations were clear. There was, first of all, the domestic political pressure, exacerbated by an upcoming election, to pursue a policy that had become virtually an article of faith since its inception in 1970. More important, however, were West Germany's special situation and the tangible benefits that detente and Ostpolitik have brought in the intervening decade.

A Grim Border

After all, it shares its borders with two Warsaw Pact countries that bristle with Soviet troops and military hardware, and that fronder is grimly fortified. Moreover, there is the complication of Bonn's special relationship to Communist East Germany and the precatious position of West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside East German territory. It is a fact of life that cannot be overlooked or ignored. West Germany is the front line.

But Ostpolitik, as conceived by Mr. Schmidt's and Mr. Genscher's predecessors — Willy Brandt and Walter Scheel — had made the fact a bit less gruesome and life at the front more bearable for all conœrned

Its key elements had been the Bonn-Moscow nonaggression treary, the Four Power agreement on Berlin, de facto recognition of the

Headquarters: P Ú Box 1128, D-4000 Dússelduri 1, Tel (211) 82.60 Frankfurt Office Tel (611) 25791

Bianches, London, Tel 638 6141, New York, Tel 754-9600, Tokyo, Tel 216-0581 Subsidiaties' WestLB International S.A. Luxembourg, Tel: 447411; WestLB Asia Limited. Hong Kong, Tei 5-259206 Representative Offices Latin-America Office New York, Tel. 754-9620. Rio de Janeiro. Tel 2624821: Toronto, Tel 8691085, Tokyo, Tel 213-1811, Melbourne, Tel 6541655 Participations Banque Franco-Allemande S.A., Paris, Tel. 5630109, Banco da Sahia Investimentos S.A., Rio de Janeiro,

WestLB derives its prowess in international finance from multiple sources.

Large-scale financing calls for a bank with all the credentials and expertise needed to ensure a smooth, tiating and organizing worldcompetitive functioning of any major money raising operation.

WestLB's approach in iniwide syndicates, its own resources, international flexibility and well-balanced sources of funds make the Bank, one of Germany's top three international institutions – a solid wholesale financing partner.

Westdeutsche Landesbank

A strong force in wholesale banking

Page 18S - XXIV

EEC and Its Goal of Integration

(Continued from Page 7S) period of growing economic difficulties and even serious risks to the foreign exchange deficit, and their economic and social stability. During this first really critical period since 1974 the West Gerperiod since 1974 the West Ger-man economy has withstood the dicated a dramatic evolution, but pressures of recession and infla-tion rather well — much better ued and well-balanced effort to inthan the French, British, Italian and Belgian economies, a little bet-ter than the Dutch, and a little less well than the Swiss. By and large, in spite of all net losses in production, employment, purchase value of the mark and capital, West Germany has done not too badly. In crisis as in normal times the West German national economy has proven itself resiliant, adaptable and flexible. But strength, like energy, is a capital sum; if no new resources are added the reserves are consumed and the capital is reduced

At the beginning of 1981 the West German economy started the annual cycle with a net reduction of 2 percentage points from 1980 public funds for financing have be-come scarce and are close to ex-haustion in the European Commu-

DEMAG

the public debt at home and abroad had been considerably increase exports in net value under the prevailing conditions and to overcome the negative trend in terms of trade and in capital investments had become evident. The general condition of West-era Europe is more serious than that of the West German economy, in spite of the German deficiencies and lack of energy resources. The EC policies have been reduced to internal transfers of cash for compensation and the agricultural policy has become the critical factor for the internal balance of the community and its budget, since the latter is largely dependent on the results of agricultural activities.

As in the Federal Republic itself, public funds for financing have be-come scarce and are close to ex-of West German currency reserves nity during 1979-80. The votes on had been lost in order to finance the budget, taken by the European Parliament, have added to the certain risk of deficits in 1981, that cannot be covered unless the reveoue from the purchase tax of the added value [T.V.A.] can be raised by an increase beyond 1 percent for the contribution to the EC budget funds. Like the national governments, the EC is lacking ways and means permanently, which means that European economic policies cannot be financed as before with West Germany the main financier of the Community Only last year the German contributioo to the interim solutioo of Britisb net payments into the EC fund, covering a billion DM, pre-vented a major and possibly divi-sive financial crisis. The Federal Republic oo longer has the means to repeat such assistance. The deterioration of the mark's exchange value with the dollar and pound reduces the margin of operational maneuver for German monetary and economic policies. The mounting cost of foreign energy further accentuated both the dependency on world trade and on constructive cooperation within the Common Market. The German partner has always been the foremost defender of supra-national interest and mutual assistance within the EC as well as the champion for free trade in the world and open import markets in Europe. This traditional German stand will be reinforced to combat protectionist tendencies toward international competition.

MANNESMANN

Policy on EC

West German policies in West-ern Europe sought to keep the EC open both to oew adherents - in the past to Britaio and Ireland, Denmark, Norway and Greece, at for political and commercial reasons. The difficult relationship be-tween Western Europe, North America, Japan and the Pacific Anglo-Saxon countries is considered crucial in Germany for the future of the world economy as is cooperation with the developing and oil-producing countries.

Export Finance Tool: International Leasing

MAINZ - International trade has grown enormously with the advent of modern communications systems and more liberal world trade conditions. Export financing has consequently become an increasingly important factor in the mind of sales managers. And one way to overcome the problems of export financing is international leasing.

DAL-International Leasing in Mainz has full and partial subsidiaries in many European countries, which makes the actual appli-cation of international plant leasing simple, according to DAL head Heinz Ohlenforst.

Exporters are provided with a portfolio that lists the plant they have on offer, technical details, prices in the currency of the im-porter and information in the relevant language. Ohlenforst explained that this working document takes all relevant fiscal and legal provisions into account, and if the client opts for leasing this means cash on the line for the

In this way, he said, problems involving the strength of competitors, the currency in which the deal is struck, exchange risk cover, the customer's credit rating and his desired repayment period for the loan, can all be al-leviated. But international leasing will not wrn a bad-risk customer into a good one, Ohlenforst warned. "The yardsticks for international leasing are the same as for a oormal loan," be said.

Benefits for the Custon

One of the advantages of the DAL group's methods is that with so many subsidiaries abroad its representatives can discuss financing with customers in their own home terri-tory, Ohlenforst said. There are numerous benefits for the customer. He is not faced with exchange risks on foreign debt, he can make full economical use of the plant hired, his liquidity is not reduced, an investment can be turned into increased productivity in the shortest possible time, the best and most suitable plant can be hired regardless of the country of origin, and finally good money can be turned to immediate good use rather than remaining tied up for years and re-couped only through depreciation, which is subject to crosion via inflation. Exporters, too, are shielded from the vagaries of the exchange markets as well as price fluctuations, and profitability hanced by increased liquidity.

Z:

Slat urto will u 10 da pain frot

ma him tiges V

ba't

To take full advantage of internation artor leasing. Ohlenforst added. several conditionate must be fulfilled. Products should be acer said rately described and of the same specificantin tions for all countries where leasing is of the fered, business should be administered on bu centralized basis, and international leasinnatu should be regarded by the leasing compart to as its prime product.

Ohlenforst said DAL loternational Learnes ing (a subsidiary of Deutsche Anlagen Leaft Bi-ing) operates exclusively in the field of interrite national leasing, its stamping ground beir to h West Germany, France, the Netherland other Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Austr Buand Italy.

This method of operation is preferable fas se loosely connected leasing clubs operating with foreign leasing organizations. Ohler, forst said. The companies involved are inde-G pendent and more concerned with carryin oo their business. loternational leasing, fo them, is usually a peripheral matter thind must be geared to their domestic interests. In't

Machinery, Plant and Systems

Mannesmann Demag, your partner with experience in all matters of mechanical engineering and plant construction. With a broad financial base, world-wide`sales network and a future-oriented research and development programme for new products.

Mannesmann Demag A

Postfach 10 01 41, D-4100 Duisburg 1 Fed. Rep. of Germany

Metallurgical Plant Integrated plant, blast furnaces, steel mills, continuous casters, electrometallurgical plant.

Rolling Mills Rolling mills for beams, sections and wire-rod; strip and sheet mills, strip processing lines.

Pipe Making Plant and machinery for the production of seamless and welded tubes and pipes. Hydraulic presses.

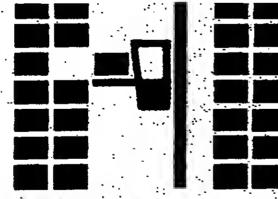

Centifiugal compressors and positive displace-ment machines for air and technical gases

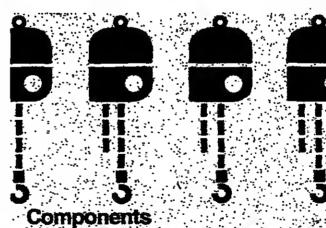

Cranes

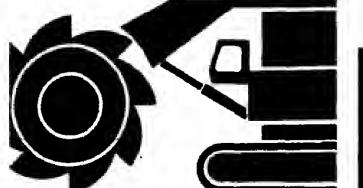

Overhead cranes, slewing cranes and jibs, suspension cranes and track systems, and steel mill cranes.

Distribution Systems Materials handling and warehousing systems, continuous handling equipment, order pickers and rack feeders.

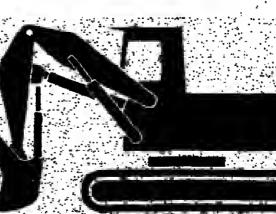

Electric lifting tackle, standard crane components; load lifting attachments, drive and control components.

Bulk Handling Bucket wheel excavators, reclaimers and belt conveyor systems, container handling systems.

Mining Equipment Shaft winding equipment, tunnelling machines for hard and soft rock. Compressed air motors.

Construction Equipment Hydrautic excavators up to 270 trimobile cranes-up to 809 t, read finishers up to 12 m. A second s

Plastics Machinery Machinery and complete systems for injection moulding and extrusion.

Pneumatic Systems Compressors, pneumatic tools, equipment and components for the building trade and industry in general

21 70

Page 19 Thursday, April 2, 1981 * * R

SINESS NEWS BRIEFS mational La

tve Gets Court Approval on CanDel Sale

-----

بالمراقبة

17 . 1 .

2,27 1.11

Sec. 1

10 A .

Se. 4 . . .

$87 yr - -

`=---

E.s.s.C .....

** #.-

99.04 F.S. 1994 - S.S.

341°. . . . . . . .

-----

義 新 / ・ … ・

ب د دا

5.5

.

-

6.62

Se .....

F. 4.

See. 1

413

- - -

1. . .

(?*...

4.4 73.

19.74

stration () ≝in e≹ermonis i i i

Sector

. . . .

- بمبرود الله

inter-

From Agency Dispatcher YORK — St. Joe Minerals said Wednesday that a federal disrt here ruled it may sell its interest in CanDel Oil to Sulpetro anada. Under an agreement with Sulpetro, St. Joe will sell the $460 million, over four-and-a-half times the amount at which it ed the investment on its books, it said.

also advised the court that in the light of its preliminary merger it with Fluor Corp., it has abandoned its previously proposed yuy its own shares and the pursuit of the possibility of liquidatone of the world's biggest engineering and construction compa-l SL Joe announced Tuesday an agreement under which Flour fer $60 a share for SL Joe stock. The terms, totaling nearly $2.9

all for payment in cash and stock. sharply higher than the offer of $45 a share made March 11 by leagram & Sons. St. Joe has been fighting that offer, valued at a $2 billion in cash, as "grossly inadequate." gram spokesman said his company was evaluating the Fluor t. However, sources fright to Saverage constituted whether at. However, sources friendly to Scagram questioned whether d enough capital of its own to buy St. Joe. Fluor is said to have rth of some $500 million and would need $1.2 billion in cash to

Challenges EEC to Make a Case

Reuters . MBOURG - International Business Machines has challenged ity of an EEC statement of objections to some of its business a European Court spokesman said Wednesday, EC Commission accused the company in December of abusing a nt position in the computer market and invited the company to defense by April 30 before passing judgment. ig the accusations detailed against IBM was the inclusion in the computer processors of minimum main memory. But the compathat the Commission did not fully comply with all legal require-ind was questioning actions declared legal in the United States, nuission also effectively wanted IBM to release confidential ion that could be useful to competitors, the company said. The sion has a month to answer IBM's counter-charges.

tti Doubles Profit, Plans Dividend Rise From Agency Dispatches

L. Italy — Olivetti, a leading maker of office equipment, an-Wednesday that its 1980 net income more than doubled to 50.1 re ($48.8 million) from 23.8 billion lire in 1979. ompany said it plans a 40 percent rise in its dividend to 140 lire ) lire a share on both common and preferred stock. On the 101 iew common shares that were issued last July after the compatal increase, the company said it will pay a 70 lire dividend. ver rose 22.1 percent from 1979 to 1.1 trillion line. The compa-solidated debt at the end of 1980 amounted to 318.7 billion line, 0.1 billion lire from a year earlier,

h Columbia Raises Bid for MacMillan

Renters OUVER - British Columbia Resources Investment said its wined Bute Resources subsidiary will increase its bid for 6.2 common shares of MacMillan Bloedel to 56 Canadian dollars cash per share from 46 Canadian dollars. da Mines made an earlier offer of the equivalent of 56 Canadian 1 cash and securities for shares of MacMillan Bloedel.

uese Steel Firms in Brazil Pact

Renters O - Seven Japanese steel firms signed basic agreements to buy 0 million tons Brazilian iron ore a year for 15 years from 1985, a "an for the companies said Wednesday.

re will come from the Carajas mining project according to the nt signed by state mining company, Vale Rio Doce and the firms Steel, Kawasaki Steel, Sumitomo Metal, Nippon Kokan, Kobe isshin Steel and Nakayama Steel. mport guarantee is similar to a recent agreement by Rio Doce to 10 million tons of ore annually to Western European firms. Rio planning to develop the Carajas mine in northern Para state making money. serves are among the largest in the world illion tons, and ice more than 30 million tons a year.

Pension Funds Seen Primed for Stocks

more stimulus the market might expect from this sector. The general feeling once was that any further increase in the percentage of incoming cash

these funds dedicate to stocks

This perception is changing, however, and the reason goes beyond the strong, steady buying interest demonstrated by institutional investors during the past month. The principal explanation lies in a recent revision of Securities and Exchange Commission data on how the pension funds man-aged their cash flows in 1979

Buying Potential

tential for an increased level of net common stock buying by thought at the time and, consequently, a larger remaining po-tential for new purchases.

Analyzing the revised num-bers, Mr. Hauser says net buying of stocks by pension funds in 1979 was about $6.1 billion, rather than the previously re-ported $13 billion. Similarly, thet cash flow, or new money nounced Wednesday.

ployees

Nixdorf ranks second to Siemens in the West German comput-supply-demand forces.

The revisions "snggest a po-and 1980.

was likely to be minor.

available to the funds for all in-NEW YORK - Private penvestments, was downgraded to sion funds stepped up their al-$16.8 billion from $23.7 billion. locations of money for stock investments in 1979 and 1980, Similar reductions were made for 1980's first two quarters. raising questions among stra-tegists about just how much

Better Data

The significance of the changes, Mr. Hauser suggests, is that net stock purchases by pension funds represented only 36.1 percent of cash flow in 1979, instead of 54.9 percent as thought. Purchases were only 15.3 and 48.1 percent of cash flow in the first and second quarters of 1980, rather than 41.7 and 49.1 percent, respec-tively, and were about 34.4 percent of cash flow in last year's third quarter, the latest for which data are available. Mr. Hauser believes the revised SEC figures represent an improvement from the old method of estimating pension fund activity and help close a gap that has appeared between official data and unofficial figures compiled by Computer Directions Advisors Inc. in its Spectrum Service.

this group, in contrast to previ-ously published numbers," says Rudolpb Hauser, investment. One of the biggest surprises in the new SEC data, he says, is strategist at Oppenheimer & Co., in his latest appraisal of that net cash flow approximat-ed $10 billion in last year's third quarter, bringing cash flow for the first nine months In essence, the changes in SEC data portray a less aggres-sive attitude toward stocks in to $19.6 billion, or 17 percent above 1980's total. 1979 and 1980 than was

"Unless, the unusually high cash flow level of the third quarter can be maintained, which we very much doubt, the $3.4 billion of net buying (in the quarter) is not likely to be exceeded in the immediate future, although it could be approached if the percentage in-vested in equities increases, as we expect."

Deutsche Bank Plans Sale Of Nixdorf Stock to Public

From Agency Dispatches centage rate of turnover growth HANOVER — Part or all of Deutsche Bank's 25 percent stake in Nixdorf Computer will be of-fered to the public, with the shares to be listed eventually on West should also be in double figures, it said.

The company said it plans to bold the dividend to 8 DM a share on the 1980 results. German stock exchanges, Deutsche Bank and Nixdorf an-

The Nixdorf family sold a stake to Deutsche Bank in 1979 to raise cash for expansion. The bank said at the time it acquired the stake that it planned to sell it in 1981.

The company decided to sell the shares to the bank after talks with er industry and is one of the few European companies in the sector Volkswagenwerk fell through. The computer company had an the failure of those negotiations to VW's insistence that it be allowed the Hanover Trade Fair, said the share listing will take place in the next three years. The rest of Nixto purchase 50 percent or more of dorf's capital of 140 million Nixdorf's capital. Nixdorf described a stock ex-Deustche marks is owned by the change listing as a logical move. The company said it is not current-Nixdorf family and company emly considering a partner m the technology field, but added that Nixdorf also disclosed said that recorded an after-tax profit of the plan to list its stock would make such a step easier should that option become desirable. In its statement, Deutsche Bank rated Nixdon's prospects as posi-tive. Its exports performance has been cited by analysis as one reaelhard Annnounces Plan for Split-Up son for its strong showings; with it ranked as the largest foreign supwas considering a spinoff propos-al. Since then, the stock has ad-vanced. Before trading was halted plier of computers into the United States. Figures reported in February in mid-afternoon Tnesday, pendshowed about half of Nixdorf' ing the announcement, the shares sales are in West Germany, with 18 percent in the United States. were ahead $1, at $51.75 a share. Auglo-American Major Holder The rest were in other European The largest single shareholder in Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals countries. The company has also had success with its concept of decentralis Minerals & Resources Corp. ized equipment - the develop-ment of smaller computer systems Ltd., which owns 27.2 percent of the New York concern. Known as nd terminals that plug into large ain-frame computers.

NYSE Moves Kuwait Asks for Oil Premiums

Higher as Rates Fall From Agency Dispatches

NEW YORK - Aided by declining interest rates, prices on the New York stock market were moving higher Wednesday afternoon as the Dow Jooes industrial average fought off profit takers to stay above the 1,000 level. Trading was fairly active. The Dow average, which rose 11.71 points Tuesday, was closed ahead 10.7 to 1.014.81. Since mid-February, the closely watched average has climbed about 70 points and historically encounters selling pressures at the 1,000 level.

ving Trust triggered some early buying when they lowered their prime lending rate to 17 percent from 171/2 percent. Several other banks followed and the 17 percent prime is expected to become the prevailing rate soon. A few other banks have two as volume expanded to 54.88 million shares from 50.98 million Tuesday.

indications that inflation may ease soon. The government reported farm prices fell 1.9 percent in Marcb and factory orders fell 0.5 4 DM Eurobonds spending fell 3.6 percent in February to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $252.5 billion after a revised 5.9 percent increase in January, Originally, the department said committee for foreign bonds will meet again toward the end of the

The April calendar gets onder way today with a 100 million DM bond for the Council of Europe The investment community was weighing reports that Treasury Secretary Donaid Regan told the Senate Budget Committee its was Resettlement Fund. The 10-year is "entirely possible" the administrasue carries a 10 percent coupon, is tion might accept a four-year 7.5 redeemable after five years, and is percent annual tax cut instead of expected to be priced at par. the president's call for a 10 percent April 7, will be a 100 million DM yearly drop over three years.

offering for Finland, the sources said. On April 15, a 100 million DM is scheduled to be launched for Norges Kommunalbank, followed on April 27 by a 300 million DM bond for the World Bank.

The next meeting of the sub-committee will be held on either American Can was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 3½ to 42% after an opening block of April 24 or 27. A 100 million DM then. 330,000 shares at 42,

About half is purchased at offi-

BUSINESS/FINANCE

Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch-Shell to added. pay a premium on the oil they buy under long-term contract. It is ex-Oil industry sources confirmed the Kuwain request had been pre-sented over the past few days to Gulf Oil, which bas a contract to pected to make a similar request to British Petroleum. The Kuwaiti demand surprised buy 75,000 barrels a day of Kuwaioil industry sources because it ti oil through October, 1982, and Royal Dutch-Shell, which until last disregards contractual obligations, and particularly because it comes week was buying 225.000 barrels at a time when less-expensive oil is of crude a day. abundant on the spot market.

وكذا من الأصل

Industry sources expect that a Kuwait may be risking the loss of important customers for its oil similar request for a premium will be presented sbortly to BP, which as the companies involved served takes 150,000 barrels of oil a day. notice that they do not intend to comply with the request. Other producers, such as Nigeria, are Kuwait's daily output totals about 1.3 million barrels.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, during a one-day visit. Sbeikh Yamani called on other OPEC members to approve a months, indexed to the West's in-could trim their output and raise their prices to about $36 a barrel, the price now charged by most other members. The current Saudi

JEA Asks Stock Building

price for light crude is $32.

world market.

minister barrel by 1985.

FRANKFURT - West German

The central capital market sub-

The second issue, expected on

AP-Dow Jones LONDON — Kuwait bas asked official prices without a premium

cial selling prices set by Kuwait of $35.50 a barrel, with the rest sold at a premium of $5.50 a barrel over the official price.

The Kuwaitis, according to com-pany officials, have not specified how large a premium they would like to add to the long term official contracts. But over the past few weeks all the companies made clear to Kuwait that they would not renew any contracts that implied the payment of any premiums when the contracts came up for renewal Tuesday, the end of the first quarter.

The Kuwaiti move, in the view of one executive, is an attempt to impose a premium across-the-board on all sales. The proposed new premium would be smaller than the $5.50-a barrel charge, but would cover all contracts.

"We aren't prepared to pay any premium at this point and if that means abandoning the contract, so be it," a Gulf Oil executive said. possibility of reduced production in the face of an oil surplus on the Sources at the other two compa-"Differences persist among nies expressed similar positions. The companies said they felt "very OPEC members," said Dr. Subroto, the Indonesian oil minister and well covered at the moment" in current OPEC president, who traterms of their needs for crude oil, veled to Kuwait at the invitation of which they said they could easily get from the spot markets. Sheik Ali Khalifa al-Sabah, the oil The companies are taking a tough line in the belief that Kuwait The Saudi proposals were reiterated here Monday by Sheik is attempting to break the ranks of buyers by negotiating separately and offering different terms to each. South Korean and Taiwanese oil firms agreed recently to buy Kuwaiti crude with a premium of $3 a barrel.

plan under which oil supply would be matched to demand while prices would rise slightly every three Kuwait's negotiating hand with the oil companies has been further flation and economic growth. He said the formula would likely put weakened by the assertion Monday that Saudi Arabia will not cut the price of OPEC oil above $50 a back its record oil production of 10.3 million barrels a day until other members of th OPEC agree The speculation within OPEC is that while there may not be signifi-cant price increases at the OPEC to a unified price for oil and to a Saudi proposal for a long-term pricing policy. meeting in Geneva, or significant production cuts. by July the Saudis

COMPANY REPORTS

Revenue and profits, in millions, are in local

| PARIS (Reuters) - Western oil                                           | currencies unless otherwise indicated                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                |        |  |  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|--------|--|--|
| consuming nations and Japanshould start rebuilding their stocks     | Britain                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                |        |  |  |
| of oil to the 460-million-ton level                                     | Babcock International                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                |        |  |  |
| held when the Iran-Irag war began                                       | Year                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 1980           | 1979   |  |  |
| last year, according to the Interna-                                    | Revenue                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 873.0          | 844,9  |  |  |
| tional Energy Agency governing                                          | Profits                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 5.77           | 25.6   |  |  |
| board.                                                                  | Per Shore                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 0.059          | 0.187  |  |  |
|                                                                         | Reckitt & Colmon                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                |        |  |  |
| The board said the present posi-                                        | Year                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 1980           | 1979   |  |  |
| tion of IEA countries is satisfacto-                                    | Revenue                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 728.08         | 659.08 |  |  |
| ry and the oil market in much bet-                                      | Protits                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 30.4           | 31.23  |  |  |
| ter balance than in December, but                                       | Per Share                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 0,2174         | 0.2255 |  |  |
| the overall situation remains frag-ile. The IEA said stocks on land | West German                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 1∨Ier Bark |        |  |  |
| now total all stillion lous repre-                                      | Address of the second sec | 80.00          |        |  |  |

long-term pricing strategy, Indone-sian oil officials reported Tuesday, The officials, however, held out made the same move over the pasi two weeks. little bope that the differences Advances led declines three to would be narrowed before the next OPEC meeting, which is scheduled for May 25 in Geneva. Among the topics expected to be discussed are Investors were encouraged by crude oil price increases and the percent in February, indicating the Set for April economy is slowing.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday that construction banks have approved a program of four Deutsche Eurobonds for April, totalling 600 million DM, market sources said Wednesday.

construction spending rose 5.4 percent in January.

month to set a further calendar, though one issue for the new calen-The February decline left construction spending 1.5 percent above the February, 1980, level. dar bas already been discussed, the sources said.

In corporate news, American Can Co, said it plans to seek a buyer for its paper and forest-based assets and to reinvest part of the proceeds in a significant acquisition in a new area.

Indonesia Aides Say OPEC Analysis said Chase Manhatian Bank, Bank of New York and Ir-Sharply Split on Pricing New York Times Service KUWAIT - OPEC representatives are trying to resolve sharp differences among members over Saudi Arabia's proposals for a

International to Issue New Shares

By Steve Lohr

Tork Timer Service

ORK - Engelhard Min-Chemicals Tuesday an-

a plan to separate the two ind industrial operations wo independent, publicly ling to the plan, the exist-es of the corporation

ecome the outstanding

Philipp Brothers Corp.,

corporate entity that em-ie raw materials trading olders would receive hs of a share in the new l operations company, d Corp., for every share in Engelhard Minerals & igical Development

well apart.'

eting operations.

- commodity

NON - BOC International is to issue 1.7 million fully paid satisfy a further amount of £2 million that has become payable deration following the acquisition in 1978 of Software Sciences ional.

shares, which represent an increase of less than 1 percent in 42.3 million DM last year on a 25 any's issued ordinary share capital, will rank in all respects with percent increase in turnover to 1.57 billion DM. This year's pering ordinary shares.

which specializes in custom chemi-cals for industrial use. Last year, these operations generated reve-

Recently, the industrial operations have grown substantially, though their ascent has been dwarfed by that of Philipp Brothers. From 1976 to 1980, the revemes of the industrial operations increased fourfold to $3.2 billion

last year, while profits in the same

Trading Revenues Som

world's largest traders of commod-ities, dealing in more than 150 raw materials. In recent years, it has benefited from the quickening de-velopment of international trade as well as the scarcity of some reparces, which has pushed

Philipp Brothers is one of the time doubled to $66 million.

nucs of $3_2 billion

| Minorco, Minerals & Resources is     | au   |
|--------------------------------------|------|
| an investment and holding cor pa-    | 1004 |
| ny that is, in turn, 40-percent      | 1    |
| owned by Anglo American Corp.        | 1    |
| of South Africa.                     |      |
| Mr. Rosenthal denied Wall            | T    |
| Street speculation-that the split-up |      |
| plan came at the urging of Anglo     |      |
| American and its chairman, Harry     |      |
| F. Oppenheimer. "The idea origi-     | 11   |
| nated here," Mr. Rosenthal           |      |
| stressed.                            |      |
| The plan will also result in a se-   |      |
| ries of management changes. Da-      |      |
| vid Tendler, 43, would become        | 1    |

many commodity price In 1967, when Engelhard Miner-als & Chemicals, a fabricator of a very logical develop-ter company," Milton F. the chairman, said precious-metals products, nonme tallic minerals and specialty cheme have two very difthe industrial busiers, the two units were about equal in size. But by last year Philipp Brothers accounted for 89 percent hat the two units have maturity, they can of the total corporation's $26.6 biltion in revenues and 88 percent of its $532.7 million in profits. rations to be reformed Stock in Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals was trading at about industrial company in-hard Industries, a fab-$45 a share shortly before the comprecious metals, and the pany disclosed last week that it and chemicals division.

110,825 16,3638 498,85 0,4761 236,95 11,3477

0.1892 1.739 0.8451 0.1515 0.01% 0.01% 0.01% 0.01% 0.01% 0.00%

38,706

5.206

2,286 76,95 4,702 2,344,95 2,2429 11,0975 4,2739 4,2739

Per U.5.5 0.65% 1.34% 1.34% 1.4,5% 2.0% 674,65 4.59% 3,6%

343125 2,999 1,04530

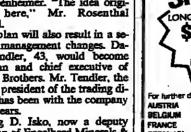

4.9495 1.7153

1.210

N.A. Irtab 4

chairman and chief executive of Philipp Brothers. Mr. Tendler, the current president of the trading division, has been with the company for 21 years. Irving D. Isko, now a deputy chairman of Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals, would become chief executive of the new industrial company, Engelhard.

220 very spacious room

senting 94 days of supply. Prolits.

COMPAÑIA ESPAÑOLA DE PETROLEOS, S.A.

U.S. $200,000,000 medium-term Euro-dollar loan

LEAD MANAGERS:

BANCO DI ROMA INTERNATIONAL S.A.

This announcement appears as a matter of record only.

BANCO DE VALENCIA, S.A.,

BANK OF NEW SOLTH WALKS

AGENT BANK:

BANCO CENTRAL SA

| BANCO CENTRAL, SAMorgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York           | UNION BANK OF SWITZERLAND                             |  |  |  |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|--|--|--|
| MANAGERS:                                                                |                                                       |  |  |  |
| BANCO ARABE ESPAÑOL, S.A. LARESBANK I                                    | LITICORP INTERNATIONAL LIDULY                         |  |  |  |
| BASCON ROMA                                                              | MANUFACTI REES HANOVER LIAUTED                        |  |  |  |
| THE BANK OF TOKYO, LTD.                                                  | MIDLAND BANK LIMITED                                  |  |  |  |
| BANKERS TRUST INTERNATIONAL LIMITEDCHEMICAL BANK INTERNATIONAL GROUP | SAUDI INTERNATIONAL BANKMillion Al Dear Finley    |  |  |  |
| CO-MANAGERS:                                                             |                                                       |  |  |  |
| CONFEDERACION ESPAÑOLA DE L'AJAS DE AHORROS                              | BANK OF MONTREAL                                      |  |  |  |
| Banco Popular Español, S.A.Banco ne Vizcata S.A.                     | NATIONAL WESTMINSTER BANK GROUP                       |  |  |  |
| FUNDS PROVIDED BY:                                                       |                                                       |  |  |  |
| BANCO LENTRAL, SA                                                        | SFE BANKING CORPORATION LIMITED                       |  |  |  |
| MORGAN GUARANTY TRUST LOMPANY OF NEW YORK                                | 1 BAF DANK LIMITED                                    |  |  |  |
| NION BANK OF SWITZERLAND                                                 | BANGA MARCH                                           |  |  |  |
| Γυε Βανκ ογ Τοκλό, 1.τρ.                                                 | BANCO GUIPUZCOANO, S.A.                               |  |  |  |
| LITIDANK, N.A.                                                           | BANCO INTERNACIONAL DE L'OMERCIO, S. V.               |  |  |  |
| IANUFACTURERS HANOVER TRUST COMPANY                                      | BANGO PASTOR S.A.                                     |  |  |  |
| BANCO ARABE ESPAÑOL, S.A. (ARESBANK)                                     | CALADE AHORBOS Y MONTE DE PIELOD DE UTUERES    |  |  |  |
| BANKERS TRUST LOMPANY                                                    | GALADE ADDIROS Y MONTE DE PIEDAD DE LEON              |  |  |  |
| LIEWICAL BANK                                                            | Сада ок Анонкоз у Мохле об'Ристан не МаркоЧермани |  |  |  |
| SAUDI INTERNATIONAL BANK                                                 | UATA DE AHORIOS PHOTINGAT DE ALDANTE                  |  |  |  |
| IDLAND BANK LIMITED                                                      | LADA DE AHORROS PROTINCITE DE CLENCA                  |  |  |  |
| ANCO POPULAR ESPAÑOL, S. V.                                              | CAJA DE AHORROIS PROVINCITE DE ZAMORA                 |  |  |  |
| BANCO DE VIZCAYA S. A.                                                   | CATA PROTINGAL OF ABORROS OF LA RIGTA                 |  |  |  |
| BANK OF MONTREAL                                                         | CONFROERATION E-DYNOLAURT VIAS OF URORIDO             |  |  |  |
| NATIONAL WESTMINSTER BANK LINITED                                        | I REDIT I HINDULE.                                    |  |  |  |
| BANCE DI ROMA                                                            | INTERNATIONAL MEMOLAN BANK LIMITED                    |  |  |  |
| enden litaark                                                            | dia manana di kanana di k                             |  |  |  |

SANTANDER FINANCE SA

UADA DE AHORROS DE LAYER, D

Société Générale Alsolienne de Bayore

February 1981

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981

12 Manith Stock

5% Aller 0 16% Amedal 5% Amedal 18% AcopCp 11% AContri 1% Alsroi 11% AM26A 11% AM26A 12% AM6Bid 23% AM6Bid 12% AM6Bid 10% AP1en 6% AP1en 6% AP1en 6% ASCIB 10% AM5ed 9% AndJc

Andrea AnsieE AciiDta AciiDta

2 Children Standard S

14 BRT 214 Bodger 44 Botsr 44 Botsr 44 Botsr 914 Banst 914 Banst 914 Barst 914 Barst 194 Botsr 194 Botsr 194 Botsr 194 Botsr 194 Botsr 194 Botsr 194 Blockre 194 Blockre 14 Blockre 15 Blockre 15 Blockre 16 Blockre 16 Blockre 17 Blockre 16 Blockre 17 Blockre

5.36 5.36 11 5.92 611,13

끎 .345 .457 1.20 .0

.66 BickEn BickEn Bicuni .72 BoilBer .46 BowVi s .10

.40 26

g1.20

42945

570 054 1.40

50,72

1.44 pt 82 1.40 1.40 1.40 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50 1.50

.16

A Brench Broune Broune Broczs Brock Broke Broke Broke Burgess Burgess Burgess Burgess

SH COr 4% COR 4% CNB Fd 3 CMICa 16 CKS s 16 CKS s

.40 .30 .64

-525 -525 1 .20 1 .20

.44

괬

9.6Ū

, 29 , 49

2007712552554

30

Trilateral Commission Debates Auto Issue

By Hobart Rowen Washington Post Service

WASHINGTON - Sharp differeoces among European. Japa-nese, and U.S. officials on how to deal with international trade issues were fully and openly discussed during a three-day session of the Trilateral Commission which ended here Tuesday evening, confer-ence chairman David Rockefeller i said at a concluding press conference Wednesday.

The Trilateral Commissioo - a target of bitter criticism from right-wing and left-wing groups — is a private organization formed in 1972 to identify major problam areas, and offer ideas to handle them, Mr. Rockefeller said. He ant result had been to involve Ja-pan more fully in Western Europe-an-North American economic dialogues.

On the specific issue of Japanese car exports to Europe and North America, Mr. Rockefeller said that "Americans" at the conference had spoken in favor of some form of restrictions, while the Japanese "naturally were not anxious" to ac-

Broader Summits Sought

On another key issue. Georges Berthoin, European Chairman of the Trilateral Commission, told re-porters that there is "a growing perception amoog European offi-cials that "economic summits should not only tackle economic issues, but broader political issues as well." The future structure of economic summitry is expected to be widely discused in advance of. and at, the seventh such summit in Ottawa in mid-July.

it was learned from other sources that the most vigorous protec-tionist case on autos was not made by any Reagan administration official in attendance, but by Com-mission member Philip Caldwell, chairman of the board of hard-pressed Ford Motor Co. But conmission, it gained only lukewarm approval from Mr. Rockefeller. He cern on going this route was ex-pressed by Marine von Neumann said he thought giving additional scope to summits might sidetrack Whitman, vice president and chief (other) oormal communications."

economist of Geoeral Motors. Sources also said that at least some Japanese participants were critical of the extent to which Jap-anese car producers had been pushing car exports, and one iodi-Abother major paper discussed at the sessions, on Middle East problems, raised the question of bow to deal with the Palestine Libcalled a belief that it was time for the Japanese industry to accept voluntary restrictions.

bow to deal with the Palestine Lib-eration Organization as a political force. Mr. Rockefeller observed that while the "reality" of the PLO could oot be denied, its refusal to recognize the legitimscy of Israel's existence provided little bope that the PLO would gain international The Reagan administration still has bot formulated a final policy position bo the auto question. But a medium-level, inter-agency team scheduled to go to Tokyo this acceptance weekend to begin informal discus-sions with Japanese officials.

Mr. Berthoin added that one good result of the paper and the Trilateral discussion of it was a better understanding by the Euro-pean side of "the fundamental im-Japanese sources at the Trilater-Commission indicated that there is about as much division between the Japanese Foreign Ministry and the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MTTI) as there is in the U.S. government on how to deal with the touchy auto problem. process

At different points during the The future of economic summits meeting, the Commission met with was one of the themes of a paper on multilateral issues by Miriam Camps of the Council on Foreign Relations. Although Mr. Bermeeting, the Commission met with Vice President Bush, Defense Sec-retary Caspar Weinberger, and with Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who hosted the whole Com-mission at a State Department din-ner Tuesday oight. Mr. Haig fo-cussed on civil rights issues, and then took questions, for 45 minthoin's view that summits should leave more of the economic problens to the International Mone-tary Fund and similar agencies. then took questions for 45 minand concentrate on political-cumutes, those who attended said. defense issues was broadly en-During the wind-up press con-ference Wedoesday, Mr. Rockefeldorsed by by Takeshi Watanabe, Japanese Chairman of the Com-ler fielded a oumber of questions that challenged the role of the Trilateral Commission. To one reporter who asked whether the Commis-sion was not a kind of "shadow world government," Mr. Rockefeller said that "anyone who makes that charge doeso't uoderstand how we work or what we do."

To the criticism that the 300 or so members of the Commissioo do not include any represensures from the Third World or from less important industrial countries, Mr. Rockefeller said, "We didn't think it would make any sense to have a private United Nations, and we had to have some basis for limiting membership." Third World prob-lems are brought into view through the issues names that are commis-

the issues-papers that are commis-sioned, and by invitations to spe-cific persons to attend, he said. The Commission voted unani-mously to extend its existence for another three years. Prior to cext year's full meeting in Tokyo, there 1258231571910732237575722331072222871572855422767523104425

portance" of the Camp David agreements, and a better understanding by Americans present of the European desire to play a role in the Middle East peace-making will be a meeting of a small group of members in Peking at the invita-tion of the Chinese government. NYSE Nationwide Trading Closing Prices Apr. 1

Mideast Problems

AMEX Nationwide Trading Closing Prices Apr. Tables include the nation wide prices up to the closing on Wall Sereet Char-12 Yearth Stack Sta High Low Cold State State High Low Cold Cold High Low Cold Cold Chose Close Prev Munter Land Dry S YML P/E 1003. is a start of is start of is a start of is start of is a start of is start of 7% Gotos 2% Gott, 187 11% Gott, 187 17; Gomes 3% Gott, 187 18; Gomes 3% Gott, 187 19; Gowes 3% Gott, 197 19; Gowes 3% Gott, 197 19; Gowes 10; Gott, 197 19; s beferrich i gang A.3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 3.1 <td 11 Ģ 1.44 21 4 -1 HANDA 12 111 1150 1150 1 - IG 2 - 8 .10e ,241 ,10e ,22 ,731 ,10e 27 4774 5 87 1 24421 1.1 47 29 3.7 1 451 1 43 Horrohn 45 1009 Hamilton 1 1009 Hamilton 2 44 Hambro 2 45 Horrohn 2 135 Heinhor 2 55 Heinhor 2 56 Heinhor 2 57 Heinhor 2 58 Heinhort 20 「おいたち」「「おおきななた」を見たいたちに、これたちに、「いいたち」 ALL RANGED BUTCHER RANGE BUTCHER STRATES 7.415 40 287 417 58 18 14 915 14 23 125 56 6 22 16 150 2.2 35 11 3.2 37 3 5.3 6 6 7 56 1,4 29 1344 2 5 20e Wr n.18 5 50 1200 1200 1200 1200 170 290 17 290 16 749 5 449 5 442 6 7.1 4 23 13 14 3 -6445 1111111111111 257 18 4181944978 4.1 1 23 25 14 7.4 7 1.7 12 47 1.4 10 1578 11240 T 258 40 BR 474 Jostive 19 Jostive 316 Jenses 474 Jenses 3 Jatronic 274 Johning 1276 Junipp SP32545 a patend 43-127-48 24274325427-5444 3-127-48 24271325427-5444 3-7 D.5 1276 JunioP Sie Katelia AP Sie Kalstod 1516 KarCe JSb 2072 Kennis & 706 Kennis & 706 Kennis & 706 Kennis & 707 Kide wi 1-171 Kide wi 274 Kinaria 1546 KinoR & 35 Kirty 134 Kinsta 1346 Kinole & 24 Kuhasi ,150 LINE LE SA SER 154 1.711 .34 7 22 GLUNKS 1885183 4 154 1212 234 LSB 234 LSB 234 LSB 234 LSB 244 LSBB 244 LSBB 2 1207 1217 1217 1217 1217 -197-04-74 10 11 12 13 13 14 15 16 17 17 17 16 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 13 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14< the Taken Star Take Star Take Star Take Star Take Star Take Star Taken Star S .50 .49 5 24 7 1507 M= # 44 m 15 ,38 14e .20e .57 2614 -44 7 5 1774 7 305 1454 7 305 1454 7 20 697 141 35 1474 14 2 13 15 2 148 15 2 148 16 2 174 16 2 174 17 20 697 17 20 697 18 247 19 2 12 19 2 1974 19 2 1974 19 2 1974 10 2 2574 10 2 2574 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2574 2 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 2 1974 10 2 1 10 2 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 4 LVnchC 2016 Pri MCC Hd Pri MCC Hd Pri MCC Rt Bh MPC Bt Sta MCC Rt Sta MCC Rt Sta MCC Rt Pri .38 $\begin{array}{c} 1.133 + 9 & 9 \\ 1.133 + 9 & 9 \\ 4.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 9 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.134 + 1 \\ 1.1$ 144 -15 243 21 11 24 77 2113 14 31 12, 5 1612 .14 .14 1.14 34 B 14 12 77 15715757777750820344 3410 547 736 5111 31 436 1.48

乃

1224255

31

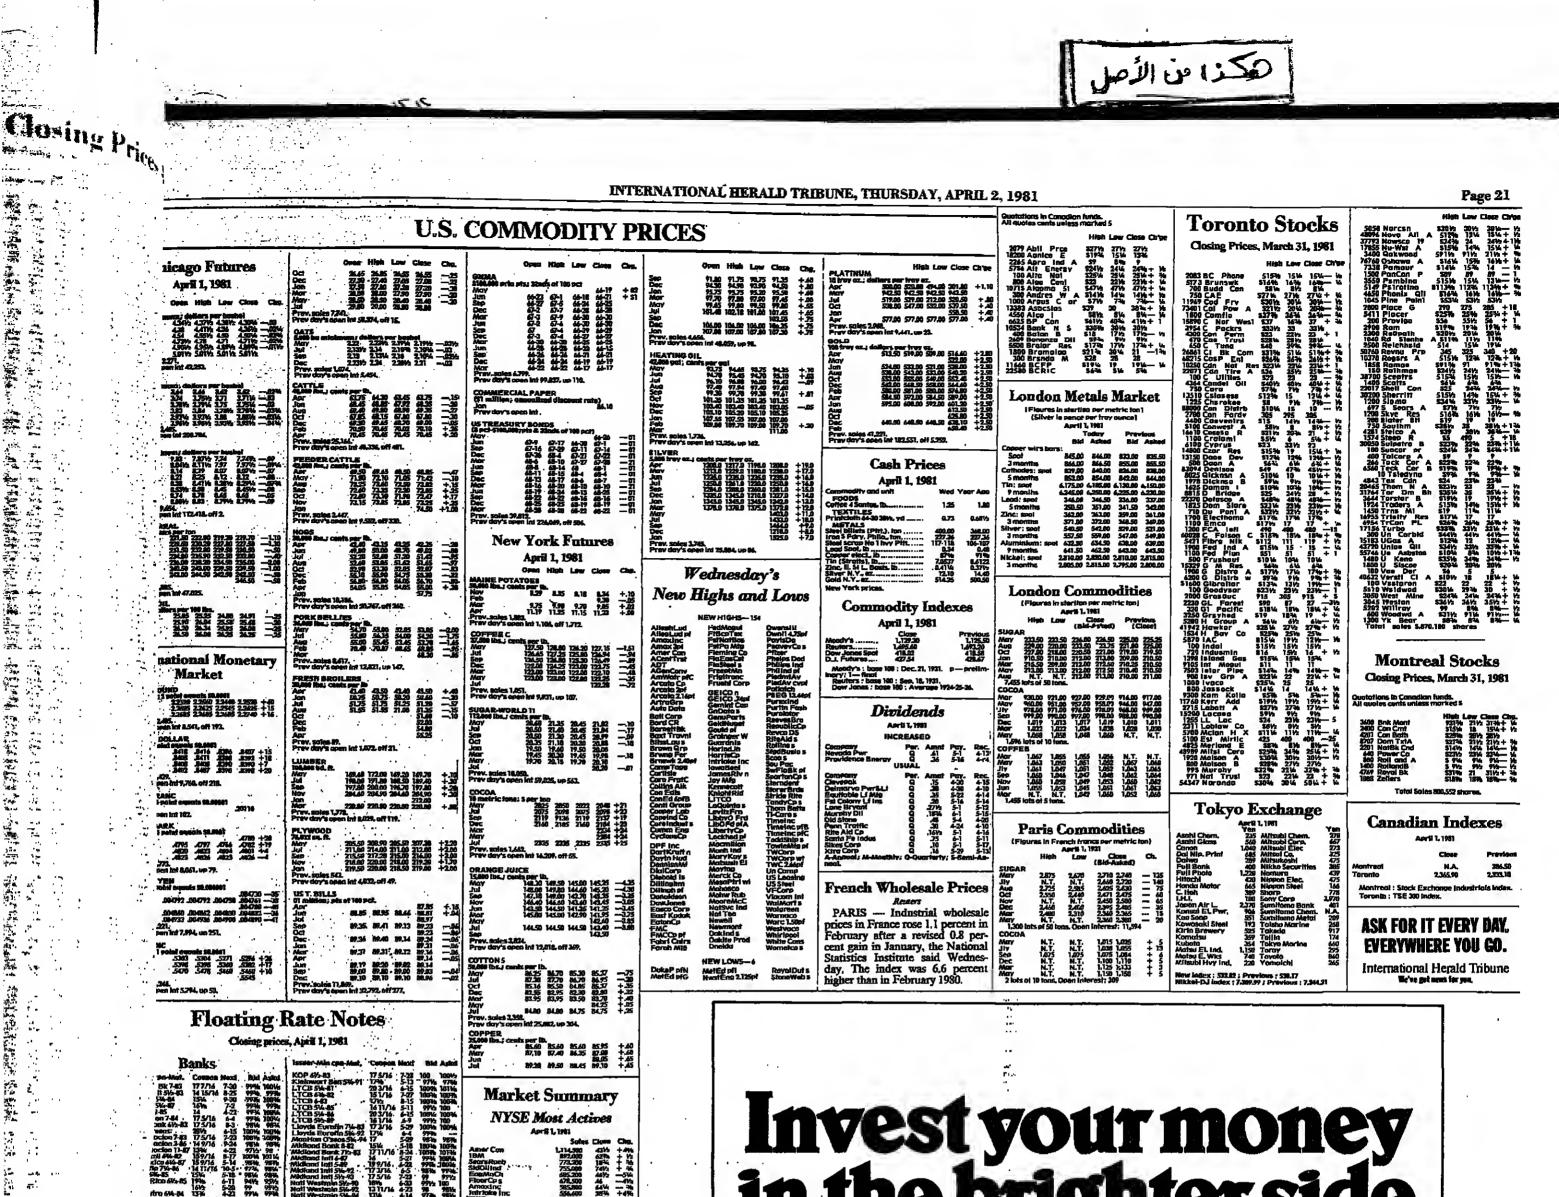

394

Ě

Page 20

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Eurocurrency Interest RatesApril L 1981Swiss Section FrenchFranc Steering Franc                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | European Stock MarketsApril 1, 1981(Closing prices in locat currencies)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | $\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | File         J         McKeon         7         19         84a         84b         87b+         10           2170         1446         McCross         1.40         6.47         17.192         214b         22         112b           1056         725         Metdolst         40         7.516         2         8         8         2         +16b           1056         725         Metdolst         40         7.516         2         8         8         2         +16b           1256         1256         Addition         9         2.27         9         2.244b         34b         34b         -175         34b         -175         1256         -175         34b         -175         37b         -175         1276         +18         34b         -175         127b         175         37b         -176         77b         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176         -176                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 416 746 7467 747 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41 41                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 1 ML 13 9/16 - (3 11/16) 13 7/16 - 13 9/10; 7 ½ - 7 ½ 12 ½ - 12 ½ 13 ½ - 13 ½2 ML (4 - 14 ½ 12 7/16 - 13 9/16; 7 ½ - 7 ½ 12 9/16 - 12 11/16) 13 № - 13 ½3 ML (4 ¼ - 14 ½ 12 7/16 - 12 9/16; 7 ½ - 7 ½ 12 9/16 - 12 11/16) 13 № - 13 ½- 6 ML (4 ¼ - 14 ½ 13 7/16 - 12 7/16; 7 ½ - 7 ½ 12 7/16 - 12 9/16) 13 ½ - 13 ½                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Amsterdam         Kouhof         162.51         161.00         Ifalchmenti         Steff3.00           Amsterdam         Kieckner         164.00         142.50         Inicom         1,131.00         1,130.00           ACF Hotding         53.07         75.00         Linde         306.50         300.80         300.50           ACF Hotding         22.70         71.80         Linde         306.50         300.80         270.00           AKEO         22.70         27.80         Linde         306.50         300.80         270.00           Albert Heilin         77.30         52.50         Mannesmen         122.50         126.00         130.00         130.00           Albert Heilin         77.30         285.50         Mannesmen         120.00         145.00         130.00         130.00           Albert Heilin         77.30         280.50         Mannesmen         120.00         130.00         130.00         130.00           Albert Heilin         73.30         54.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         130.00         <                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 23% 12% Condec 521 29201 50 10% 15% 18% 4813% 7 Control 12 27 11% 11% 11% 133% 24% Controck 1.20 3.4 7 2 22% 22% 23% 73% 10% 4% Controck 1.20 3.4 7 2 22% 2% 73% 113% 10% Controck 1.20 1.311 18 6% 8% 73% 18 + 1413% 11 Control 1 8 12% 14 13% 18 + 1413% 11 Control 1 8 13 14 13% 14 + 3%                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 1444 74 MikildCo 20 25 5 2 12/4 12/4 12/4 1/217/4 7/4 MikildCo 20 1.7 31 346 13 1144 224/4 16 16 MikildCi 16 25 2/4 2/4 1/44/6 2/4 MikildCi 16 25 2/4 2/4 1/44/6 2/4 MikildCi 27 3/4 2/4 1/4                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 1 11 Alle Testane in All AT 4 13 TOLE 2                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | INTERNATIONAL FUNDSApril 1, 1981The pet asset value quotations shown below are supplied by the Funds listed withthe exception of some funds whose quotes are based on issue pricet. The followingmanuful symposis indicate frequency of quototions supplied for the litr: (a)-daily:iw/-weikly: (b)-daily:ALLIANCE INTLevo Bk etBermudgBerm.Other Funds                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Amrobenk         \$720         6500         Meench. Ruck. 205.00         7630         76.30           ADam Rub         2.10         35.00         Meeckermain         77.30         76.30         76.30           Boskalis         82.00         87.00         87.00         76.30         76.30         76.30           Bordara         143.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00         164.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | $\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 8 376 URA 28 7.0 5 5 4m 4 478 364 URA 28 7.0 5 5 4m 4 778 29 USA 770 11 4 778 20 USA 770 1 778 4 Linetrat 8 2 5 564 54 554 USA 754 1 778 4 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | BANK JULIUS BAER & Co Ltd:         (wi Accot Commodity Fd                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Nati, Naoder         12125         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         124.50         12                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | $\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 12% 7% NPInRt 150 9.112 8 11% 11% 11% 11% 1%                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Pfie         3%         Values         8         5           1774         27%         4%         22         15%         127           1875         5%         4%         2010         127         127           27%         1%         Variance         2         13%         121         127           27%         1%         Variance         2         13%         127         13%         127         13%           27%         1%         Variance         1%         4         200         2%           28%         1%         Variance         2%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%         Variance         1%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%         Variance         1%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%         1%           27%         1%                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | CAPITAL INTERNATIONAL:         122.35         (w) D.6.C.         54.53           - (w) Cophol Intil Pand         322.35         (d) Dreyfus Fund Intil                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Arre-Chs Index; 87.40         7.250         arrinob         2.35         1.15         Michelin         2225100         229100           Previous: III.50         Contrier Gold         2.45         1.26         Michelin         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         78.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00         72.00 </td <td>3%         1/4 Dialots         3         2%         7%         2%           4%         24%         24%         2%         3%         2%         3%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         77%         77%         77%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         77%         77%         77%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         72%         77%         77%         13%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         72%         77%         13%         14%         14%           10%         5% Domine 0         2         9%         45%         17%         7%         14%         14%           10%         5% Domine 0         2         9%         45%         17%         7%         7%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%</td> <td>33         276         100 min         28         27         24         274         274         274         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74</td> <td>THE AN VISION AND A AND</td> | 3%         1/4 Dialots         3         2%         7%         2%           4%         24%         24%         2%         3%         2%         3%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         77%         77%         77%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         77%         77%         77%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         72%         77%         77%         13%           81 ½         40% Domine 0         1073         77%         72%         77%         13%         14%         14%           10%         5% Domine 0         2         9%         45%         17%         7%         14%         14%           10%         5% Domine 0         2         9%         45%         17%         7%         7%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%         17%                                                  | 33         276         100 min         28         27         24         274         274         274         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74         74                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | THE AN VISION AND A AND |
| (i) : International form          (iii) : International form          (iiii) : Internation          (iii) : International for | FIDELITY PD Box 570, Hamilton, Bermudo:       (d) Indexutz Mullibonds B                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Sort Generate         1,116         1,118         1mm         0.72         0.771 k2         Stockoln         1,410         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120         1,6120 <th1,6120< th="">         1,61200         1,61</th1,6120<>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 1642       11       Dupls       00       4.5       5       14       13       14       + %         57       464       00       21       14       15       15       15         174       6%       Dynicin       10       10       16       25       14       15       15%         174       6%       Dynicin       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10       10                                                                                                                                                                        | The Driver of the State         The Driver of the State         The Driver of the State         The State <ththe state<="" th="" the=""> <ththe state<="" th="" the=""></ththe></ththe>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 7840 776 Windows at 7224 style 17882846 1256 windows at 1877 25 2846 282846 1256 windows at 1877 25 2846 28177 156 willing 28 2211 418118 20199 55 Windows 39 2211 418118 20176 57 Windows 39 231 4 55 257 15176 57 Windows 38 2312 20 59 75186 57 Windows 38 2312 20 59 75                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| RRST. FOR Bas 244. Gormany       Init NdP FIT 11537: 512201                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | JARDINE FLEMING: 151 Mediolonum Sel Fund                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | BAX57         T2420         T3120         Unit Discuting         1.97         Lift         Altrauslase         L085           Borver N120         211.00         196.00         Vickare         3274         2274         Bushinise         2405         1430         1420           Borver N120         211.00         196.00         Vickare         3274         2274         Bushinise         2405         2405           Borver Verein         280.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         285.00         235.00         235.00         235.00         235.00         235.00         235.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00         237.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 940         Add Elected         11         1         746         746         747         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         746         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         747         7 | 245 165 PGEPT 224 14 15 188 174 174 174 174 174 174 174 174 174 174                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 1236 48-21mmer .36 2.1 24 16 1316 115                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| <ul> <li></li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | RBC Investment Mars, PD Bax 244. Guernaev         Imit N8P FIT IBSP : $122,701                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Du Schulls 1330 1540 Milan Senter 150 150GHH 1640 1650 735 755                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 20 1374 PPA s 49 24 3 1 17 17 17 181444 694 Febbind 30 41 4 24 1244 13 1204 4 8544 234 FolicTs 13 18 344 344 344 13 1204 415 13 February 1 1 18 13 1744 18 413 19 778 Perform 320 321 5 29 814 778 814 141324 7 PedMart 5 15 29 814 778 814 141324 7 PedMart 5 15 19 814 784 1244 1244 124                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 1716 7% Parkisi 14 84 a1774 7716 724 + 341736 7% Portugion 5c 8 14 43 a1774 7716 724 + 341736 7 Portugion 5c 8 14 14 3 1326 1326 - 341456 78 Portugion 5c 8 14 14 14 1326 1326 - 341456 1326 Portugion 5c 8 14 14 14 14 1414 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15 15                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Some Baynes are unofiliatd-May your's law, a-New Yearty high.Unless alterwise acted, roles of dividends in #toble are annual disturgements have on the top'ssemi-convariation. Seeclar or extro dividements not destancted as regular are identified & itfourthes.u-Also extra or extrast. 5-Annual rate plue for                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| $ \begin{array}{c} 10 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 1 \ 0 \ 0$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | SWISS BANK CDRP:         Iwi Toteni Global Find         \$16.35           - Id J America-Volor         OF 42.97         Iwi Toticn Global Find         \$54.36           - Id J America-Volor         OF 42.97         Iwi Toticn Global Find         \$54.30           - Id J Intervator         SF 64.90         Iwi Toticn Global Find         \$54.30           - Id J Japon Partfolio.         SF 254.90         Iwi Toticn Global Find         \$22.37           - Id J Japon Partfolio.         SF 254.90         Iwi Totasacific Fund         \$22.37           - Id J Japon Partfolio.         SF 254.90         Iwi Totasacific Fund         \$22.37           - Id J Junyos Rawiser         SF 272.90         Id I Wilco Fund         \$22.37           - Id J Unive Ram Select         3P 64.00         Iwi United Cas Inv. Fund         \$4.30           - Id I Unive Ram Select         SF 64.90         Iwi United Cas Inv. Fund         \$37.40           - Id I Unive Ram Select         SF 64.90         Iwi United Cas Inv. Fund         \$37.40           - Id I Unive Ram Select         Select         Select         \$37.40           - Id I Unive Ram Select         Imit Winted Cas Inv. Fund         \$37.40                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Tokyo Pacific Holdings N.V.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | $\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Invite         Invite<                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | manifis. I.—Diregiver or solar after a fact which andPaid this vecr, dividend amilitar, deterred or no of apaid this vecr, dividend amilitar, deterred or no oflast dividend meeting. k.—Decores or bold this ve-anutative base with dividends in across. —New 1charat or sold in proceeding 12 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 12 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 12 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 12 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 13 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 13 months star struct. CPoid in stock is excessing 13 months andthe dividend or character structure of thePoid in stock is excessing the store star.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| - id i Simi Switz, R Est                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | To i Procific (nvest)     SP 95:00     di i Romehoc-Invest     SF 95:00     di i Romehoc-Invest     di Romehoc-Invest     di i Romehoc-Invest | on March 31, 1981: U.S. \$94.20 (ex div.)Listed on the Amsterdam Stock Exchange                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | $\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 144 1-2 POWET 1.300 2.4 3 23 254 254 254 254 4245 12 POWET 1.300 2.4 3 23 256 256 256 256 4255 14 Peter 0 9 11 1444 158 1614 425 12 POWET 1.50 6.5 7 2. 176 17 19 - 425 1614 POWET 1.56 6.3 122 244 525 1614 POWET 1.56 6.4 122 244 5164 6 POWET 1.26 6.4 12 15 144 5164 6 POWET 1.26 6.5 4 12 15 144 5164 7164 7175 7164 7 | CB-COREL wa-when distributed wi-When IfWith warrents wa-Without warrents with -Endistvi-to hastrijbers or receiventies of being rearing.The Bankruster Act, or securities observed to such aYearly highland lows telled the provides to wet.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

حكذا من الاجل

| 100 1984 87100 584 87100 584 87100 584 87100 584 87100 574 88100 5 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Noclines Fin StrattNoclement Fin StrattPop, Euroned Fin 445/43Bit Scottened 714-82Bit Scottened 714-82Bit Scottened 714-82Bit Scottened 714-82Storet & Chart. StrattStoret Bit India 414-87Storet Develop 408Under Friedra 40-82Under Stratt 40-84Under Gyress 4-83Will Giverts Bit 514-94 | 154. 430 991. 974.173/16 529 9954 10014173/16 5-29 9954 10014171/16 8-13 9772 189171 171/16 91 9172 189171 171/16 91 9174171 171/16 91 9174171 171/16 91 9174171 171/16 91 9174171 171/16 9174171 171/16 9174171 171/16 9174181 422 9754 10014181 421 421 1007 1007181 121/16 923 1007181 121/16 923 1007181 121/16 923 1007181 121/16 923 1007191 121/                                                                                                                                                   |                         |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Prices supplied by (Ltd. London.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Credit Sulsee-First Boston                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Odd-Lot Trading in N.Y. |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Closing PriceCarsON 24/5 254CarsON 24/5 254CravTu 546 125CravTu 546 125CravTu 546 125CravTu 546 125CravTu 546 126CravTu 546 126CravTu 146 176Deber 576 176Deber 5175 1265Deber 5175 1265Deber 5175 1265Deber 5175 1265Deber 5175 1265Deber 111 174DerCont 11 174DerCont 11 174 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Patritium 41 41+4Patritium 41 41+4Patritium 17 17/87Plaipakar 23/6 37PlaipakarPlainting 30 874Plainting 30 874Plainting 36 11/2Plainting 36 11/2Pla |                         |

ので、「日気」をいう

S. M. Walk

*

TI' BE

the particular ģ.

·北京市市、北京市市、北 1.5-1  $\mathbb{P}_{n}$

÷.

2

ş

1

.

52

с.,

7.

1.1.1

4

÷.,

in the brighter side of gold.

Are you thinking of investing in gold? You can. Just buy or sell the gold and wait until you think the price is right. Unfortunately, however, your investment does not bring in any interest. And, of course, you are exposed to unforseeable price fluctuations which affect your total investment.

Our suggestion is: invest your money in the brighter side of gold. You can do this with gold options.

The European Options Exchange in Amsterdam is the world's first exchange for gold options. It is also the only place where gold options can be traded in a competitive market system. A wide range of investors are going to find gold options extremely attractive.

Or are you thinking of speculating in gold? E.O.E. gold options can, in both up and down markets, limit your risks as well as your investment. And have you ever considered making your gold bring in an income? This is what options can do. Or would you prefer to use options as an insurance against a possible decline in the price of your gold, thus protecting your profit potential? Options can serve that goal

Options are a versatile vehicle for investment. Gold options combine the versatility of options with the dynamism of an investment in gold. The E.O.E. will open up the path for you.

Just return the attached coupon and we will send you detailed information.

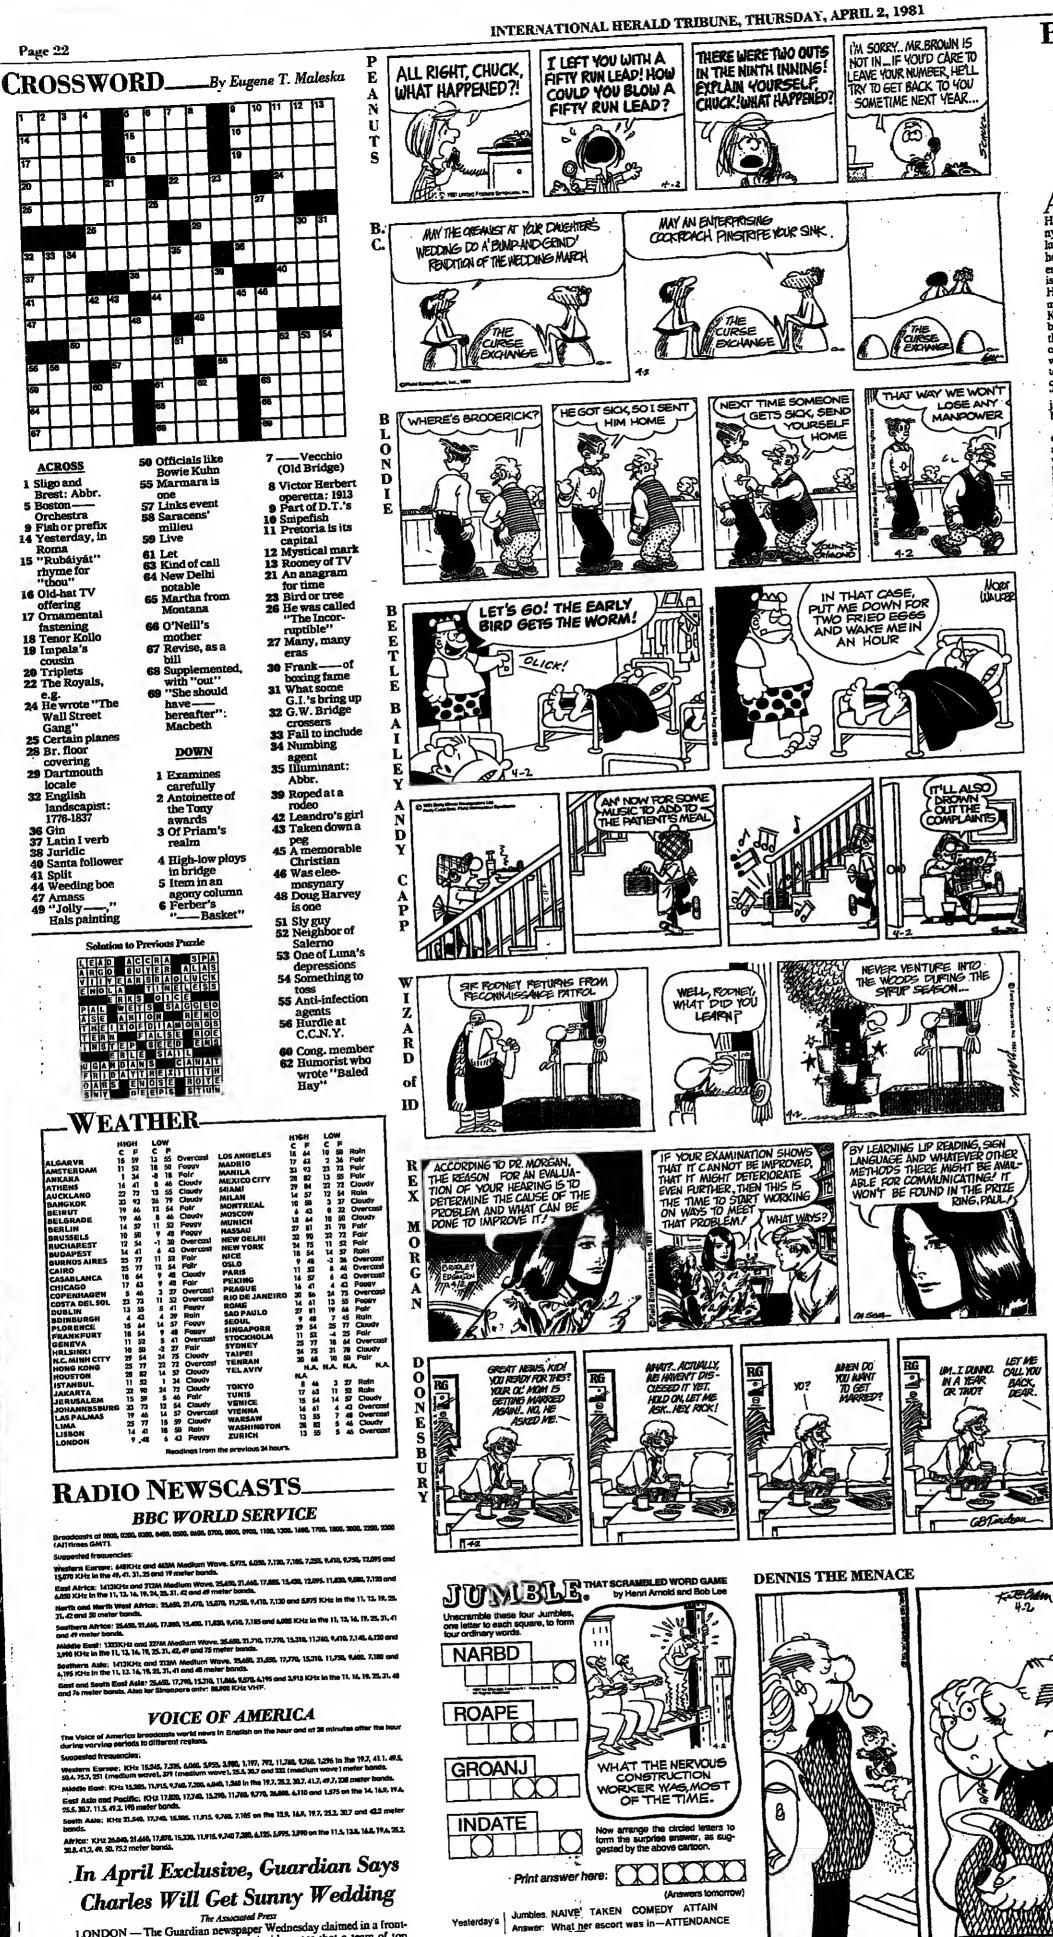

The European Options Exchange was opened in Amsterdam on April 4th 1978. It is the first options exchange in Europe and is the only exchange in the world on which options on shares from the Netherlands, various other counshares not me nemerating, various other com-tries in Europe and the U.S.A. are traded. Since April 1981, the E.O.E. is the only options exchange in the world where options on gold are traded. The European Options Exchange operates ĥ as an exchange as according to Dutch law and it performs its function under the supervision of the Minister of Finance.

Gold options: The brighter side of gold.

| EUROPEAN                                       | E·E                                                                 | Name    |
|------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| OPTIONS                                        |                                                                     | Address |
| EXCHANCE                                       |                                                                     | City    |
| P.O. Box 191641000 GD AmsterdamHolland | Yes, please send me com-prehensive information                  | Zipcode |
|                                                | about the attractive oppor-timities offered by goldoptions. | Country |
| ·                                              |                                                                     |         |

BOOKS.

BRICKS TO BABEL A Selection From 50 Years of His Writings. Chosen With New Commentary by the Author By Arthur Koestler. Random House, 697 pp. $20. Reviewed by John Leonard

A FTER Hitler and Stalin: after Marz, Freud and Einstein; after Hungary, Austria, Palestine, Germa-ny, Russia, Spain, France and Eng-land; after 30 books and who knows how many women, Arthur Koestler enters his 76th year. "Bricks to Babel" is a birthday cake from Random House, layer upon layer of words that madden. Those already familiar with Koestler's novels, essays and auto-biography will be infortated by all biography will be informated by an that is omitted. Those who are inno-cent of his extraordinary journalism will be mystified by ideas and charac-ters wrenched from context. He quotes an annoved Madame Pasteur: "Louis is now up to his neck in beet juice." Koestler leaves out his own beet juice.

He has only himself to blame. He did the editing. He also decided, at about age 50, to abandon politics; he was seized with the urge to synthesize; he would improve on Freud. Thus, the lopsidedness of this compilation, this account of a "pilgrim's regress," as he calls it. Less than half of "Bricks to caus it. Less than half of binas to Babel" is devoted to snippets from his fictioo and swatches of "Arrow in the Blue" and "The Invisible Writing." The rest is brain theory, astronomy, ethnology, parapsychology and mysti-

Of the novels, we get too much of "The Gladiators," his indifferent first "The Glaonators," ms indifferent inst novel about Spartacus, and too little of "Darkness at Noon," "Thieves in the Night" and "Arrival and Depar-ture." The wonderful "Triangle" parable from "Arrival and Departure" is quoted, but not Bernard's passionate vision of a Nazism that would make of the mineral veins of Europe a central oervous system. We are permitted the Arab point of view in "Thieves in the Night," but denied the desert and the sex. A couple of pages from "The Age of Longing" — which he says is "the only one of my novels which I dislike," as if he has forgotten "The Call Girls" — is not enough to indicate how angry and witty it was about postwar France, Simone de Beauvoir-ized. He mixes, impermissibly, a key scene from one fiction with a para-graph or two or three from pertnent. essays. The imagination dies.

Written on Bandages

Together, "Arrow in the Blue" and "The Invisible Writing" constitute one of the great 20th-century autobiographies. By definition, a 20thcentury antobiography is written in haste, on bandages, and Koestler is not a threat to Ronsseau or Herzen. But there is little of this lonsy century. that he didn't experience, from a Ber lin Communist cell group that includ-ed Wilhelm Reich to death row behind the Franco lines in civil war Spain. Nevertheless, the antobiogra-phy sinks under the ink splashed by so many pages of "The Act of Cre-ation" and "The Ghost in the Machine.

It is as if Koestler, like Doris Less-ing, could only become clean of our century by denying it entirely. When Lessing abandoned politics, she found Sufism. Koestler was less satisfied on his journey to the East, and trivializes Gandhi. More to his taste are subatomic atoms and "superagalactic spaces," extrasensory perception and pharmacentical salvation — a benign enzyme that will reconcile the neocortex with the borse and the crocodile in our brains. Never mind that the rubbing to-gether of our various layers of brain probably accounts for "the act of creation" - our culture - that he de-scribes so well and theorizes about so badly. On the one hand, he suggests that language and symbols account for our aggression and are "evolution-ary blunders." On the other hand, he makes iun of Zen teachers fo to communicate, in books, the municable, which, of cou precisely what he seeks to co cate, in his books, with refere prime numbers and the "syn of justice. "Wars." he tells us, fought for territory, but for we Koestler is a brilliant jor S-1 204

1 6 2 3

-----

19 19 🐨

- 🔆 🖉

** Sec. 1

---

----

-

.....

-----

-

-----

. . .....

and it is in the nature of the journalist to seek the quick fix of punch line. He sought it i and Freud. They didn't work seeks it still, in Gestalt psy and the very different sort of land to be found somewhere it cinity of Duke University. H quick fix for the Jews. Chan religion. And a quick fix for th A soothing enzyme. And a q for death: Our elders and be out there in the cosmic waste ing on a theory of humor. Any journalist would d throw away the beet juice to the idea, even if the idea died dration. We are always a when we want to think. We k with sarcasm, rude humor, se cation and a kind of feisty We were right about every! was wrong, and we want to seriously.

I remember the Arthur who went to the North Pole who went to the (vorth Fold loon in 1931, before joining man Communist Party. He walked in his skeep, but he zeppetin, He was also willing Mount Ararat to see how t doing on the Central Asiat production front." Somewhe the line he lost his air and hannor. A journalist without : humor needs an enzyme.

Please read the autobiograp will meet someone you wan much to know once upon Now, if he comes to dinner bend spoons, and crocodiles v in the beet juice,

John Leonard is on the stop New York Times.

Tomb Comple Found in Cret

United Press Internation ATHENS - Greek archa excavating in southern Crumearthed a 4,500-year-old tomb complex containing gol-and ivory sealstones, the Ard cal Service said Wednesday.

cal Service said weinesusy. Ioannis Sakellarakis, CH. Heraklion Museum, said the built complex in the Odigitr comprised two round vanite or "holoi," five small rooms, bones, a paved courtyard ar rounding stone wall.

The archaeologists found tones carved with animal as glyphic designs, made fro sompstone and glass paste. 7 uncovered four strips of g hundreds of necklace beat vases, bronze tools and blac of obsidian, he said.

The tombs are thought to h used between 2,500 and 2,000 an carly Minoan community.

|                     |    |     |      |    |          |                | HH | EH -         | LÖ  | w   |        |
|---------------------|----|-----|------|----|----------|----------------|----|--------------|-----|-----|--------|
|                     | ню | H   | LOW  |    |          |                | c  | F            | č   | F   |        |
|                     | С  | F   |      | P  |          | LOS ANGELES    | 18 | M            | 10  | 50  | Roin   |
| LGARVR              | 15 | 59  |      |    | Overcasi |                | 17 | 63           | 2   | 36  | Fair   |
| MSTERDAM            | 11 | 52  | 18 5 |    | Foggv    | MADRIO         | 33 | 93           | 23  | 73  | Fair   |
| ANKARA              | 1  | 34  | -8 1 |    | Fair     | MANILA         | 20 | 82           | 13  | 55  | Fold   |
| ATHENS              | 16 | 41  | 8 4  |    | Cloudy   | MEXICO CITY    | 29 | 54           | 22  | 72  | Cloud  |
| AUCKLANO            | 22 | 72  | 13 1 |    | Cloudy   | 541AM          | ŭ  | 57           | 12  | 54  | Rain   |
| BANGKOK             |    | 93  | 26   |    | Cloudy   | MILAN          | 10 | 50           | 3   | 37  | Cloud  |
| BEIRUT              | 19 | 66  | 12   |    | Fair     | MONTREAL       | 14 | ā            |     | 32  | Overc  |
| BELGRADE            | 19 | 46  |      | 46 | Cloudy   | MOSCOW         | 18 | Ĩ.           | 10  | 50  | Cloud  |
|                     | 14 | 57  | 11   | 52 | Foysy    | MUNICH         | 77 | 81           | 31  | 70  | Fair   |
| BERLIN              | 10 | 50  | 9    | 48 | FORSY    | NASSAU         | 12 | 90           | 22  | 72  | Fair   |
| BRUSSELS            | 12 | 54  | -à - | 30 | Overcasi | NEW OELHI      | 24 |              | ii  | 52  |        |
| RUCHAREST           | 14 | 41  |      | 4  | Overcost | NEW YORK       | 18 |              | 14  | 57  |        |
| BUDAPEST            | 25 | 77  | 11   | 52 | Feir     | NICE           |    |              | 3   |     |        |
| BURNOS AIRES | ž  | 77  | 12   | 54 | Fold     | OSLO           |    |              | - ĩ |     |        |
| CAIRO               | 18 | 64  |      | 48 | Cloudy   | PARIS          | 1  |              |     |     |        |
| CASABLANCA          | 17 | 63  |      | 40 | Fair     | PEKING         |    |              |     |     |        |
| CHICAGO             | ś  | 46  | 3    | 27 | Overcos1 | PRAGUE         | 1  |              | 24  |     |        |
| COPENHAGEN          | 23 | 7   | ñ    | 52 | Overcost | RIO DE JANEIRO | 3  |              | 13  |     |        |
| COSTA DEL SOL       | 13 | 55  | 5    | 41 | Foggy    | ROME           | 1  |              | 19  |     |        |
| DUBLIN              | 4  | 4   | - Ā  | 39 | Rain     | SAO PAULO      | Z  |              |     | _   |        |
| BDINBURGH           | 15 | Ĩ.  | 14   | 57 | Foggv    | SEOUL          |    | 7 489 54 | 2   |     |        |
| PLORENCE            | 18 |     |      | 48 | FORSY    | SINGAPORR      | 2  |              | -   |     |        |
| FRANKFURT           | 11 | 52  | Ś    | 41 | Overcust | STOCKHOLM      | 1  |              | ĩ   |     |        |
| GENEVA              | 10 |     | 2    | 27 | Fair     | SYDNEY         | 2  |              | Ĵ   |     | a Ciou |
| HRLSINKI            | 29 |     | 24   | 75 | Cloudy   | TAIPEI         |    | 4 75         | 1   |     | B Fair |
| N.C. MINH CITY      | 25 |     | 22   | 72 |          | TENRAN         | -  | N.A.         | NÅ  |     | LA.    |
| HONG KONG           | 2  |     | 14   | 57 | Cloudy   | TEL AVIV       |    |              |     |     |        |
| HOUSTON             | 11 |     | - 1  | 34 | Cloudy   |                |    | A            |     | 3 3 | 77 Rat |
| ISTANBUL            | Ŧ  | _   | 24   | 77 |          | TOKYO          |    | 8 44         |     |     | 2 Roh  |
| JAKARTA             | 19 |     | ŝ    |    |          | TUNIS          |    | 17 63        |     |     | T Clos |
| JERUSALEM           |    |     | 12   |    |          | VENICE         |    | 15 54        |     |     |        |
| JOHANNBSBUR         | 1  |     | - 14 |    |          | VIENNA         |    | 16 61        |     |     | AL OVE |
| LAS PALMAS          | 2  |     | 19   | _  |          | WARSAW         |    | 13 55        |     |     | 46 Clo |
| LIMA                | 1  |     | 16   |    |          | WASHINGTON     |    | 26 6         |     | 5   | 46 OV  |
| LISBON              |    |     |      |    |          | ZURICH         |    | 13 5         |     |     |        |
| LONDON              |    | 9.4 |      |    |          |                |    |              |     |     |        |

LONDON — The Guardian newspaper Wednesday claimed in a front-page report with 13 related articles on inside pages that a team of top scientists, working in secret during a 13-year period, had made a breakthrough that would guarantee perfect weather for the July 29 wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer. The reporting was in the best British newspaper tradition for April 1 - April Fools' Day.

مكذامن الاجل

Imprime par P.I.O. 1, Boulevard Ney, 75018 Paris

...=

YOU MUST HAVE DONE SOMETHING

TO FRIGHTEN THE BOY !!

BRIDGE

MOST players know they should not attempt a grand slam un-less the odds are substantially in their favor. The percentage chance to make it a borderline proposition varies be-tween 55 percent and 69 percent, de-pending on such factors as vulnerability, denomination and type of scoring; But this assumes an uncontested auction. If you are considering bidding seven when the opponents have refused to allow you to play six, the calculations are quite different. You must take into account the valuerabilmust take into account the value tath-ity, the method of scoring, the state of your score, the freakishness of the deal and, obviously, your prospects of making 13 tricks. On the diagramed deal, played in a builting some Scruth found bimself On the diagramed deal, played in a duplicate game, South found himself the proud possessor of a nine-card snit, something one can expect once in about 10,000 deals. He began gently with one spade, and his opponents took advantage of favorable vulnera-bility to crowd the bidding with the heart suit

At his second turn, South found that he was too late for Blackwood, and bid a confident six spades. He then had to make a decision when his heart suit.

NORTH ♦31 ♥97 4 AK 1963 403 6392 EAST ▲108 ₩654 7K01832 1250Q1087 $A1087 When SOUTH (D)

*AKQ876543 VAN 05 AX. North and South were vulnerable. 122. North 50. Fass West 4♥ East 57 20 Pas Pass

Record Price for a M United Press International

LONDON - An anonyme pean collector paid £700.( million) Wednesday for a pa the Norwegian artist Edvare Sotheby Parke Bernet aucti said the price was the hig paid for a Munch painting. is "Two People," dated 1908.

_By Alan I

opponents rightly saved hearts.

This contract could have bled and beaten by four i that prospect did oot attra He felt that the save would found at other tables, so he ' collect many match points bling. If North held both mit the grand slam would almost succeed. If he had one ace held the other, there was a f. that West would not find t

Added to which there was logical angle: South could himself to defend when hole id nine-card suit. So he spades, and as he hoped, We find the right lead. He put king on the table and So count 12 tricks. The diamon fered a hope of a 13th.

After winning the heart a ran eight rounds of trumps this position.

|                | NORTH                        | 1                                   |
|----------------|------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|
|                | ♦⊽9               | an a       |
| ,              | 0 A K J                      |                                                |
| WEST .         |                              |                                                |
| ¢4♣Q3      | SOUTE                        |                                                |
|                | ▲3▽10-05      | میں دور دورپیچور محمد اورپیچور دور دور |
| When the h     | ♦Kast trump was          | t ya angangaAngangaAnganga             |
| slight chance  | fense would lhowever, if |                                                |
| discarded diff | erently                      | Anterio and                                    |

La fut strange

· Sieger

1. 1. 1.

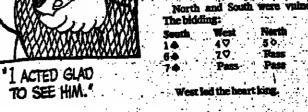

four hearts holding eight C minor suits.

He should have discard clubs, hoping that Soumisread the position and fir amonds. But an alert South slize that West could hard

WEST

+Q6543

042

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1981

Chicago opened the final period with eight straight points of the fi-nal quarter and the Knicks never came closer than three points after that. Ricky Sobers paced Chicago with 18 points. Greenwood added

17, Jones 16 and Gilmore 13. Ray Williams led New York with 19 and Campy Russell had

17. but New York's all-star guard.

NBA Playoffs

NBA Playoffs FIRST RDUND IBest of Thread RASTERN COMFERENCE Philadelphia V4. Indiana IWinaer plays Milwaukee] Morch 31 - Philadelphia 124. Indiana 14 Aaril 2 - Philadelphia 124. Indiana 14 Aaril 3 - Philadelphia 124. Indiana 16 Aaril 3 - Philadelphia 124. Indiana 16 Aaril 3 - Chicago 90, New York 20 April 3 - Chicago 90, New York 20 April 3 - New York at Chicago 2-April 3 - Chicago 90, New York 20 April 3 - New York at Chicago 2-April 3 - Chicago 90, New York 20 April 3 - New York at Chicago 2-April 3 - New York at Chicago 2-April 3 - New York at Chicago 2-April 3 - New York at Chicago Adril 1 - Houston at Los Angeles 75 April 3 - Houston at Los Angeles April 3 - Kansas City of Portand April 3 - Kansas City of Portand

Michael Ray Richardson, scored only nine points.

In Memory of a Quiet Hero tors follow athletes pedali

21 7.

By Neil Amdur New York Times Service VER - The Mount Ev-

5

100 C

939 H. C

Se 2 . 2 .

£ #-----

N. .....

🗿 🕈 🖉 200 marcada

----

Mar Colores

1. A. A. A.

THE STATES

1. 1 M

Section (

· · · · · ·

، بنينة التي التي

∂ta ing Alka

Professional Constraints

i ser en ser

142 . . .

ber out

🗯 🛲 👘 🔬

¥-----

ş. . . . .

ngan Merceria Serent sela a se

15° 3. . . .

. . . . چنجنز

in the second inter a

تركيه ومحم وهمرا فأ

P21.021

at inter .

Their in the

1 12 12 + F - 1 - 1

$ 1.7 h ....

Enter, Batasting)

Antis .....

Robert

hone in the

.

South to a los

1. Sec. 1.

- 74°.

S. ......

inter sonore The

Sec. - -

215.45

6. 1. 19 AVT

14 16 T

۰. -

Sec. es

10--- dia and ret in

-----

. 1.5

and the second

Sec. 1

28 N 194

#E. ..

1000 B

Sec. 1

States .

A. 1994 1 1.

AN WAY THE

-

1 1 million 1

ಸ್ಥ-೧೯೯೧

المتعارف الم

. . . . .

And a contract of

----

Bar

الت مجر

2. 2

6.277.1

Se .....

. .....

 $a_{\mu}=a_{\mu}=\frac{2\pi}{2}a_{\mu}$

₩3°7

 ${\bf x}_{i} \in {\bf J}$

к......

4

an: "T

34.3.2

MAL ST ME

ي. بر زموني 8.00

1.00

4-19-

$2

يەرەپ يېرو

4.100

25

¥. 1

2.51

ير کورنہ

Beer 11

÷ 2

8. 28.

المرجوبة الأ

3. March

the second

المبعاق وطأ

2 Torre C

the second

Prin state

··· .

4

四日11月1日 初日初日 初日

I Climb is an ardnous 28icycle race that ends on shest paved road in the States - 14,264 feet sea level.

Cook holds the record ; race: one hour 54 mini seconds. He won it the times, a feat easily com-; to the three consecutive Marathons won by Bill ember of the 1980 U.S. ic cycling team, Cook will fend his Hill Climb crown . He died March 11 at the 23, having suffered the eff brain tumors for three

Cook said she never er son that there was no frer doctors diagnosed his m as metastatic melano-

h tried to hide the pain," ohn Beveridge, an alfalfa ind cook's racing team. ited one day and asked do something. He was in ad said, TII have to think that John.' And then he the covers over his head nd, I do my best thinking here.' In fact, I think he inp the covers because he imacing to hide pain."

View of Life

k's view of his life - he said, "to some people, they live for is to be imit. To me, that's not an ob--is evident in his nine of diaries, perhaps the horough ever compiled by lete.

ides normal training workwhich sometimes reached riles a week, Cook paingly recorded his daily dict, silse readings a day (36 to eats a minute), weight,

112

î vita

and other riders, a list of races and prizes, and specific feelings, He kept his diary even after he first-entered the hospital Dec. 26 for tests to determine the cause of the headaches, loss of balance and numbress that began during his 25-mile rides to work at Martin Marietta, where be worked as an engineer in the space shuttle recovery program. The last known notation in his diary, on Feb. 5, read as fol-lows: "I try not to think too much about my condition and what it might lead to. I may get better, but I may get worse: 1 may die. That's unpleasant, but I have to face the possibility. I'm glad I don't think too much about it. Just living each day the best I can keeps me in pretty good spirits."

A Little Fanatical

Cook lived with a discipline, determination and dedication that often amazed members of his family and friends. "I just thought he was a little fanatical and let it go at that," his older brother, Joe, 26, a certified pub-lic accountant, recalled, fondly. "He just liked to be in shape."

"It's difficult to believe he could climb Mount Evans in less than two hours when it took me six hours," Jan Woellhaf of Wheatridge, Colo., wrote in a March 15 condolence letter to

The appetites of cyclists are as legendary as their long training routines or distaste for automobiles and junk food. Cook weighed 140 pounds with almost no fat on his 6-foot-1-inch frame

It was not uncommon, his brother said, for Cook to get up at 4 in the morning, eat breakfast, go out for a workout, re-turn and then eat again at 7. "His cycling ability on mountainous terrain may be Cook's tors follow athletes pedaling for hours at 12,000 feet above sea level so he was appreciated more by peers than the public. Steve Tesich, a former amateur cyclist who wrote the screenplay for the acclaimed movie "Breaking Away," once made the straight uphill climb from the tiny Colorado town of Idaho Springs (7,000 feet) to the snow-capped summit of Mount Evans. "Agony," Tesich said last week, describing the three-

freezing tempertures. No-Man's Zone

"From 10,000 to 14,000 is like no-man's zone," said Alexi Grewal, a 20-year-old member of the U.S. national team from Aspen, Colo. "Boh owned that territory.

"As an amateur, Bob ranked with the top climbers in the world," said Wayne Stetuna of Schererville, Ind., a three-time

Olympian. "Bob was our best chance at Moscow because of the hilly course there," said Michael Aisner, director of the nine-day, 600-mile Coors International Bicycle Classic. Aisner had seen

Cook win several stages of the Coots race in 1978 and 1979. Road racing is far removed, in substance and style, from cycling events that are contested at shorter distances and on prescribed courses or tracks. "When you become as good as Boh was," Tesich said, "it's that ability to do things alone, to suffer alone, to come through alone, that stands out. You get formed by it or you drop off. It's so much easier to go on a foot-ball field with 40 guys and get a group feeling to pump you up. There's something very fitting about the West, the mountains and being alone. It's a quiet form of heroism, and Bob symbolized that." legacy to the sport. Few spectahour trek that began in 90-de-gree heat and ended in sub-Julius Erving of the 76ers (center) battles for the ball with the Pacers' James Edwards (left) and

Hoosiers' Goal: Just Compete

By Gordon S. White Jr. New York Times Service

PHILADELPHIA --- Winning in Philadelphia was the most obvious similarity between the Indiana team that took the national collegiate baskethall championship in 1976 and the Indiana team that captured the title at the Spectrum Monday night.

NHL Standings

CAMPBELL CONFERENCE Division W L T Pia. GF GA 45 15 14 104 342 255 41 20 14 96 311 245 37 27 14 88 310 290 28 25 14 70 306 314 24 35 18 46 275 309 Division
 Division

 44
 17
 16
 104
 341
 267

 38 32 15
 75 293
 303

 28 30 19 75
 298
 284

 22 35 15
 49
 310
 319
 x-SI. Louis Chicago Vancouva Edmonter Colorado 22 35 15 47 310 314 23 44 1) 55 246 330 9 56 17 30 275 384

| et a a a b a b a b a b a b a b a b a b a |                   |
|------------------------------------------|-------------------|
| WALE                                     | SCONFERENCE       |
| N                                        | TIS Division      |
|                                          | WLT PIS OF C      |
| Monired                                  | 43 22 13 99 322 2 |
| Los Angeles                              | 43 23 12 98 328 2 |
| Pittsburgh                               | 29 36 12 70 294 3 |
| Hartford                                 | 20 39 18 58 382 3 |
| Detroil                                  | 19 41 17 55 245 3 |
| Ad                                       | oms Division      |
| x-Buffalo                                | 36 19 20 96 317 2 |
| Beston                                   | 36 28 13 85 307 2 |
| Minnesota                                | 34 27 17 85 292 2 |
| Quebec                                   | 30 30 17 77 303 3 |
| Tomata                                   | 77 77 11 67 311 1 |

clinched division title

x-clinched division title Tuesdor's Resolts Minnepola & St. Louis 3 (Payne (28), Paimer (4), Cleconelli (16), E. Smith (2 (29), Broten (1):2xSutter (35), Turnbull (34), Currhe (20), Detroit 5, Coleany 5 (Smith (10), Peterson (8), Barrett (3), Hamel (5), Huber (14); Histop (24), Routokatika (18), Mitson 2 (44), Labroaten (11), Guebac 5, Pittsburgh 1 (Cloutier (13), Tardif (23), A. Stastary 2 (38), Stchard (311) Cortyle (14)).

Montreol 3, NY Islandors 1 (Napler (33), Gal-Avointed 2. N 1 Standors 7 (Naper 133), Goi-ney (23), Houle (26), Marrick 114), Los Angeles 7, Wanipes 3 Troylor (44), Kelly (2), Wells (5), Charlrow 11), Houkks 181, St. Lau-reg (110), Terrion (12); Lukowich 2 (32), Geof-frich 119)1.

30 30 17 77

 24
 35
 18 66
 275
 307

 26 37
 18 58 282
 357

 22 44
 11 55
 246
 330

 19 41
 17
 55 245
 326

7 54 12 30 235 284

United Press Inter

Louis Orr in the first game of their best-of-three NBA playoff series. The 76ers won. 124-108.

But the differences were even more obvious. Ask Bohby Knight, the superh acher who coached both teams.

"We were national champions at the start of the 1975-76 season in almost everybody's eyes," be re-called after Monday night's triumph. "If we did not win, it would have been a disappointment. We felt we almost had to win." By contrast, he said, "our objective when this season started was simply to be as competitive as possihle "The kids never lost sight of this goal." he emphasized, "and Isiah Thomas spoke of it many times."

Most Important

To some extent, the difference showed in the season records. The 1976 team, with Scott May, Kent Benson and Quinn Buckner, was indefeated. The present team, with Isiah Thomas, Jim Thomas, Ray Tolbert, Randy Wittman and Landon Turner, lost nine games. the most ever by a team that went on to win the championship.

When they needed victory the most was when the Hoosiers were most competitive. Nobody was more important io the drive than Isiah Thomas, the sophomore point guard who would not let his teammates forget the goal.

As the star of the 63-50 victory over North Carolina Monday night he scored 23 points, made two key steals early in the second half to break open a close game and was oamed the outstanding player of the 43d annual tournament. The site of the final victory aside, there was a more important, if less obvious, similarity between the two teams: hoth reflected the 14-2 surge as the 76ers recaptured the advantage, 36-29. Philadelphia shot 73 percent from the field for a patient offense, looking for an opening, anticipating the shot chances. The defense hounded the 38-33 lead after one quarter. shooting in the second quarter, outscoring Indiana, 22-8, in streuch their lead to 60-41 on Erving's bas-Tar Heels in man-10-man coverage. Ultimately Indiana's consistenket with 3:29 left in the first half. cy paid off. After North Carolina had reached a 16-B lead with 10 minutes left in the half, those days and weeks and months of practice began to show how important they could be.

The Hoosiers ran nothing differently from the way they had operated in the first 10 minutes; they simply started executing with smoother efficiency. The ball dropped because the players were a half-step closer to the proper position.

Thomas began to zip the backdoor passes behind North Carolina's hig-man zone defense. The long shots hy Wittman clicked. including one from the corner that, at the first-half buzzer, put Indiana ahead by 27-26. That was the end for North Carolina. The Tar Heels never got even again.

76ers on a 14-3 spurt that gave them a safe 118-97 lead with three minutes to play. Knight led Indiana with 25 points, and Davis and Mike Ban-tom added 19, James Edwards, the Pacers' second-leading scorer with a 15.6 average, was held scoreless. In New York, the Knicks led, 24-12, after one quarter but 7-foot-2 Gilmore, 6-9½ David Green-wood and 6-10 Dwight Jones be-gan frustrating the Knicks inside

The Pacers managed to cut the deficit to 10 points twice in the third quarter, but Philadelphia led. Transactions AASEBALL Americas Leosus CHICAGO WHITE SOX-Opiloned Mark Teutsch and Hector Eduarda, pilchers, to Ed-manton al the Pacific Cossi Leosue. Candilanni-ty sold Carlos Arravo, pilcher, to the Phildee philo Phillies' Delahama City form learn of the 91-79, at the end of the period. The Pacers cut it to 10 once again at on Billy Knight's hasket with 6:09 remaining, hut Dawkins sparked the American Association. CLEVELAND INDIANS—Traded Juan Bonil-to, second baseman, to the San Diego Podres for

76ers Stop Pacers,

Bulls Defeat Knicks

In Playoff Openers

PHILADELPHIA — Julius Erv-

ing scored 32 points and Bobby Jones and Darryl Dawkins added

20 apiece Tuesday night to lead

In New York, meanwhile, Artis with 3:13 left in the first quarter.

hut Jooes scored five points in a

The 76ers continued their hot

SEATTLE MARINERS-Released Dov

National Leoque NEW YDRK METS-Traded Joon Berensuer, pitcher, to the Kansas City Rovals for Marveil Wynne, outfieldar, and John Skinner, pitcher, As-signed Wynne and Skinner to Jackson of the Tex-

ES League, FOOTBALL Canadian Footboll League HAMILTON TIGER-CATS—Signed Ston John-son, defensive tockles, and Randoll Young and Phil Prohoska, offensive tockles, SASKATCHEWAN ROUGHRIDERS- Signed Bruce Wilkins, running bocks; Andre Jones, de fensive back, and Don Maxwell, defensive line

Red Smith

and forcing them to shoot from long range. By the half their lead was clipped to 40-35.

Remember Who Forgot to Duck

New York Times Service

NEW YORK - When John F. Kennedy was president, he attended an Army-Navy foothall game in Philadelphia and, as protocol dictates, watched one half from Navy's side of the field and the other from Army's. Between halves, cadets and midshipmen in uniform lined up in twin files flanking the 50-yard line to form an honor guard. The president walked between the ranks, hatless and without an overcoat.

Suddenly a drunk burst through the honor guard and staggered up to the president, getting within handshake distance before he was grabbed and hus-and such, some hureaucrats would be speechless. Dempsey's line is something else. It is a legitimate classic, well worth borrowing.

Chances are, if this president were quizzed, he would score 100 by identifying the sources of sports' other deathless lines, such as, "We wuz robbed," "I should of stood in hed," and "They trut me good."

For the benefit of the less informed, the late Joe Jacobs was responsible for the first two, and the third belongs to Rocky Graziano. Jacohs, the manager of Max Schmeling, screamed, "We wuz rohbed!" into a crophone on the night of June 21, 193; Jack Sharkey was awarded the decision and the heavyweight title after 15 rounds with Schmeling. Joe spoke the second line on a cold day in Detroit in October. 1934. He happened in be in Detroit on in October, 1934. He happened in De in Detroit on business, and somebody gave him a ticket to a World Series game between the Tigers and the Cardinals. His teeth were chattering when he was asked how he had enjoyed the game. "I should of stood in bed," he replied. Because he had slugged a captain, gone over the hill and done a hitch in Leavenworth during World War 11. Graziano was in had ocor with some boxing officials when he won the middleweight championship from Tony Zale in Chicago in 1947, However, authorities in Illinois had given him no trouble, and he had won the title and made a fat payday.

the Cook family.

Bob Cook: Leader of the pack.

L.T.T.

rett Wondering: What Next?

YORK — What do you, you've sung "Pagiacci?" you you paint after you've the ceiling of the Sistine What do you write after ritten "Moby Dick?" se ways, George Brett, a late artist with a baseball hand, is faced with a sitmilar to those that con-Enrico Caruso, Michelan-Herman Melville. to you do after yon've hit highest batting average in : leagues in 39 years?

14 Mei 194 - 4 Hei

- - - -

Areat Expectations

playing seven years in the eagues 1 expect some the Kansas City Royals' eman said recently prior ring training exhibition Tampa, Fla. "I expect to 300. Now, I don't know if 1 or .390. I have no idea. ays thought .300 was a eason. I don't know what L I do expect to hit over lo expect to hit over 20 is and I do expect to drive 30 runs, if I stay healthy. year at the all-star break, was hurt, I looked at my and said, 'Gee, I'm not drive in 100 runs, I'm not hit 20 home runs and I'm 3 to score 100 runs, and 1 doing two of those three think a plus for me is that set goals. I just expect ) do it and that's all I exmyself this year, another ut what do the fans exll, let's say, a .330 batting satisfy them?

Fans Don't Count

langelo created some things before and after ad the Sistine Chapel but ything quite as majestic, never wrote anything that mpare with "Moby Dick." after he hit 6! home runs, aris hit 33 and was booed. sple expect too much of m't care what people Brett said. "I never have red what people think. As 'm happy at the end of the my family's happy, the Jim Frey and the general and the owner of the ballhappy, that's all I should a't know what to expect on. I really don't. I didn't lat to expect last year, to t with you. I told myself if go out and duplicate the ### kind of year I had in 1979, it'd be a good year and that was only 329. Everything kind of mushroomed on me last year and the statistics really piled up and I had an incredible season. "I don't know what would be incredible this year after last year. As long as I have fun and the team wins and I put together some good statistics I'll be very happy." Brett acknowledges that he found happiness elusive last season. It was not the pressure of getting base hits. That part was easy. It was the demands on his time created by the news media that made life sometimes difficult.

KC: ₩. 1.K... 2. s. 1 12

George Brett --

sle last year and it became a big problem some days," Brett said, "but it's a good problem to have. I would like to do it again. I would like to do it every year and have that problem every year. If my hair falls out, my hair falls out. It's just something I think everybody would like to experience. If you

Exhibition Baseball Tuesday's Gomes

Boston 3. Minnesoto 1 Chicago (AL) 4. Kansos City 2 Acetracia, Boltanoro 6 Toronto 11. Philodeshio 7 Pittsburgh 4. Detroll 5 Heuston 4. Astania 6 Les Anestes 4. Charianati 5 New York Jal 14 St Louis 2. 10 inn Cleveland & California 1 . Milwoukse 11, Oskiend 10 Fortile 5 Chicson (NL) 4 San Francisco S. San Diege New Vork (AL) 2. Texas 1 cisco 5. Son Die year hitting .390 then you shouldn't be in the major leagues. "I always had a lot of fun during the games hot before and after the Hortford Colorado Detroit games I didn't have fun. This year my goal is to have fun on the field and off the field before and after all the games."

down on outside interferences. Although he was in great demand over the winter. Brett took a lowkey approach to personal appearances and interviews.

Helpful Brother

"I have someone who talks to people for me," Brett said. "My brother, Billy, out in California. Every time someone would call up and want to do something with me, they'd call the stadium because I have become very, very private. The stadium would call my secretary in Kansas City and she would call my brother in Califor-program.

The attention was really a has-wouldn't like to experience a great do it."

x-Buttolo x-Colgory z-Boston x-Minnesol x-Quebec * x-Chicago x-Vancouve Pittsburgh NY Ranget

New York Times

x-NY Islander: x-51. Louis x-Mantreal x-Los Angeles

z-Phil

x-Buffala

Brett has already begun to cut NHL Ex-Coach Indicted Again

TORONTO — Floyd Smith, a former head coach of the Buffalo Sabres and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been committed in the Ootario Supreme Court for trial on a charge of criminal negligence eausing death. Smith was charged after an au-tomohile accident on March 14. 1980, in which two persons were killed. In November, a Provincial Court judge dismissed the criminal negligence charge, hut committed

"I could have run around crazy, but I didn't want to do it. We just kind of laid back and I got a chance to do what I wanted to do and it wasn't hectic at all."

This spring Brett is having his troubles getting his swing in the proper groove. A hemorrhoid operation at the start of spring training (his second since last October) wed by a bout of food poisoning and then a touch of the fin severely hampered his conditioning

What's Possible?

Brett said he was not sure if batting .400 in a season is possible or "I don't know what I proved,"

he said. "Five more hits and I would have proved .400 was possible. I can look back right now and see 15 or 20 line drives that were caught and I can see 15 or 20 bloopers that fell in, so who knows if anybody can do it.

"I was over .400 for a month and a half it seemed like. Then 1 came down to two weeks left in the season and had one bad week and one great week and the one bad week killed me. I didn't get one cheap hit the last two weeks of the season. When I really needed them, that's when they left me. "I guess God, or Ted Williams" ghost, or somebody said 'Hey, if you're going to do it, you're going to earn it." I hit .430 the second half of the season. I don't know why I couldn't do that all year. I really don't know why. I just hope some day I'll get another chance to

COMPILED STANDINGS strength of Knight's belief that (Top 16 molte playoffs) W L T Phi. Jars 45 18 14 104 44 17 16 104 47 73 13 09 practice gets results. The victory over North Carolina was attributa-342 341 ble as much to the repetition on the practice court as to anything 43 22 13 99 3r2 229 43 23 12 98 328 279 41 21 14 96 311 245 else. Against Louisiana State in the 36

 19 20
 96 317
 237

 37
 77
 14
 86 310
 290

 36
 25 13
 85
 307
 263

 34 27
 17 85 282
 255 semifinals, the Hoosiers appeared to break away suddenly in the second half, overcoming a 3-point 30 32 15 75 293 342 deficit and winning casily. And J0
 J2
 L5
 75
 292 301

 28 30 19 75
 278
 284

 29
 36 12 70
 294
 305

 28 35
 14
 70
 306
 314

 27 35 15 69 310
 319

 70
 37
 13 67
 311 356
 they seemed to do the same against North Carolina, after having led by only a point at intermission.

Practice Makes Perfect

Some people think that Knight, a former Army coach, has halftime words of inspiration, a "win one for the Gipper" speech, every time his team goes into the locker room. But it is practice that gets the re-sults, and Knight may be the best practice coach since UCLA's John Wooden.

He drills his teams, goes over the drills repeatedly and then starts from the beginning. What effect does that have?

"Ours is a game of doing what we want to do the whole game," he said. "If we can do that, our ultimate objective is in break down a team over the whole 40 minutes. If we can stay with our defense and pressure the hall and stay with our offense and be patient, we've got control going inin the last part of the game.

Knight, who may lose his temper at times, never loses faith in his system. He kept his players running the same patterns, the same tled away.

Not So Funny

There was a moment of laughter in the press box, laughter that was stopped abruptly by one chilling thought: Suppose that guy had a gun. Suppose he wasn't drunk.

If the realization had not dawned before, the truth was driven home forcefully that day: If an assassin is prepared to sacrifice himself, there is no way to make his target safe.

Since that day, this truth has been impressed upon all of us again and again. No amount of planning and preparation by the Secret Service, no bulletproof car, no armed bodyguards can guarantee the safety of a public figure if an assassin is willing to risk capture or death. Especially in America, the occupant of political office cannot survive in a vacuum. He has to mingle with the electorate and take his chances.

Obviously Ronald Reagan realizes this. That much "Kon," she probably asked, "what happened?" "Honey," he said, "I forgot to duck."

That was Dutch Reagan, the old sportscaster, relying on memory. Reagan knew he was borrowing the Ine from Jack Dempsey. On Sept. 23, 1926, when Gene Tunney jabbed the face off Dempsey in Philadelphia and won the heavyweight championship of the world. Jack returned to the hotel where Estellc Taylor, his wife, was waiting. The sight of his beat-up features shocked her.

"Ginsberg!" she said, using her pet name for him. "What happened?" "Honey," Jack said, "I forgot to duck."

Dutch Reagan was 15 years old then, too young to have commented on the fight over the air, but Dempa sports fan, undoubtedly encountered it later on.

In official Washington, sportspeak is an essential part of the mother tongue. Without terms like "ball park figure," "his track record," "playing hardhall"

"I liked Chicago," he said, "They trut me good." Inevitably the attempted assassination revived talk about strengthening gun-control laws, a campaign that has not had ardent support from the president up to now. Wouldn't this experience alter his views?

Maybe, maybe not. The fact is, there is no valid reason why possession of a handgun should not be prohibited by law, though that would not keep the weapons out of the bands of assassins and other crim-

Good for One Thing

Handguns are not sporting goods like rifles and shotguns. They are not used for any normal kind of hunting, not even trap shooting. Target-practice com-petition could be held with toy guns and rubber-upped darts. The only practical civilian use for pistols and revolvers is shooting people. This being the case, the law ought to ban these weapons. Such a law may make it more difficult for a wife, in a moment of pique, to plug her ever-loving helpmeet. It would he observed by the law-abiding and ignored by the lawless.

President Reagan, who has waved plenty of six-shooters around playing cowboy in the movies, is perfectly aware of that.

ESCORTS & GUIDES CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS EEC CAPITALS - ESCORT SERVICE Germany (0) 7851-5719 (Continued from Back Page) ENGLISH ESCORT SERVICE Heathrow & London Areas. Tel: 01-754 6281. ESCORTS & GUIDES ESCORTS & GUIDES ESCORTS & GUIDES ICLINE ELITOPE Escort & Guide Ser-vice. Tel: 05/5892604 - 589 1146 10 om. - 10 pm. MIAMI, FT. LAUDERDALE, FLORIDA-Apple Pie Escort Service, Tel: (305) 949 9421 & 491 3055. EVERYWHERE YOU GO, AMERICA LONDON LONDON CAPRICE ESCORT AGENCY • 212-359-6273 Tel: 231 1158 or 231 98)8. ESCORT SERVICE AMSTERDAM APOLLO Econt Service. 76 Apollologan, Amsterdom (0) 20-766176 BELGRAVIA 212-961 1945/461 2421 ESCORT SERVICE TH: 736 5877 CLASSICS IN NEW YORK 766176. LOUISA ESCORT SERVICE Heathrow, Surray and London Areas, Tek DI 390 4699, noon-10pm. VERNIA - HARMONY Excort Servica. Tek 63 89 05 or 02244/2418. CONTACTA INTERNATIONAL e Escot Service in Europe GERMANY: 06103-86122 Frankfurt - Wiesboden - Mainz - Cologne - Benn - Duansteiner -Berlin - Manich - Hemburg. SWITZERLAND: 009-5103-86122 Zurich - Besel - Lucanse - Berne -Lessenne - Genove. BELGEUM: 049-5103-86122 BRISELM: 01-628 7969 NOW ALSO IN LOREDON. OTHER EEC CAPITALS Tak Germany 0-6103-86122 ZURICH LONDON ESCORT SERVICI Tel: 794 5218, 431 2784 TEL: 212-737 3291. que Escort and Guide MALE AND FEMALE Tel: 01/361 90 00 Tel: 53 89 05 or 02244/2418. VEHMA - MICHELE ESCORT Service. Tel: 57 47 64. BRUSSELS: Martine Econt Service. Tel: 428 01 42 offer 2 pm. BERLIN CITY ESCORT Service - Tel: (030) 874999. REANOCRET - WESBADEN - MAINZ SHIRLEY Econt Service 0611/282738. HAMBURG ESCORT SERVICE. Tel: 040 45 45 01. AMSTERDAM CACHET U.S.A. ESCORT GUIDE SERVICE Tel: 247731. ESCORT SERVICE ARISTOCATS NEW YOR: 212-242-0838 ~ 212-874-1310 MIAMI, FLORDA. 305-625-1722 I, LAUDERDALE, FLA. 305-962-547/ Escort Service LONDON 437 4741/2 LONDON CONTACT Escart Service Tel. 01-402 4000, 01-402 4008 OR 01-402 0282. 12 noon - midnich 040 45 65 01 DUESSELDORF ESCORT SERVICE. Tel: VERONIQUE ESCORT SERVICE Tel-252 8616 (London) from 2 pm - 11 pm. ELISABETH ESCORT SERVICE London, Other stoppy cities would bir on request FRANKFURT ESCORT AGENCY. Tel: 06(1 - 69)453. LONDON - CHELSEA GIRL Excert Ser-INTERNATIONAL vice, 51 Becuchamo Place, Londo SW3. Tel:01 584 6513/72/49,4-12 pm. ICONDON BLANCA Escort Service. Tel: 352 3667. tel: 883 0626. ESCORT SERVICE LONDON UNDON eee Tal: 01-628 7969 Omego Escori Service. ZURCH - Tal: 0049-6103-82048. LONDON TOWN Portman Escort Agency

AND PROMOTIONS NY-U.S.A. Travel arrywhere with multilingual excents. Major Crodit Cards Acarpted. 212-765-7896 or 765-7754. 330 W. 56th Sr., N.Y. N.T. 10019. international Ecorts anoded CDSMOS London needs escorts. Tel: London 01 723 2392. NEW YORK ESCORT SERVICE, Tel: 712-620-0133 or 712-620-0636. Omega Escort Service/Germany. FRANKFURT - KAREN Escort Service. Tel: 0611-581662. Escort Agency 752 7132. 67 Chiltern Street, London W1 TEL: 486 3724 or 486 1158 LONDON PERSONAL Guide Services. Phone: (1-229 9925 1Done-9pm. LONDON ANGELA Escort Service. Tels (1 435 7051) NEW YORK CITY: Elite Escort Service 2)2-966-0103. 222886-0103. AMSTERDAM-Jee Be Escort Service. 222785 Bulten Weringenstroot. 3 - 5. COPENHAGEN ESCOLUSIVE ESCORT SERVICE. Tel: 012 44 034, 5pm-12pm. FRANKFURT - MANIA Austriant Escort Service. Tel: 595046. GENEVA - JADE DURSSELDORF, BARONESS ENGLISH Exant Service. Tek 0211/38 31 41. CHANTELLE ESCORT SERVICE. Lon-don 231 1158 or 231 8818. IONDON DEBLE Excert Service, tel 01 589 0451 Excort Service - Tel: 022/31 95 09. LONDON JACQUELINE Excert Service. Tel: 402 79 49, WASHENGTON DC INIT'L. Escert Ser-vice. Tel: 703-998-0011 after 6 pm. LONDON SURI Escort Service. Tel: 01 352 )354. HANNOVER - FAIR Escort Service Tel: (0)511-82 72 57 LONDON EXECUTIVE Exert Service. JER 37346. Tel: 242 3108. Service. 20 38. 6 · 8 pm. Mon. - Fri. ZURICH-SUMONE ESCORT Service Tel: 242 85 10.

negligence charge, which carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment Padres' Mumpbrey Traded to Yankees United Press International FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. Switch-hitting outfielder Jerry Mumphrey of the San Diego Padres has been traded to the New York Yankees for outfielders Ruppert Jones and Joe Lefebvre and pitchers Tim Lollar and Chris Weish, the baseball clubs announced.

Smith for trial ou a charge of im-

Pacella, a 24-year-old pitcher who was landed by San Diego from the New York Mets in a previous deal for Randy Jones. Pacella was sent the season opener on April 9.

ESCORTS & GUIDES ESCORTS, N.Y. EVERYWHERE, U.S.A. ESCORT SERVICE, paired driving. The crown attorney, Aninn Zuraw, appealed the lower court decision and successfully obtained a new indictment, charging Smith with the more serious criminal

The Yankees also acquired John

Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees has a partially torn plantaris tendon and has had his right leg placed in a cast, the Yankees said. Jackson is expected to be sidelined for at least two weeks. which means he probably will miss to the Yankees' Triple-A farm club in Columbus, Ohio.

Jackson's Leg in Cast

The Associated Press FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla Page 24

Art Buchwald

The Nameless Ones to him, and asks you what you are

WASHINGTON — Anyone in the public eye, whether it be going to do about it. a movie star, a television personality, a politician, or even a colum-nist, has a better idea than most people of what happened in front of the Washington Hilton Monday afternoon.

Somewhere out in this country are sick people, who, though complete strangers, harbor bitter grievances E against wellknown individuals who have never done them any harm. But for some reason, they have decided that Buchwald a particular per-son is responsible for their pain.

The mail arrives and among the letters are the anouymous scrawls of anger and hate. The scrawls can be threatening, or they can make no sense at all. You tend to laugh them off, because you don't want to admit to yourself that some-body out there has chosen you as the target for their discontent.

The letters are either thrown into the wastebasket, or placed in the increasingly large "nut file" that you've built up over the years. Sometimes the mail continues for months and even years. Other times one letter is suffi-cient to relieve the person of whatever is bothering him. The hate and the anger and the frustration are not only transmitted through the mail, but also over the telephone. The stranger tells you what you have allegedly done

Single Bus Fare Set For London Suburbs

The Associated Press LONDON — Starting April 5, London suburb dwellers will no longer have to cope with an array of different bus fares. London Transport is introducing a single fare of 25 pence (about 55 cents). The new system applies, however, only to routes operating roughly five miles outside the city center.

In the core of the city where most tourists congregate, bus fares will still range in steps from 12 pence (27 cents) to 70 pence ($1.58), depending on the distance travelled. If the suburban plan works flat forms may be extended works, flat fares may be extended to central London, the spokesman

MOVING

YOU CAN

TRUST US

INTERDEAN

The

International

Mover

ICELONA

44.89.44 894.74.11 652.31.11 65.09.57 31.05.91

269.54.00

595 7664 (06190) 200 43.85.30

The trick is to talk calmly and assure him that whatever his assure nim that whatever his grievance is, you will look into it. You try to persuade him that you are not responsible for whatever is hurting him, and you end the con-versation as quietly and gently as you possibly can. Fortunately, very few people act out their fantasics of "getting even" with the person they have chosen as the one who is tormenting them.

But every once in a while someone decides he or she must take action.

* * *

The most obvious person in this country to take action against is the president of the United States. doesn't matter what party the It president belongs to, or what his political philosophy is.

The stranger has decided to have his day in the sun. The problem of obtaining a gun to carry out the fantasy is no problem. In almost any state you can buy a weapon. You can get one for as little as $20 or one for $200, and in many places you can buy a gun with no questions asked. Stalking a president is also no problem in a country where presi-dents mingle with the people. The opportunity to fire the gun is a matter of luck and daring. No Secret Service or umbrella of police personnel can protect a person from the stranger who is intent ou shooting someone. And sometimes the deed is carried out, as it was Monday, when a smiling president waved to a friendly crowd ou the streets of the

But presidents are not the only targets for the sick people who walk the land. The victims can also be John Lennon or a little black child in Atlanta.

And every time it happens, the American people rise up in anger and say "What can we do?"

Stop the sale of handguns? It might be a good beginning, but the gun lobby will never let it happen. Lock up every sick person in the country? It can't, and shouldn't be ways amongst us. But until the gun is fired, nobody knows his name. ©1981, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CAREFULLY SELECT

Your Detective

Whatever your problem pay be, happing at Central Office, 15 Ave, Victor Hugo, 75116 Paris, Tek 501 80 12 ar 500 77 00. Free consultation

AVOID A TAX PROBLEM are Michael Nebari & Co, Business Services

AA in English doily, Poris, Tak 325. 76.03./351.38.90.

HOLIDAYS & TRAVEL

ITALY - GREECE

of retirement to present the best picture

director, Robert Redford; best supporting actor, Timothy Hutton, son of the late ac-

The picture also won awards for best

From Agency Dispatches HOLLYWOOD — An address from President Reagan, taped before he was wounded, opened the 53d annual Academy Awards ceremony to five rounds of applause for his speech. Top bonors in the awards went to "Ordinary Bandle" as the bast victure of 1980 and to trophy.

capital of the United States.

tor Jim Hutton, and best screenplay based ou material from another medium for Al-award for his devastating performance as boxer Jake LaMotta in "Raging Bull." De Niro previously had been nominated for best actor for his roles in "Taxi Driver" in 1976 and in "The Deer Hunter" in 1978. He was named best supporting actor in 1974 for his part in "The Godfather Part Sissy Spacek won the best-actress award for her portrayal of singer Loretta Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter." Miss Spacek had been porminated for the same award in 1976 for "Carrie."

Mary Steenburgen was chosen best sup-porting actress for her role as the feisty wife in "Melvin and Howard."

Although the gala event was delayed for 24 hours because of the shooting of Presi-dent Reagan in Washington Monday, the mood of the evening was light and the re-cuperating president was even the target of comercial president was even the target of some of emcee Johnny Carson's goodnatured one-liners.

"I salute the academy for the influence its work has had on the world's most enduring art form. Film is forever," the presmarks. Carson, in white the and tails, told the andience at the Los Angele Music Center, "It was the president's express wish that we use that introduction. He asked for a television set in his room so he could view that introduction tonight."

A highlight of the night was presenta-tion of a special Oscar to Fonda, honoring a half-century of "brilliant accomplishments and enduring contribution to the art of motion pictures.

Redford, who usually shines the awards caremonies, presented the award to Fon-da, who walked to the stage with aid of a cane as the orchestra played "Red River Valley." the theme song from one of his most famous movies.

"I'm very proud and very grateful to the sovemors of the academy."

ORIGINAL SONG — "Fame," from "Fame," fusic: Michael Gore; Lyrie: Dean Pitchford. ORIGINAL SCORE — "Fame," Score: Michael

Gore. ORIGINAL SCREENPLAY - "Melvin and Boward, "Screenplay: Bo Goldman. CINEMATOGRAPHY — "Tess," Cinematogra-phers: Gooffrey Unsworth and Ghislain Cloquet. ART DIRECTION — "Tess," Art Direction: Pi-orre Guffroy, Jack Stephens, COSTUME DESIGN - "Tess," Costume De-

gn: Anthony Powell. EDITING - "Raging Ball," Editor: Theims

SOUND - "The Empire Strikes Back." Sound: Bill Varney, Stove Maslow, Gregg Landaker, Peter

DOCUMENTARY FEATURE — "From Mao to Mozart: Isaac Stern in China," The Bopewell Foun-dation, Minray Lerner, producer. DOCUMENTARY SHORT — "Karl Hess: Toward Liberty," Halle-Ladue Inc., Roland Halle, most famous movies. "It's been a very rewarding 46 years for me and this has got to be the climax," said Fonda, 76, who had never won an Oscar. Peter W. Ladas, producers. they were upsetting the area's ANIMATED SHORT — "The Fly," Pannonia Fine, Badapest, Ferenc Rofest, producer, DRAMATIC SHORT — "The Dollar Bottom," cate ecology, Cleveland An who heads the Fund For Anir organized a belicopter airlif Film, B tocking Hone Films Ltd., Lloyd Phillips, producer. TECHNICAL ACHIEVEMENT - Acme-Dunn nearly 600 burros out of G Other winners: FOREIGN LANGUAGE PILM - "Mancow Does Not Believe in Tears," Mostilia Studio Produo Optical Printer. SPECIAL ACHIEVEMENT, VISUAL EF-FECTS — "The Empire Strikes Back." Canyon. Some are being add others are being sold to help for the rescue operation. -- SAMUEL JUST SHOPPING HOTELS RESTAURANTS NIGHT CLUBS ROSENTHAL Fine China, Crystal & Cutlery Write for cotologue. U.S.A. REAL ESTATE WANTED/EXCHANGE EMPLOYMENT. LOW COST FLIGH

Sissy Spacek, Robert De Niro Capture Top Acting Honors Robert De Niro won the best actor gram, "Film Forever," in his brief re-

PEOPLE:

Spine Surgery Slat For Richard Burio

Actor Richard Burton will go neurosurgery within 10 da relieve severe spinal pain forced him to withdraw from cast of "Camelot," his may says. "The doctors sent him to recover from the vestiges severe viral infection." V Douglas said. "They don't any of that floating around they operate, and they fe would be more comfortable rest better at home." Burton admitted to a Santa Monica tal last Friday. Douglas said 55-year-old Burton will contin take painkillers "because the nal) pain is quite severe," bu declined to discuss the name the viral infection, except to had resulted in Burton contra tracheal bronchitis. At times pain has been so bad that Bi — in his role as King Arth-"Cameloi" — was unable to h sword and had to knight othe tors with his left hand. Bur last performance in the play. March 17 — more than months before the play was se uled to end its run.

* * *

Beautiful blonde Sigrid G Williams is married to the we top animal trainer - and afraid of animals. "I wouldn't walk over to that llama alone, walk over to that llama alone; said at Madison Square Ga where her husband, Gunther bel-Williams, performs with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & ley Circus. She says she can only with little animals. raised 12 tigers, 12 cougars leopards, one giraffe, two kids one miniature poodle. Tm training one busband." Son B 10. somewhat to her distress. v

10, somewhat to her distress, to be an animal trainer like dad.

Banjo picker Roy Clark and manager, Jim Halsey, have d ed to become adoptive par Clark and Halsey adopted a of Arizona burros. The wild bu come from the Grand Ca where the National Park Se planned to destroy them be vin Sargent. "Ordinary People" was Redford's first directing effort and the 20-year-old Hutton's first movie role. tion (U.S.S.R.) ident said, setting the theme of the pro-CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS REAL ESTATE FOR SALE REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE TUDOR HOTHI, 304 East 42nd Street, New York City, Ia fash ionoble, East Side Manhanton, Ind black from UNC, Single from $48 chuddes from $60, Tailou 422951. TEACHINC POSITIONS ESROPE - N.Y. Frs. 815; Rou Frs. 1,630, ITS 225 12 39 Ports. INT'L OFFICE PARIS AREA FURNISHED FRENCH PROVINCES PARES AREA FURNISHED PARTS AREA FURNISHED ROY STATE UNIVERSITY seeking ful and port time faculty. Graduate and undergraduate programs throughout Europa, Bonnas Administration, Pol Science, and Math, Sand restame Post Science, and Math, Sand restame Post Science, GOD Winstaden/Germ. SERIES FOR ITS MANAGEMENT outfind high class oportment, 4 roo and more. Parts 285 11 DR. CONCOMDE 5 R. Cambon. 2003889 Roams, confact, private shower phane. Daily/anathity rote. HALLES: FOR 6 MONTHS, ecceptions 3 roams, histories, both, phone. To 5000. Tell 764 (3 17, 1999) 5. How configure both of the state 57, TROPEZ Sell land in ane lat, more than 7 hec-tares, noor Romatuelle for Indel devel paraent or intentionari, G 18-11514, Publicitas, CH 1211 Genera 3. AT HOME IN PARTS RANELAGH (Paris 16th) FOR SALE & WANTED PARIS PROMO studio, high class, 40 sq.m., oil comfort Frs 1900 charges included. 503 19 04 PAGE 23 FURNISHED & UNFURNISHED AT RECENTIOQUE'S exceptional rate for 1 week from 10am, to 7pm, 'Ton Cludicali dresses, Very low prices, age F 4700 ead F 1250, 95 new de la Pompe, 75116, Paris, Tek 704 30 28, FOR MORE EMPLOYMENT COLLE LARGE STUDIO, Litcher, bra of comforts. Frs 1500, Tele 296 61 38 CLASSIFIEDS 5 Ave. Hoche 75006 Paris 563 25 60 DOMESTIC POSITIONS WANTED 4 Jaarrious double Frin 4 Jaadrooms both, phones Frs. 6500. Tel: 503 68 38. FOCH GREAT BRITAIN EXECUTIVES AVAILABLE NGLISH NANNES & Mothars' Halps free now, Nosh Agency, 27 Grand Pa-rock, Brighton, UK, Tal; 682 666. MERICAN BARTISTER available. Metrogamericand Revis 280 (15 St PARTS AREA UNFURNESSED furnished appriment, 2 bedrooms STAYING IN PARIS? U.$.A. a bichen, color 1 FTE. CHAMPERET 500 63 51 V., phone PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD FURNESHED & UNFURNESHED , OCTV security EXPERIENCED GERMAN EXECUTIVE

The truth of the matter is that there is very little that can be done, The brooding stranger, who dreams of taking his revenge, is al-

both, in 24 hou

People" as the best picture of 1980 and to Henry Fonda, who received an honorary Oscar for his 46-year career. "Ordinary People," the story of a mid-dio-class couple and their suicidal teen-age son, was the top award winner in Tuesday night's program, watched by an estimated 300 million television viewers in 66 coun-tries, bringing in four of the gold sta-tuettes. Actress Lillian Gish, 84, came out

| GENEVA: 43,85,30THE HAGUE: 601108HOUSTON: 448,9553LONDON: 961,41,41                                                                            | BY RAIL ANDCAR FERRY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | porting, seimming pool, £120,000.P.O. Ros 113-5522 Berut Laboron, Tix22337 LE, Tek 343664/310187.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | HIRST-CLARE APAILTMENTS.Minimum rentol 2 months.Also ficia 3 havens for sale.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | AVE. FOCH Superb opertmentfor receptionsFig 7500, Tal 280 20 42.                                                                                                                                                                     | 4 rooms, newly redona, Frs 27007 rooms, Sitt floor, elevator, Frs 6000.                                                                    | RESIDING IN U.S.A.Reart English/German/French. Manyyears in commodity trading and market                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | AUTOMOBILES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | QUICKLY AND EASILY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| LONG BEACH 598 5511MADEED 671,24,50                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | PABIS & SUBURBS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Paris (84), Tol. 563,17.77.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Tide DUE DEPARTURE: Free Instaction                                                                                                                                                                                                          | IA CELLE ST. CLOUD ELYSEES # LorgeSving. 4 bedroom, 2 buffs, excitonedbitters, bakenes the series for 2001 14                          | Reset English/Cernary/French, Manyyears in commodify trading and market-ing of industried and community products.Social opportunity to develop or enlargebainme of Baropean company in orfrom U.S.A. Caster School for Don                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | BUILLET PROOF CARS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | BY PHONE: Call your local IHT representative with yourYou , will be informed of the cast immediately, andprepayment is made your od will appear within 48 hour                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| MILNICH, 14150.36MAPLES, 788.32.88NEW YORK, 3711760PARIS, 742.85.11ROME, 473.49.57VENNA, 82.4344ZURICH, 346.20.00                  | BRINDISI - PATRAS -ATHENS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | P. MONCEAU (near)Upper floor, high das apartment with                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | EMBASSY SERVICE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 16th DUE DEPARTURE: Free instantsonly vary high does, surry high himing, 2 behavona, 2 beha, poring, cel-lar, Fre 10,413/month charges includeed & hotfind lawynoney, Laurious formiture 6. BMW cost for sole, 553 25 78 | TROPADER IS A TOP TO                                                                                                                           | HAL, DIORHYME, INT TUVUS USAC .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 4 COONIC Droughoms                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | BY MAILs Send your text to your local INT representativeyou will be advised of the cast in local currency by aPayment before publication is necessary.                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| VENNA: $2.43.44ZURICH: 368.20.00                                                                                                                      | ON THE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | chang, 7 room + maids' room,becutiful reception, Tal. 265 32 09.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 8 Ave. de Messine, 75008 ParísYour Real EstateAgent in París 562 78 99                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | ACTERES (mear Saint-Germain)Beau-tiful villa, 5 rooms, garden, garage,Fra. 4,000 net. Tek 222 08 19;                                                                                                                                 | upper floor. Tek 265 98 15.HANDRED HOUSE HUNTERS. Let us doyour footwork. CSU, Paris 758 12 40.                                        | Police, BSc angenaring, Roart English,French, Portugues, 15 yrs. acpartiancein southwest African incomport & de-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 2 Mercadas 450 S2Ls 2 BWW's.SPECIAL PROTECTION EQUIPMENTINCLUDES, Lavel IV bullet proding,genetic dual reinforced ross bumpars,liadrop recovery tracking system, bull-instrivelines systems, keets most popheni-cated anti-terraris systems, Keets most popheni-systems, Keets most popheni-most popheni-systems, Keets most popheni-most popheni-systems, Keets most popheni-most p | BY TREEX: If you have on urgent business text, telex upit will be published within 48 hours in our INTERNATIOBUSINESS MESSAGE CENTER.                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| ALLIED                                                                                                                                                     | EURAILPASS SHIPS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | LEDEU ROLLIN (12mme), immeubleXVIIe Style MARAIS, poutres, beou 4                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                | ferne mariats. Perfect issowiedge ofexport, credit & financing, barter op-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | serverilance systems, lotest most sophisti-cated anti-terrorist systems.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | For your guidance: the basic rate is $8.20 per line per (                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| VAN LINESINTERNATIONAL                                                                                                                                 | EGNATIA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | LEDELL ROLLEN (12mms), ImmeddeXVIIe Style MARAIS, poures, beau 4pleos, parfar etw 86 m2 + coursColme, solial, F775,000, Talephonerapres 18h 340 36 98.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Internationa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | l Business Me                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | ssage Center                                                                                                                                   | BUSINESS EXECUTIVE 23, NorthernHolion, BSC engineering, Runnt English,Franch, Portegozies, 15 yrs. experiencein southwest Africa Istramort & de-ferne mariats. Perfect boowindge ofexport, careful & financing, bartier op-eration, contracting procedures. Topcontacts & inviernance. Serving at pre-ent as economic advisor to an Africangovernment, seeks any chollenge withexport oriented co. In Europe or US.Presse contact S.P. CANT. 23 rueFronce contact S.P. any conductive                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Call Mr. Comey in Paris 720 39'61.In London 01 629 0223.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | For your guidance: the basic rate is $8.20 per line per alocal taxes. There are 25 letters, signs and spaces in thline and 36 in the following lines. Minimum space is 2 lineabbreviations accepted.                                                                                                                                                        |
| GET & MOVER YOU KNOW                                                                                                                                       | ESPRESSO GRECIA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | SPAINSPLENDED RESIDENCE, 5 bedrooms, 5                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | ATTENTION BUSINESSME                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | t: Publish your Business Manage in the                                                                                                                                                                                                       | International Herniel Tribune;                                                                                                                 | Protect contact S.F. O.N.T. 23 rueFrancois Ter, 75008 Paris, Franca.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 1978 CADRLAC SEVILLE, Mae new.Owner going home. French for poid.$ 12,000, Paris 285 44 06 10am-10pm                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | in all the above cases, you can now                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| GERMANY: INTL MOVINGSERVICESFronkfurt, 0611-781006, Moriet, 067-142244, Hanborg, 062-249542, Dussel-dorf, 02102-45023/24,                  | ALSO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | pool, solarium, a swingt, aprory, swinstangpool, solarium, garages, 4300 sc.m.land situated at Duarts de Fortugal,Satogrande, San Boose, Cadiz en Re-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | your message. Just select us Pa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | ders worldmide, most of ukam are in bris 613595, before 10:00 a.m. anoringhin 48 hours. You will be billed at U.S                                                                                                                    | insines and industry, will readthat we can take you back and$ $3,00 or local activation are                                          | from London with nine years experi-ence in the Accountancy Profession,make a position in a European or                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | AUTO RENTALS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | American Express Card account,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | golf course of Sologrands, very at-tractive price. Consoct: Means. Hau-chmann, Manfrisi, Chevaller - Buen-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | line. You must include compl                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | the and verifiable billing address.                                                                                                                                                                                                          | S. S. S. LO & MARK OPENDING POP                                                                                                                | Scandinovian city. Any position consid-ered, vrilling to learn local language.Please write to Bax 29016, HIT, 103                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | S25 PEE DAY, unlimited mileoge. AU-TOHANSA, Franzensbrueckum St. S,A-1020 Vienno, tel. 24 16 94.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Cards Place indicate the following:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| FRANCE: 14 r. de la Vega, Paris 12Contact: Mr. McBan.Tel: 343 23 64                                                                                | IN 3½ HOURS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | SPLENDID RESIDENCE, 5 badroom, 5bohroom, 3 fiving, larory, animalingpool, solarium, goroges, 400 sp.h.Iond initiated of Duorte de Portugal,Solagrande, San Roque, Coda on Riegolf course of Solagrands, very of-tractive price, Certech Mears. Hau-chmann, Mantins, Oravellier - Buen-sol 3, Place de Molerd, 1204 Genevo,Tel 022 8 22 66, Teo 2899114 HMCCH. | BUSINESS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | BUSINESS SERVICES                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | DIAMONDS                                                                                                                                       | Froncois ter, 75008 Paris, Franca.ACCOUNTIANT: 37, pari-qualited,from London with may years experi-ence a presiden in a European orScantisionian diy, Any paesian consid-ered, withing to learn local farguage.Pieces write to Box 20016, HT, 103Kingsway, London WC2.US MARKETING EUECUTIVE, experi-enced in Africa contracts ingostation,sales, experime VII memoryoptimized and Africa contracts ingostation,sales, experimental with memoryoptimized and Africa contracts ingostation,sales, experime State With an encour-generation, develop new business.Franch speeding. Soc 638, Herald Tri-bane, V2321 NewBy cedex, France.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | AUTO SHIPPING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | NAME.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                            | Wild Inc                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | SPANISH CLUB Property Echibition, 5Covencient Scenare, London WI, 601.98040133 4/5/6th April 11.30 to 5.30.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | COMPUTER PORTRAITS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | HOW TO AVOIDA JUNE 15 TAX PROBLEM                                                                                                                                                                                                        | DIAMONDS                                                                                                                                       | eperctions, develop new business.Hundrid specification for solutions and the specification of the specification o | TRANSCAR 20 rue Le Sueur, 75116Paris. Tel: 500 03 04. Modeid 411 19-51Antwerp 33 99 85. Connes 39 43 44.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | COUNTRY,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| NT'L MOVING & ECPORT, baggage.Ar 8 sea freight, imparts, containers.Marin'Air Fret, 8 r. Duban, Paris 16.Tel: 288 73 97, 647 70 11 Tix 630685F | Ali JumboHydrofoil                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | CH.SPANISH CLUB Progenty Exhibition, 5Covencieth Square, Lendon W1. (D1.5904013) 4/5/6th April 11.30 to 5.20.PROFERITY COSTA DES SOLUDS 22.000 to USS 150,000, Torvenei-tions to baspoore and Gitrarbor. Talk toGeraid Elia, over 12 years sellingproperty to OVERSEAS CLIPITS. Aff-envord Box 17, Avence Beach, Estepo-ne (Malage).                          | COMPUTER PORTRAITSIN FULL COLOR OR 3 & WAN INSTANT MOREY MAKETHAT CAN EARN YOU$6000+$8000 per membA potroit from a five adject of from aphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beinstantly transitived on to a 1-start orphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beinstantly transitived on to a 1-start orphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beinstantly transitived on to a 1-start orphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beinstantly transitived on to a 1-start orphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beinstantly transitived on the a 1-start orphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beprimera measure, causers, show, house, the shop-ping centers, reach, show, house, the shop-show of the shop of the shop-show of the shop of the shop-show of the shop of the shop-show of the show of the shop-show of the shop of the shop-show of the show of the show of the show of the shop-show of | must file their tax rature. A difficult ex-ercise at the best of fines and not aidedby all the complications of firing and                                                                                                           | Year best buy.Fine diamonds in any price rangeat lowest wholesale prices                                                               | GENERAL POSITIONSAVAILABLE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | AUTOS TAX FREE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Flease charge my od to my American Express Card o                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| CONTINUES: TEL 281 1881 PARIS.Near OPERA: Air & Sea to of coun-tries. Economy rates. Also baggage.                                                 | A Joint Service By:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | property to OVERSEAS CLENTS, Af-erward Box 17, Arena Beach, Estepa-na (Malaga).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | A portrait from a live subject or from aphoto in less than 60 sec. This can beententie transformed on the transformed on the sec.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | working alarsed. Michael Nebon & Co.with offices in London and the U.S. arehighly qualified and very experienced                                                                                                                     | direct from Antworpcenter of the diamond world.Full guarantee.For free price to write                                              | NERCED MAMEDIATELY for privatedivic 1.1 Clustified muse, net solary                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | TAX FREE CARS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| ANNOUNCEMENTS                                                                                                                                              | HELLING MEDITERANEANUNESADMATIC S. A.N.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | U.S.A.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | reast any fustile item. Full or part-time.ALL CASH BUSINESS. Fortable. No ex-perience resourcey, Excellent for shap-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | sive and professional service. Avoid afor problem. Eng. write or hear Mi-choel Nelson. Eng. write or hear Mi-choel Nelson.                                                                                                       | Ful guarantee.For free price fot writeJoanhun GuidemetenStatutegeortEnclosed 1928                                              | NEEDED MMMEDIATELY for privatedivice 1.1 Caudified novae, net solaryline 7500.000 and 2.1 Theather siderynet reakary line 8.255,000 - Both from inCritica Withe Circles Son Laco, StradeDelia Verte, 47, 10020 Eremo DiPacotto (Turin, Noy).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | ALL MAKES & MODELSwith Swiss Scince plates.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| SUBSCRIBE                                                                                                                                                  | AND ALISCAR Sour.FOR FULL DETARS, CALL                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | RELOCATION TO USAT P. Brecher,LADD & NICHOLS INC., Greatwich,C. in Paris for 3 days to called in yourtransfer to Fairfield County, 500 83 47                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | ping centers, resorts, shows, hotels, mostorder, carnivols, fairs or any high inofficlocation. Total price DM 37-580 which                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Netion & Co., 159 New Bond Street.LONDON WIY 97A, UKTel: 01 493 8166. Teles. 8955510.                                                                                                                                                | EncoherenceEncoherence 22, 8-2000 AntwerpSalgium - Tal: Q 31/34.07.51The: 71779 rd b. At the Diamond chids.                        | Della Vetta, 47, 10020 Eremo DiPecetto (Turin, Rohy).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | RAMPY MOTORS INC.1290 Genero-Vencic, 89 route SeisseTeli 022/55 44 43, Teles 282793007 Berre, Sulgerrain 28Teli 031/45 10 45, Teles: 33850.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | from                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| An Man                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | RETENT TO PERMIT COUNTY, SAV BS AV                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | KEMA COMPUTER SYSTEMS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Heart of the Antwerp Diamond industry.                                                                                                         | young man, U.S. nationality preferred,as packer and relief cashier for anystal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 3007 Berne, Sulgerman 28Tek 031/45 10 45, Telas: 33850.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| INTERNATIONAL                                                                                                                                              | LONDON                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | REAL ESTATETO RENT/SHARE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 6 PRANCPURT GERMANY,TELEX: 412713 KEMA.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | closs guides with private cor to anjoyyour stay in Paris. 775 21 00.                                                                                                                                                                     | OFFICE SERVICES                                                                                                                                | Valider (1016), 1937).URGENTLY RECURRED: energeticyoung man, U.S. notionality prelemad,as packer and relief cashier for aystel8. portalism boutique, Concerte area.God conditions permanent position.Col per 256 12 (02 act. 2017 for in-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | TRANSCO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | at our office nearest you                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| HERALD                                                                                                                                                     | HEANGRURT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | GBEAT BRITAIN                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Office hours 10 a.m.6 p.m.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | pared by CPA in Para. Tel 265 30 93                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Zurich is best !                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | TAX FREE CARS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | PARIS (HEAD OFFICE)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| TRIBUNE                                                                                                                                                    | GENEVA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | CITY OF LONDON                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | US TAX RETURNS prepared by CAPfirst in Son Francisco. 415 956-2124.                                                                                                                                                                      | Your Business Address                                                                                                                          | GENERAL POSITIONS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Sand for free catalog & stock list, 95Noorderloan, 2030 Antwerp, Belgium,Tel: 031-425240; Tbu 35207 TRANS-B.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | For France and all countries not listed below181 Ave. Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Neuilly Ca                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| AND SAVE.                                                                                                                                                  | 2210871BERN 257611, 21087GENEVA 357611, 21087BRUSSES 4374584, 5138599BRUSSES 4374584, 5138599BRUSSES 4574584, 5138599BRUSSE 2246141, 4740789AMSTERDAM 274078, 2246405VERNA 520176, 453618BRINDISL 24441, 23425                                         | New fully furnished knowy flats to let ina prime apartment black with all man-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Experienced Restaurantand Catering Chet/ Hanager                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | COMMERCIALPREMISES                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | or Office in Switzerland                                                                                                                       | AMERICAN STUDIENT SIEKS womenwork in France, species fivent French,intelligent, personable, hardworking,Cell Mart, Paris 322 12 47 (mornings).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Tel.: 747-12-65, Telex: 613595.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| As a new subscriber to theInternational Herald Tribune,you can save up to 50%of the newstand proce, dependingon your country of residence. | VENNA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | New fully furnished knowy flats to let ina prime opertment black with rel smas-ties. Studio, kicken and before in rame125 per week. I bectoon, I ream-sion, latchen and betwoont from £250art unet.                                                                                                                                                                               | 2 years formed incining in England, 6years practical exponence in some NewYork Issury metyorane, will conduce alserious proposals for association part-nership or management, regarding top-standing resources in Athens, Greeca.Write Hendel Tribune, est. P. Prindorou26, Athens or phase 3052217 Mandaythru Friday, 9 AMJ/2 P.M.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | YOUR PARIS OFFICE                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | NTERNATIONAL OFFICE42 Rammen, OH8007 ZurichTel. 01/2012 29 15, Telex 012656 inof.                                                      | Coli Most, Paris 322 12 47 (mornings),AMERICAN UNIVERSITY Professor ofPhilosophy urgently seeks someone co-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | MERCIEDES 500 SEL, LambarghiniCountach 5/1981, new exstent Swisz.Tel: 031-580/41, Tex 33802 CH                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | ELECTE         SPAB: Alfredo Linkouff           AUSTREA: AtcKm: Write, Bont-game, 8, Rm, 215, Vienna 1. (Tel:6384/06)         1, Officer 319, Modrid45533104-45528291, Tel:COVXE, 46156 COVXE.           BELGRIAM & LUXENDOLIEG:Arthur Masner, 6 Run Louis Hy-morrs, 1060 Bruesets, Tel:343,18,99, Telem 23922 AMC.         Telem 23922 AMC. |
| on your country of residence.For detailson this special introductory offer,                                                                        | CHARTER & VALEF YACHT IN GRIEGE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Por week.Full details fromCHARLES PROCE AND COMPANY01-831 6661 24 bourd.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | renting or management, regarding top-standing restaurow in Athena, Greece.Write Rendid Tribune, est, P. Pindarov                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Let a professional relocation service findthe perfect premises for your businessactivity, for details call CSU 758 12 40.                                                                                                            | Tet. 01/211 29 15. Telex 812656 inof.• Office address fudilities: withmailbox, phone, talex.                                           | AMERICAN UNIVERSITY Fortunes ofPhilosophy urgently such sources ofpaties of translating outprivide philoso-phy and Franch. Call 766 17 64. Paris.PARSS & TRAVELS. PLA accompanybusiness executive. Tek 553 74 27                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | SERVICES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | AUSTREAL AddGm White, Bank. 10 Office 319 Moderalgames, Am. 215, Vienna 1. (Tel.2684.063)BELGILIM & LUXENBOURG: and Anatol White, Te                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| write to:                                                                                                                                                  | direct from owner of largest fleet inEurope. American management. Exal-                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 01-837 6661 (24 hound).Tales: 8954675 CLIFIN (3.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 26, Athens or phone 3602421 Mondaythru Friday, 9 A.M./2 P.M.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | <ul> <li>Your mall, manages, telecas andorders received and forwarded.</li> </ul>                                                         | SIECHETARIALPOSITIONS AVAILABLE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | TECHNICAL INTERPRETEISS in Franch,English, Arobic, Sponiah, German, Jap-omen, Boolient references in industry,MAT, 3 Villa Poriner Tellar566 69 33 The 203 501.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Arthur Maismar, 6 Run Louis Hy.Marthur Maismar, 6 Run Louis Hy.15 Chamin Davel, 100mans, 1060 Bruesek.343.18.99: Telen: 23922 AMX.Telen: 23722 GVT CH.                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| HT Subscriptions Department,181, Avenue Charles-de-Caulle,92200 Neathy-an-Seine, Prance,Or phane Parls 747-12-65 act, 305.                     | Greef from evene of Korgest Reef inEurope. American monogoment. Beal-lent crws, service, micinetrance, povi-bonded, Volet Yachts LHL, Ala Them-istoldeous 22K, Firosea, Greece. Tel.4229571, 4529486, Telest 21-2000.                                                  | LONDONOverlacting Regents Park                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | WE MANUKACTURE AND EXPORT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | DIAMONDS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | <ul> <li>Trilingval waretaries bearly.</li> </ul>                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 566 69 33 Tag 203 501.ROME-FERMIE SISTINA. A full recimof beauty and hair core. Fun boatique.V. Sating 75, Tek 678 02 60.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | SKITISH ISLES: For scheeripfices OTHERS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| IN ASIA AND PACIFIC                                                                                                                                        | GREECE BY YACHT Mator/Sail to dis-cover 2000 islands at laisure. PN ONTHE SEA, Botgai 1, Proses, Greece.                                                                                                                                                                           | Overlocking Regents Park2-bedroom furnished Ret, withPorterage, $1000 per month indusive.Tel: 01 493 8366.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | WE MANUFACTURE AND EXPORTSCHEEZE PLASTIC TOYS for childrenand path Good worknowsful, compati-tive prices, prompt delivery, interstedimportent plana contact. MagnificantCompany, Central PLO, Ban K-3981,Henry Yang, Tahu, Alago Balaki LW                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | A Trashearthy InvestmentWith a Constant Increase in Value.                                                                                                                                                                               | • Fully furnished assignm offices,                                                                                                             | biling of Facility and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | V. Sating 75, Tel 678 02 60.PL/INSERMEDIA & TOURISM GUEDE.English/Franch. Rais 562 05 87.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | wartising only contects Diana Sam-mons, D.I.T. 103 Kingsway, Lon-don, W.C.2. (Fol: 405 2243,Teles: 262.009.)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| contact our local distributor onInternational Hermid Tributor                                                                                          | 10: 4524069. Th: 211249.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | and houses. Cossult the Specialists:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Thing words Tonics and a strate The                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | chose diamonds for investment from the                                                                                                                                                                                                       | YOUR OFFICE BRUSSELS                                                                                                                           | trilingual English, German, French,mother tangue English, French or Ger-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | TOP TOURIST CUIDE for visits in Paris.Tak 758 66 13.MENGUAL DUSINESS and traveling                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | GERMANY - Fer subscriptions CALH2                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| International Herald Tribuca1801 Tai Sang Commercial Building24-34 Heaneasy RoadHONG KONG                                                      | AIRLINE COUPONS ½ fore on TWA,PAA, etc. 24 hrs. (USA), 202-347-5303.                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Philips, Kay and Lowis, Tel.: Landon839 2245.LONDON SW1. Lucary, serviced flatsfrom 580/week. Tel; 730 7668.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | SURGICAL APPLIANCE BUSINESSman Principlia, very professie. Ful-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Now you have the opportunity to pur-chase diamonds for investment from theleading first source diamont companyof the diamond genera of the work.Write for free booklet "Practical Guide                                      | DYNAMIC OFFICE SERVICE,Ave. do la Tancho 2, B-1160 SrussolsTat 660-2440, The 25387 oved b.                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | PARIS EXPERIMENTS ATTRACTIVE IN                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | GERMANY: Far advertistionscontext the Paris office. For ad-variating context: Heid Jang orKarin Chil, LHT, Grass Editor,furt/Main: (fel: 23 3678. Tales)MARAN Todob Main, Ma416721, IHTD.)                                                                                                                                                       |
| Tel: HK 5-286726                                                                                                                                           | REAL ESTATEFOR SALE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | from $20/week. Tel; 730 7668.HOLLAND                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | SURGECAL APPLIANCE BUSINESSmar Pridaddiphia, very profitable. Ful-ly staffed 3 offices, principal presentlycapaciting from achrodul, immediate ex-pansion possible. Schoble forpartner-thip, sole or chasteries management.Afrikmum USS 100,000 cosh required.R. Tangan 16/3 En Roged, V3543Januscien, Israel Tak (02/13339, fbz.20144 EXIM E. afte. TanganTAX HAVEN MANILA Information                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | for Diamond Investment' or visit us with-out obligation.All diamonds guaranteed by certificate.                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | terpreter, 4 languages, 633 97 88.IUSINESS INTERPRETER and tourismguide. Paris 774 75 65.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | furt/Main: (162, 283678, Telesa416721, IHTD.) JAPANI: Todesh Mon, MaJapani Todesh Mon, MaJapani Todesh Mon, Ma                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| SURSCRIBE TOTHE WALL STREET                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | OUTCH HOUSING CENTRE B.V.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Afrimum US$100,000 cmh required,R. Torgon 16/3 En Rogel, 93543                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Head Office 30-52 Hovenierstruct.                                                                                                                                                                                                            | NTERNATIONAL OFFICE SERVICESAf Anteriations International AlepertP.O.B. 7558, 1117 2H SO-EHOLTac 18757. Tel: (1) 2D-438622/437336. | English, Belgion, Dutch or Germansecretaries, knowledge of French re-quired, English shorthand, BilingualMandats, Write or phone 138 AwenueWaterstime 2014 Christ                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | FR/GRNL FRIDAY. Mingual, travelingassistant. Puris 527 01 93.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | GREECE & CYNELIS: J.C. Rannes-son, Findarou 26, Athens. (rul. 504 1925,361 1927, 73602427, Toles: 214227 LEBANCON, JORDAN,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| JOURNAL                                                                                                                                                    | FRENCE PROVINCES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Dekze rontok. Volariumtr. 174,Amsterdom, 020-721234 or 723222.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 26144 BUM L cite. TarganTAX HAVEN MANUAL Independen                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Teli 031/31 77 64. Tie: 35395 indice b.                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                | 777-41-69                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | LEGAL SERVICES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| INTERNATIONAL AIR EDITIONRates for U.K. & Continental Europe:                                                                                          | Private sells                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | HOMEPENDERS INT. For your house orRet in Anglerdon, Beethoverstr. 811077HP AMSTERDAM 020 / 797956.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | TAX HAVEN MANUAL Independenttox planning tool loaded with data.For capy and $25 to: Cortian Press,POB 1159, DK-1011 Capier/ragen X                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | London: Inn on the Park, Hamilton Pisco- Park Lone, London W1,Tel: 01-407 1844                                                                                                                                                       | LONDON OFFICE ADDRESS, Confi-sential mail leavancing, phone &takes, Buimes with Pleasure, 31 Cro-ven St., Lundon WC2, 01 6397461.  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | NO MORE VISAS. European repre-sentative Costa Rica law office pro-vides you with worldwide acceptedtravel documents, White Baltsdore &Costi, 54/B Via Veneto, 00187 Rome.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | chilo Marceda, 00187 Roma, (Tel. Suracci, 335252, Telan 2679-34-37. Telaco 610 161.) SINGAPORE, MALAYSL                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| $235                                                                                                                                                      | 5 bedrooms, pool, tenne, cartakers'house and outputchas.Tet (93) 46 00 68.                                                                                                                                                                                                         | TALX                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | BUSINESS SERVICES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | EXPORT PRICES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | von St., London WC2 01 839 7481.LONDON BUSINESS ADDRESS/PHONE/TELEX. Executing, Suite 66,87 Regent St., W1. Tel.: 439 7034.        | Den't missInternationalSecretarian Positions                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | NETHERLANDS: Arnold Teesing/Afore Grin, Prof. Telestroat 17,1018 GZ. Amperdum, Telu 020-12653615. Teles: 13132.MICHOS SINCAPORE 14MICHOS SINCAPORE 102653615. Teles: RS24137                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Payable in dollars or equivalent in localcarrancy.Delivery by Jet Air Freight from NewYork every busines day.                                  | CANNESs 10 kms. from Grane, morvel-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | When in Rome:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | PROBLEMS WITH U.S. FISHIS? Needto locate U.S. supplies or product?We will get an an amount for your some                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | DIAMONDS & JEWELRY                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | TINCH & ANTHONNA COMMON                                                                                                                        | TUESDAYSin the HT Classified Section.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Biotherd S. Goldstein will be at BrussisHilton from Apr. 4 to 12 for viso con-sultations. Call or write: 63 Wall St.N.Y.C. 10005. Tel. 2129/25.8580.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 263615. Teles, 13133. ANKEADS SINCAPORESOUTH ARECA: Robin /SOUTH ARECA: Robin /                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| York every business day.                                                                                                                                   | CANNES 10 kms. from Grass, marvel-ous wild, corved stones of provincedcharacter, overlooking fire set. 2 law-sk, lorge iveng, kdy exampsed listchan,4 rentic freeplaces, 3 beachcoms, 1 loam-dry, Lorge terrace with bathacea &form one handled more last the set. | BALATTO AL MELADO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | We will act as on open for your com-pany. Rost, efficient, comfidential. E-technoCommencations, Bill CoventryIn., Nowaod, MA (2002) Televa220833 TAUR, Ah M. Cohn.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Direct from our Catting factorydiamonds are guaranteed.Open Man, thru Sat, included.                                                                                                                                                 | SAPETUS, Torgone 3, T: 252 76 21.                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Law Office Edward S. Gudeon, P.C.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | PORTUGAL: Riso Arabar, 32 Rosdos Jonekos Verdes, Linbon. (Tel.672793 8, 662544.) astburg 2000. Tel.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Send order with payment to J. PolulinyTHE WALL STREET JOURNALInternational Press Centre                                                            | <ul> <li>rustic tireptoces, 3 bedrooms, 1 journ-dry. Large terrace with barbecue &amp;pizza over, heated cool. Lond with</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                              | Lisoury aportment house with furnishedflats, available for 1 week and morefrom 500 a day for two.Phone: 579(22), 67(3450,Write, Via dai Velatoro 16,00165 Romes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Lin, Norwood, MA 02062. Telesu220883 TAUR, An M. Cohs.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | SIDIAM INVESTMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | OFFICES FOR RENT                                                                                                                               | SECRETARIES AVAILABLE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Law Office Edward S. Gudeon, P.C.43 Dover Street, London W1X 380,Telex 261507, Tel: 01 453 (032).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | SCANDINAVIA: Peter KoningKungsholmagatan 10, 11227 of Hana, International Tribuna, 244                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 76 Shoe LonsLondon E.C. 4, England                                                                                                                     | bitto oven, hadred pool, Lond withbeoutiful garden & tennis, Judifiedhigh price. Write Box 835, Herald Tri-bone, 92521 Neuilly Cades, France.                                                                                                                                  | Write. Via del Velabro 16,00186 Rome.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | DON'T VISTI PARS ALONE. Toke ohigh standard private guide with cor.Call AFOS: 541 01 89/529 5575.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Brussele: 1509 Centre Int. Rogier,1.5th Roor. 02/218 28 83.                                                                                                                                                                              | LONDON: MAYFAR, lecury offices200-240-300-340-490-1350-2400 sq. ft.Tek London 734 5334.                                                | GK Consultants, Paris 225 12 94.NEED A TEMPORARY SECERARY?Col-GR. Interior, Paris 225 59 25.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | U.S. UNINGRATION VISAS, Toher. 20,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | SCANDINAVIA: Peter Konig USA: Sondy O'Horo, InteKungshoinsgeten 10, 11227 of Herad Tribure, 444 JSocchains, Sweden, Tele, 105 Ava, New York 10022516870 - Teles, 17951 NCA. 212-522 3800 ()                                                                                                                                                                  |